AIRPORT

Pinehurst would contribute up to $5,000 each to match the county funds. With money the commissioners had on reserve or had already planned to budget, this would produce approximately the amount needed.

Mr. Sandlin said the Southern Pines town board and Pinehurst, Inc., had been "most cooperative," and that he had also approached the Aberdeen town board, asking $2,000 and feeling Aberdeen also would benefit from the airport improvement. However, the Aberdeen board had postponed decision.

To satisfy a legal requirement that Town funds can be expended only where there is a direct interest, the commissioners signed a lease agreement with Southern Pines for five years, subject to renewal, extending to the town and its citizens "full rights and privileges" of the airport.

The agreement with the FAA designates the total fund for use in acquiring land and constructing a NE/SW runway 4,500 by 150 feet, and stub taxiway to existing apron; performing pavement markings, relocating existing lights and installing new runway lights as required, and performing the approach clearing for the runway.

It provides that the final payment of federal funds will not be made until the Sponsor (Moore County) has satisfied the FAA that the approach areas have been protected by adoption of a zoning ordinance and regulations, and necessary easements, to prevent "creation, establishment, erection or construction" of airport hazards in the immediate vicinity.

The project will make the Moore County airport fully modern and adapted to present-day long-line airplanes, permitting such craft as Piedmont Airlines' turboprop planes to land and take off by night as well as by day. It was necessary before Piedmont, now serving the airport on east-west flights on a seasonal basis, could consider expansion of such service to a year-round schedule, or by adding a north-south connection. These are both rated highly desirable for future industrial and business growth of the Sandhills.

A north-south schedule by Piedmont, linking the airport here with Raleigh-Durham, is expected to start in the fall, having already been authorized by the FAA.

Realtors Hear History of Organization Told by Speaker at Meeting Held Here

Three officials of the N. C. Association of Realtors met Friday with members of the Southern Pines Board of Realtors and salesmen for the member firms. Following the morning business and discussion session, the local Board was host to the officials and several guests at a luncheon in the Golden Door adjoining Howard Johnson's Restaurant.

The visitors were Oscar I. Wrenn, president of the State Association, and Herb Wentworth, executive secretary, both of Greensboro, and B. C. Parker of Burlington, regional vice president for this area.

George H. Leonard, Jr. of Resort Realty is president of the Southern Pines Board of Realtors which is associated with the State group and the National Association of Real Estate Boards. Other local member realty firms represented at the meeting were Barnum Realty and Insurance Co. by John S. Ruggles, who was also present as mayor of Southern Pines; Mrs. Julia Steed of Steed Realty Co.; Joseph I. Scott of Scott Realty Co.; and Lt. Col. Frank M. Smith of The Pines Realty Co.

Guests for the luncheon included J. D. Arey, Jr., of Aberdeen, president of the Sandhills Board of Realtors; J. L. McGraw and Jamie Loy of Carthage; and R. F. Hoke Pollock of Southern Pines, president of the Moore County Bar Association. In a talk at the luncheon, Mr.

Wentworth traced the history of organized real estate boards, starting with formation of real estate "exchanges" in the 1850's. The oldest known such association was set up in Baltimore in 1858, he said.

Some exchanges were formed in the 1860's and 1870's, he said, notably in Cleveland, Ohio, and in California. In 1892, real estate representatives from 17 states formed an organization in a meeting at Nashville, Tenn.

The first National Association was formed in 1908 and in 1913 became the second business organization in the nation to adopt a code of ethics, the speaker stated. In 1916, the word "realtor" was adopted to designate a member of the Association, as distinguished from other real estate brokers.

The National Association of Real Estate Boards was formed in 1922 under the present name, carrying forward and consolidating the activities of the former national organization, Mr. Wentworth said.

North Carolina now has 44 boards of realtors, with almost 1,200 members, he said. The speaker also discussed various items of legislation in the N. C. General Assembly and Congress at Washington, explaining the reasons for disapproval by the State and National Associations of certain bills affecting the real estate business.
