Art of Old Japan Is Current Show In Library Gallery

The Library Gallery is putting on its—probably—final exhibition of the season, going out, according to the Committee, "in a blaze of glory."

The current exhibit is part of a collection of Japanese art loaned to the Gallery by Paul Green of Chapel Hill.

The North Carolina playwright and novelist, who went to Japan several years ago on a special mission to visit the centers of dramatic art, the universities and the museums, gathered together at that time a collection that includes prints, books—many fancifully illustrated—and objets d'art. Of special interest are the items centering around the famous classic Kabuki Theatre of Japan.

The loan exhibit includes examples of these various items, also two large hand-painted posters, used in Japan as playbills, which are on view in the North Carolina Room adjoining the gallery.

The exhibit will be changed in mid-June with another selection of prints from Mr. Green's collection.

SCHOOLS TO CLOSE

Official closing time for the East Southern Pines elementary and high schools will be 2:30 p.m., Wednesday, June 8, Supt. Luther A. Adams announced today. Normal closing time each day is 3 p.m.

N. L. Hodgkins Named Chairman Education Board

Norris L. Hodgkins was chosen chairman of the Southern Pines city board of education when the board met last night for the first time with its two new members, J. E. Sandlin and Mrs. Walter Harper. Other members of the board, both present, are Harry J. Menzell and P. I. York.

The new members, appointed by the town council, replaced John M. Howarth and Dr. Vida C. McLeod. Mr. Sandlin and Mrs. Harper signed their official oaths of office last night.

The board authorized the chairman and secretary—Luther A. Adams, schools superintendent—to sign a contract with Hayes, Howell and Associates, local architectural firm, to draw preliminary plans for a new West Southern Pines High School, at a cost not to exceed $4,500, the fee to be credited against the architect's total fee when the school is built.

Estimated to cost between $200,000 and $250,000, the school would replace the present high school which has been severely criticized for its condition by the Moore County grand jury. Funds for the school are being requested from the county commissioners, with likelihood that only a portion of the amount, if any, would be appropriated this year.

Tennis Assn. Has Fund Drive; Dates Of Tournaments Set

The Sandhill Tennis association, with an active season already underway, is conducting a membership campaign to replenish the treasury against expenses of the coming months.

Letters have been sent out signed by Mrs. R. M. McMillan, president, seeking dues of $1 for adults and 50 cents for students, with as much more as contributors want to give.

Major expenses will be trophies and balls for tournaments, the Junior Invitational of August 1-4 and the Senior Invitational of August 11-14—sanctioned events which annually draw some of the top Tar Heel players, along with net stars from nearby states.

The association is cooperating with the summer recreation program in regular tennis instruction, tournament management, etc. John McMillan will be instructor, with Julian Pleasants serving during the early part of the summer. One successful clinic for junior players has already been held, with Malcolm Clark and Mrs. Shaw McKean as instructors.

League Schedule
The association will also field a team in the "B" League of the Eastern Carolina Tennis association, with schedule as follows:

June 5, Raleigh at Chapel Hill, Southern Pines at Sanford.

June 12, Chapel Hill at Sanford, Southern Pines at Raleigh.

June 19, Chapel Hill at Southern Pines, Sanford at Raleigh.

Betty Sue Black, Elsie Garrison Win Scholarships for Training as Nurses

Two fortunate young girls graduating this week at high schools in Moore county received SVA nurse training scholarship awards at their final exercises.

Betty Sue Black, graduating Monday night at Farm Life, and Elsie Garrison, valedictorian of her class at Pinehurst Wednesday night, were presented the awards by Don Traylor of Southern Pines, president of the Sandhills Veterans Association.

Elsie is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ira P. Garrison, and Betty Sue of Mrs. Betty Black, all of Route 3, Carthage.

Chosen as alternate was Barbara Dunn, daughter of Mr. and

Eddy Building Sold to Smiths

Announcement was made today of sale of the Eddy Building on W. Pennsylvania Ave., by Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Stevens to Lt. Col. and Mrs. F. M. Smith. The transaction was handled by Sam Richardson.

The building houses the Vogue Beauty Shop on the ground floor, along with a vacant store space occupied until recently by Larry Men's Shop which has closed its local store.

The second floor of the building is occupied by the Rowe and Rowe law offices.

The property sold includes the small lot between the building and the Austin Business Machine Co.

RIDDLE NAMED TO SCOUT POST

Charles Riddle, a native of Raleigh, who is graduating this week from High Point College, will succeed Joe Woodall as Moore District Boy Scout executive, said J. B. Perkinson, district chairman.

Riddle will go to Schiff Scout Reservation, Mendham, N. J., immediately following his graduation to take the six-week Scout executive training course. He has had experience on the staff of Camp Durant, the Oconeechee Council camp, for the past several summers.

Mrs. W. C. Dunn of Aberdeen, a Monday night graduate at Aberdeen High school.

The three girls, all 18 years old, have been outstanding in their respective schools. They were selected from a group of applicants on the basis of intelligence, character, personality, general merit and special aptitude for their chosen profession. One of them, Betty Sue Black, already has experience in it—she has worked as a nurse aide at Moore Memorial Hospital for the past two summers, and will do so again this summer.

The scholarships will pay all expenses—tuition, books, uniforms and all incidentals, including pocket money—for the three-year training course at High Point Memorial Hospital. The only condition is that the young registered nurse, following graduation, return to Moore County to practice her profession.

The winners will join other young women who since 1947 have through the SVA been enabled to train for a nursing career. This is the original project of the SVA, an independent group of World War 2 veterans of Sandhills communities, organized in 1946 for purposes of fellowship and service. The project represents their contribution toward (Continued on page 8)

Woodall, Scout Executive, Leaving

Joe Woodall, Moore District Boy Scout executive, is being transferred after nearly three years of service. He will report June 15 as executive of the Shawnee District, one of two large districts covering portions of Durham county and the city of Durham.

J. B. Perkinson, Moore District chairman, announcing the Woodall transfer, said, "All our best wishes go with Joe, and he deserves them. He is one of the finest young men I ever knew, with splendid character and personality. He has served our District well and it has been a joy to work with him."

As signs of progress made by the Moore District, which includes all of Moore County, during the period of Woodall's service, Perkinson pointed out that (Continued on Page 8)

Sanford Wins in Moore; Incumbents Hold Seats

(Tabulation of Moore County Vote, Page 8)

Terry Sanford of Fayetteville, the Democratic gubernatorial candidate who failed to get a majority of the North Carolina votes cast in Saturday's primary and is now engaged in a second primary campaign against his runner-up, I. Beverly Lake of Wake Forest, won a majority in Moore

County, in the four-way race for the nomination for governor, polling 2,561 votes.

Malcolm B. Seawell of Lumberton, a native of adjoining Lee County—the only county in the state where he was the front runner—came in second in Moore with 1,094 votes. Not far behind was Lake with 1,020. John D. Larkins, Jr., of Trenton trailed well behind in this county, getting only 211.

Larkins ran fourth in the state as a whole where Sanford led Lake by more than 80,000 votes—not enough to win him a majority of all the votes cast and the nomination. Seawell had a slight lead over Larkins, placing him third in the state-wide voting.

For lieutenant governor, Moore gave its biggest vote to David McConnell of Charlotte, who had 1,332, closely edged by H. Cloyd Philpott with 1,846. C. V. Henkel brought up the rear with 782 votes.

In the senatorial race, the county went handsomely for Addison Hewlett, with 2,918 votes—seen as a vote of confidence in Rep. H. Clifton Blue of Aberdeen as well as in the candidate from New Hanover County. Blue is said to have encouraged his fellow legislator to run, and helped engineer his campaign as he did Hewlett's successful bid for speakership of the House in 1959.

Of his man's statewide defeat by Senator B. Everett Jordan, Blue said Saturday night, "Hewlett ran a good race and we are not disappointed. It was an uphill climb against a widely known incumbent. Wherever Hewlett could go personally, he made friends, but it was not humanly possible for him to meet enough people. I am satisfied his career has been helped and not hurt by this race."

Also in the Senate race, Gregory won 85 votes and McIntosh 91, in Moore County.

Incumbents won handily in the two other state contests in Moore County. Associate Justice Moore garnered 3,320 votes to Coker's 287, and Insurance Commissioner Gold getting 3,370 to Frederick's 1,006.

The total county vote was some 200 less than in the 1958 primary, and was considered a light vote, probably because only three local contests were offered. All were for seats on the board of county commissioners, and all three incumbents won, though one of them—J. M. Pleasants of Southern Pines (District 4) had a close call. It took the preponderant vote of his home precinct of Southern Pines, the county's largest, to put him over with a total of 2,491 votes against J. E. Causey's 2,226. John M. Currie of Carthage (District 1) had 2,859 over the 1,725 of his opponent Eugene B. Cook. Tom R. Monroe of Robbins, (District 2) topped the entire ticket with 3,010, while challenger Billy J. Poley of Route 1, West End, had 1,379.

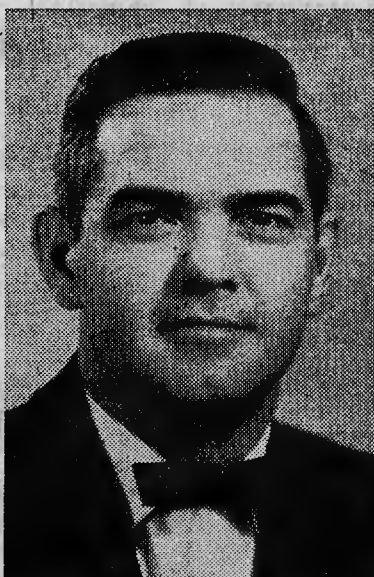

Moore Republicans displayed little interest in their state primary, with about 100 votes reported.

For lieutenant governor, Batten led in Moore with 50 votes, followed by Bailey with 36 and Eggers with 23.

In the only other Republican primary race for state offices, Clifton polled 64 votes for insurance commissioner, against 39 for Cameron.

There was no Republican primary race for any county office.

(Note: In the tabulation of the Moore County vote to be found elsewhere in today's Pilot, the totals are the official totals as certified by the Moore County board of elections, but precinct figures are unofficial, listed before the vote was canvassed. Most of them are identical with the official returns but there may be some discrepancies.)
