

OLDER YOUTHS ON PROBATION

Juvenile Witness Tells How He Led Hubcap Theft Ring of Several Boys

A juvenile (under 16 years old) West End boy, placed on the stand as a state's witness in Moore Recorder's Court Monday, glibly told of having been the leader of a hubcap-stealing ring composed of four other juveniles and one 17-year-old and one 18-year-old, which has for some time past plagued Pinehurst police.

The other juveniles did not testify. All the juveniles, whose names are omitted because of their age, were remanded to Welfare authorities for investigation and possible action in juvenile court.

The West End boy testified that he did the actual stealing of the hubcaps while the others stood around and watched. He stationed them where he wanted them as lookouts, he said. All are from the West End-Jackson Springs area.

On trial for aiding and abetting and larceny were the two older youths, Robert Wayne Carroll, 17, of Jackson Springs and Tommie Bowman, 18, of West End. The particular case involved the theft of hubcaps from the car of Arthur Joseph, a Pinehurst hotel guest, the night of January 30. That night and the next the boys came to Pinehurst to steal hubcaps, said the young witness.

According to Pinehurst Police Chief J. T. Shepherd, the hubcap larcenies had taken place over a period of several weeks. The case had been broken with the help of Constable Oscar W. Bailey of West End after James Corbin, a hotel employee, had missed four hubcaps of distinctive design, and learned they had been seen on a car at West End. The car was found to belong to Curtis Glover of West End, who told Bailey he had bought them from the juvenile witness.

Carroll and Bowman were placed on probation for two years, with six months' road sentences suspended on payment of a joint fine of $25 and costs, with conditions that they not drive cars in the State during the next 12 months, and that they conform in all ways to probationary terms of the State for the two-year period.

The stolen hubcaps, said Judge J. Vance Rowe, were to be returned to their owners. Those taken from the Joseph car were valued at $50.

County School Board Association Endorses Consolidation Program

The Moore County School Board Association composed of the local committeemen of the eleven school districts in Moore County met recently in the Cameron School cafeteria, with every district represented. The principal from each school accompanied the committeemen from his school.

Ralph Wallace of the Cameron school is president of the Association and presided at the meeting.

Attorney Harry Fullenwider of Southern Pines was the speaker of the evening. In his remarks to the group, Mr. Fullenwider said, "Professional educators should keep the people informed and take a closer look at a twelve-month school program. If people were properly informed, they would support a good educational program, even if it meant spending more money."

The group then divided into "buzz session" groups to discuss various phases of high school consolidation. Following this short session, the chairman of each group made a report to the entire

Dr. W. E. Alexander of Robbins spoke on "How Will Consolidated High Schools Improve our Instructional Program." He pointed out that the economics of a community affect the instructional program and that larger schools will attract better teachers and enable more satisfactory grouping for instruction.

Paul Green of Farm Life led the discussion on "What Effect Consolidation Will Have on the Elementary School." He mentioned that needed playground space would be available, schedules improved, and there would be an improved physical education program for all children and a greater challenge to teachers and pupils.

Paul VonCanon of West End reported on "What Will Happen to the Present High School Plants?" He stated that all facilities would be utilized by the elementary schools and there would be room for future expansion.

Jimmy Garner of Westmoore stated that there was agreement in his group that our high schools should be consolidated into three units.

In reporting on "How Should Our Program Be Financed," Jack Morgan of Vass-Lakeview said his group had agreed that a bond election seemed the plausible solution.

After these reports, an open discussion was led by R. E. Lee, superintendent of Moore County Schools. During the discussion, the Association went on record as unanimously endorsing the proposed consolidation program for Moore County to have three high school units.

Three members of the County Board of Education were present: J. A. Culbertson, T. Roy Phillips and Howard Matthews.

Jack Morgan of the Vass-Lakeview School District was elected president for the coming year.
