

Union Seminary Students to Take Part in Programs

Four students from Richmond's Union Theological Seminary will present a series of programs to the Senior High Fellowship of Brownson Memorial Presbyterian Church this weekend, April 23 and 24.

Two members of the four-man team, Bob Birch and Sid Bowman, will teach in the Brownson Memorial Church School; Jim Barksdale will preach in the Manly Presbyterian Church and Louis Zbinden will participate in the Manly Church service.

Senior High Fellowship members from Bethesda, Manly, Culdee, West End, Lakeview, Eureka and Jackson Springs Churches are expected to be on hand for the meetings and are requested to bring a bag supper for Sunday evening.

Tentative schedule for the weekend is as follows: Saturday from 7:00-9:30 p.m.—recreation led by the team and closing with a devotional; Sunday from 3-4:45 p.m.—discussion groups led by the four visitors; supper from 5:5-4:5 p.m. and at 5:45 a dedication service in the sanctuary.

Duke Minister To Preach Here Sunday Evening

The Rev. Howard Wilkinson, minister of the Duke University Chapel, will preach at Brownson Memorial Presbyterian Church Sunday evening at 8 o'clock. Dr. Wilkinson is former minister of Shelby, Lexington, and Charlotte First Methodist Churches, and is now the Chaplain to the Duke University student body.

This will be the first of four special evening services to be held at Brownson Memorial during April, May, and June, which will bring to the community outstanding clergymen and laymen. The second such service will be on the evening of May 15, when Edwin L. Jones, president of J. A. Jones Construction Co., Charlotte, will speak.

Arrangements have been made by the Session Evangelism Committee. The public is invited.

TALENT SHOW

Other young people taking part in the talent show will be:

From Pinehurst—piano solo by Betsy Grier; vocal solo, Bettye Louise McCaskill; vocal trio, Geraldine Baldwin, Delores Cole and Barbara Cole, both vocal numbers accompanied by Ann Holdis.

The Pinebluff Music Club will present dancers Judy Woodcock and Kathy McMurray, accompanied by Saraleslie Alpert and Becky Brooks, all introduced by Susan Thompson. Sylvia Thompson will render a vocal solo.

From Aberdeen, Gloria Cruce will give a piano solo, Vicki Hardister a dance, and Libby Voss a recitation. Linda Edwards will give a piano solo.

From West End, Nancy Martin and Patsy Monroe will give vocal solos, accompanied by Beverly Vest. Brenda Richardson will give a dramatic recitation.

America's increased population is expected to require 61 per cent more broilers by 1975.

Area Development System Praised by Dr. Weaver as 4-County Group Meets

Dr. David S. Weaver, director of the State Extension Service, in an address last Thursday morning to the bi-monthly meeting of the Sandhills Area Development Association, praised the development groups as one of the "most wonderful devices yet devised to lift ourselves by our boot straps."

"We take our own ideas and develop them instead of running to Raleigh or Washington," said the speaker.

Speaking at the business meeting of the Sandhills Area group in the conference room of the National Bank of Sanford, Dr. Weaver reminded his audience of 104 from the four counties of Lee, Moore, Montgomery and Richmond that today's most valuable and most wasted resource is people.

Farming State

North Carolina is still an agricultural state, said Weaver despite its rapid industrialization. It is the only State he said where the size of the average farm acreage has not grown. The average farm in North Carolina remains at 25 acres, and has for the past 25 years.

"The farmer is a great consumer, and we who work with farmers know he is a man often hard to change. But his challenge like others around the world today, is whether out of his abundance he too, will share with the group and the community, or take the step backward which begins with apathy and in the end results in disaster."

"The area development movement is a mighty current in developing the type of leadership that will make apathy impossible," Dr. Weaver said.

Gilmore Presides

Voit Gilmore, Southern Pines, president of the area, presided and asked for reports from the four committees through which the development work is funneled. Clay Bruton, Mt. Gilead chairman of agricultural development, and Reuben DuBose, Troy, community development chairman, reported. Two chaimen were absent.

DuBose said that 13 communities are actively organized in community development work, 4 in Lee, 5 in Montgomery and 4 in Moore county. May 5 is the deadline for official entry in the improvement contest. Chairmen from the various participating communities and counties of the area will meet with DuBose on April 28 in Troy at 2:30 p.m.

County chairmen recognized were Lee, Harvey Faulk; Montgomery, Austin Garris; Moore, J. M. Steed; and Richmond, J. C. Liles.

Lee county SADA workers and their visitors met for a luncheon session at noon at the Wilrik Hotel. D. B. Teague, city attorney, told the "Lee County Story" as regards its search for industry, followed by an industrial tour of Sanford.

Mrs. Lewis, 76, West End, Dies

Mrs. Nola Lewis, 76, died at her home at West End early Wednesday.

Funeral services were to be held at West End Presbyterian Church at 3 p. m. today, conducted by the Rev. George Houck, pastor, with interment in West End cemetery.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. C. M. Patterson, Carthage, Mrs. L. A. Gordon of King, and Mrs. R. N. McCracken, Hamlet; one son, Clayton Lewis, Kannapolis, and six grandchildren.

CANDIDATES

W. C. Barrett, Carthage Republican, filed as a candidate for the State House of Representatives, a post he has sought before.

Republican candidates for county commissioners are:

District 1, J. J. Pilon; District 2, W. C. Garner; District 4, H. H. Pethick; District 5, Floyd T. Cole. In District 3, the Republicans were unable to get a commissioner candidate.

Mr. Pethick, of Southern Pines, is a member of the town council here. If elected, he would have to resign from the council because of the rule against double officeholding, but is not required to resign to make the race for county commissioner.

Oscar Bailey, incumbent constable of Mineral Springs township filed for nomination on the Republican ticket.

Republican candidates for membership on the county board of education are:

Alex H. Thomas of District 1; Frank Trotter of District 2; and Drewry Troutman of District 5.

While the Republicans have a candidate for the State Senatorial nomination, the Democrats have none because of a rotation agreement by which Moore County alternates with Hoke in providing Senatorial candidates. (Harnett County alternates with Randolph in providing the other candidate for the two State Senators elected from the four-county 12th District.) Wilbur Currie of Carthage, Democrat, is the current senator who served in the 1959 session. Hoke County will provide the candidate for service in the 1961 assembly. The rotation system is a party agreement. Republicans can file for State senator from anywhere in the district.

Consolidation Issue? First of the county commissioner candidates to take a stand on a major question—indicating that proposed county-wide high school consolidation might become an issue in the primary campaign—was Eugene B. Cook of Route 3, Carthage, Democrat who is opposing incumbent John M. Currie of Carthage for the District 1 county commissioner nomination.

Mr. Cook, 44, is a member of the Farm Life District school board. In a political advertisement placed in county papers this week, he says that he is "very much in favor of super high schools where needed and wanted by the people."

He is a salesman for a South Carolina drug company and is married to the former Pauline Short. They have two daughters, Paula and Loretta. Mrs. Cook was employed for several years as bookkeeper by the Sandhill Lumber Co. at Manly. Mr. Cook is a member of Summer Hill Baptist Church, which is located near his home, and is serving as church clerk and a member of its board of trustees.

MR. O'CALLAGHAN

Mr. O'Callaghan was born in Washington, D. C., son of the late Patrick H. and Mary Elizabeth O'Callaghan.

During World War I, he served with the 316th Field Artillery of the famed 81st Division in France. He held the rank of sergeant and had a fine service record.

After moving to Southern Pines not long after World War I, Mr. O'Callaghan became active in the American Legion and its fun and honor society, the 40 and 8. He had served as commander of the local American Legion Post and also headed the 40 and 8 as chef de gare. He later became a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Southern Pines Elks Lodge.

He was a member of St. Anthony's Catholic Church and in 1947 was elected vice-president for the eastern district of the North Carolina Catholic Laymen's Retreat Association, as he headed a delegation of local Catholics at the annual laymen's retreat at Belmont Abbey.

Prominent and active locally in the plumbing and heating business, Mr. O'Callaghan served for a time as a director of the State plumbing and heating association.

His first wife, the former Callie A. Black of Pinehurst, died in 1945. He later married Mrs. Mary Wallace Frye of Pinehurst.

Surviving are his wife; a daughter, Mrs. Albert D. Hurst of Southern Pines; three sons, L. V., Jr. of Myrtle Beach, S. C.; Joseph Patrick, of Southern Pines, and John M., of Lowry Air Force Base, Colo.; 10 grandchildren; and four sisters, Mrs. Louise Kane and Miss Ruth Richter, both of Washington, D. C., Mrs. Jerry Graham of Duarte, Calif., and Mrs. Albert Murphy of New Jersey. (Miss Richter, though Mr. O'Callaghan's full sister, was adopted by an aunt, after their mother died when she was very young, and took another name.)

(An editorial on page 2, written before the record was consulted, incorrectly states that Mr. O'Callaghan had retired from town government more than 10 years ago. As noted above, his formal retirement came in 1953 when he declined to become a candidate again.)

Flora Macdonald Finals Announced

Speakers for the 1960 commencement at Flora Macdonald College have been announced by college authorities.

The commencement weekend will begin, as usual, with Alumnae Day, which will be this year on Saturday, May 28, and will feature Mrs. J. Z. Watkins, retiring president of the North Carolina Parent-Teacher Congress, as guest speaker. Mrs. Phebe Emmons of Raleigh is alumnae president. The annual Commencement Concert will be presented on Saturday evening by Conservatory students.

The baccalaureate speaker on Sunday, May 29, at 11 o'clock, will be Dr. G. Ray Jordan, professor of Homiletics and chapel preacher at Candler School of Theology, Emory University. Dr. Price H. Gwynn, Jr., academic dean of the College, will conduct Senior Vespers on the front lawn Sunday evening at seven o'clock.

Honor for Garden Club Announced

The Southern Pines Garden Club has been awarded a certificate of commendation from Governor Hodges and the Keep North Carolina Beautiful executive committee, it was announced this week.

The award was presented as part of the state group's program to promote and officially recognize the efforts of citizens towards improving the appearance of their communities through landscaping and gardening.

Singled out for note among the achievements of the local club were the plantings at all schools, at the town hall and the town entrances, and the recently inaugurated window-box project, where the boxes, erected by merchants, are planted with box ivy and, in summer, bright flowers.

WELCOME
To visitors from far and near
And at this Easter time of year
For all blooming things
(And Garden Clubs)
An extra cheer!
