The award was presented for the project of rebuilding the Robert Kennedy home that burned last December, in which the Kennedy's youngest daughter lost her life. ### Patrol Installed At St. Anthony's

Members of the Boys Safety Patrol and the Girls Auxiliary Patrol, of Saint Anthony's School, have been installed by Police Chief Earl Seawell.

In speaking to the students, Chief Seawell stressed the importance of the role of the Safety Patrol in the community and expressed his good wishes to the boys and girls who had been appointed to the nation-wide organization.

Saint Anthony's Safety Patrol is one of the many such organizations recognized by the North Carolina A. A. A. Its aim is to train boys and girls to assume responsible roles as members of the Southern Pines community.

Men of Church at Pinehurst Reelect Daniel McDonald

Daniel McDonald was re-elected president of the Men of the Church of Pinehurst Community Church at the dinner meeting Wednesday evening in the church's fellowship hall.

Other officers elected for 1962 were Ray Hensley, vice-president; Roger Paschal, secretary and Thomas R. McKenzie, treasurer. Lewis S. Cannon gave the devotional and Billy G. McKenzie had charge of the program on Scouting. He showed a film of the local Boy Scout troop taken on a trip made last year.

Baptist Group Has Record Attendance

The Sandhills Baptist Association had a record attendance for its 12th annual sessions held Thursday and Friday of last week.

The opening session Thursday evening was held at the First Baptist church in Aberdeen and the Friday session at Lemon Springs church in Lee County.

The Rev. C. A. Kirby, pastor of the First Baptist church of Carthage, was elected moderator to succeed the Rev. R. D. Spear, pastor of First Baptist church in Aberdeen.

GOING PLACES

Last week Voit Gilmore, director of the U. S. Travel Service, called his family from Berlin.

It was his birthday and, after H.B.T.Y. had been fittingly sung by the four children up on Indiana Avenue, the two parents took over to give them details of the trip. Most intriguing was the news that from their room in the Berlin Hilton Hotel, the Gilmores could look over into East Berlin and see the guards patrolling behind their barbed wire.

Now comes a card: "Today we stood with families waving to their dear ones across the Communist wall in East Berlin—a sad, sad spectacle of a modern tragedy. Also we drove through East Berlin out to a Russian military post."

So an American can go to a Russian military post in East Berlin! Wonders never cease. And so this travelling salesman cum laude keeps going. From Pole to post.

AT ST. JOSEPH'S

Mrs. J. Reid Healy slipped on a rug Wednesday evening while visiting at the home of a Knollwood friend, and broke her left leg. She was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital where she is reportedly getting along very well.

THEATRE SUNRISE

Bergman is back! In "Goodbye Again," which opens Sunday at the Sunrise Theatre, through United Artists release, Ingrid Bergman stars with Yves Montand and Anthony Perkins in the dramatic study of loneliness, frustration and love which made Francoise Sagan's novel, "Aimez-vous Brahms" a best-selling book both here and abroad.

In this story of how love is, and always will be, Miss Bergman plays a woman of forty who, tired of being stood up by a lover her own age, becomes involved with a young man fifteen years her junior. Yves Montand plays the sophisticated and restless older man and Anthony Perkins, who won the "Best Actor" award for his role in "Goodbye Again" when it was shown at the Cannes Film Festival, is the younger man.

This marks the third book by Miss Sagan to be translated into English and into motion pictures. Earlier, her "Bonjour Tristesse" and "A Certain Smile" were successfully adapted for the screen. Now Samuel Taylor has written a tender and exciting screenplay for "Goodbye Again" retaining the subtle nuances of complex human emotions.

Need For Address System in Carthage Courtroom Noted

The county commissioners at a special meeting Wednesday afternoon discussed the installation of a public address system for the courtroom, also a rest room for women jurors and witnesses which could be installed on the second floor near the courtroom with little remodeling.

C. C. Kennedy, clerk of court, spoke to the commissioners of the need for both of these items, reminding them that several grand juries have noted the need.

The public address system, he said, could be installed with two microphones and four amplifiers, without great expense. At present, he said, the jury has a hard time hearing witnesses and a great effort is placed on the judge in making his charge to the jury. As for the rest room, he noted that there is none for women nearer to the courtroom than the first floor.

The commissioners discussed both items with favor, postponing decision pending further study, till their November meeting. Chairman L. R. Reynolds said they had already asked Mrs. Estelle Wicker, county accountant, to get some comparative prices on the public address system.

4-H Development Fund Kickoff Set Wed., November 1

George Ross, county chairman for the 4-H Club Development Fund, has announced that Wilton H. Brown, cashier and manager of the Carolina Bank in Carthage, has accepted the position of treasurer.

Purpose of the project is to provide college scholarships for deserving 4-H members and to build camping facilities. The project is being conducted statewide with an over-all goal of $1 million.

The $5,000 goal for Moore County will be broken down into town and community quotas. Committees in each area will work to raise their part of the funds. Industry, small businesses, civic clubs or civic groups and individuals will be asked to contribute to the 4-H Club Development Fund. Mr. Brown will receive the donations. Headquarters for the organization will be in Carthage.

Mr. Ross pointed out that there are over a thousand 4-H Club members in Moore County. These boys and girls come from both urban and rural communities. He said that the 4-H Club Program in Moore County "has been very active for a long time and that interest in the organization is high."

There will be a kick-off meeting for the 4-H Development program on Wednesday, November 1 at the Carthage High School, with a barbecue supper that will be served by 4-H Club members. Lex Ray, chairman of the North Carolina Agriculture Foundation, will speak to the group. Many of the civic clubs throughout the county plan to attend this supper meeting. The general public is also invited. 4-H Club Members are selling tickets. The proceeds from the supper will be used as a starter for the 4-H Development Fund drive.

Community chairmen have been announced as follows by Mr. Ross:

West End, Billy Johnson; Robbins, Mr. and Mrs. Therman Maness; Pinehurst, Dr. Emily Tufts; Westmoore, Dan Dunlap; Eagle Springs, Lynn Martin; Glendon, Carr Paschal and Richard Dowd; Vass, John Baker; Cameron, Mrs. W. G. Ferguson; Highfalls, Terry Seawell.

Chairmen for other communities and special committees will be announced as plans progress.

CONCERTS

The group highly for their versatility; for the elan of their interpretation of the Gershwin selections and their delicacy of touch and understanding in the Mozart, Schubert and Chopin."

Mr. Muddimer stressed that this group is the ORIGINAL First Piano Quartet.

"They played to a packed house when they appeared at Weaver Auditorium in one of the early series," he said. "We believe next week's concert should draw a big crowd."

Other concerts listed for the series include: Lucile Turner, blues and folk-tune singer of record and radio fame, on Thursday, November 30; assisted by a local men's chorus; the National Opera Company in Donizetti's "Don Pasquale" on Saturday, January 27; and the North Carolina Little Symphony on Thursday, February 15.

The annual Young Musicians Concert in May will again be held at the Pinehurst Country Club, and two special concerts for members are being planned.

Officers of the Sandhills Music Association this year are besides President Muddimer, Mrs. James Boyd, president elect, Dr. W. Harrell Johnson, vice president, Mrs. John S. Ruggles, treasurer, and Mrs. William Benson, secretary. Miss Katherine Wiley heads the ticket sales committee, Shirley O. Wooster, Jr., is chairman of the membership committee, Edison J. Willis is in charge of publicity, and Dr. Charles Phillips is chairman of the program committee, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cozzens.

MINERALS

were Roy Harris, manager of the Standard Mineral Company which mines pyrophyllite near Robbins; Howard Butler of Southern Pines, president of the General Creosoting Co. of Gulf; and Reece Graham of Graham Brothers, a well-digging company of West End.

Displayed were a large color map of rock formations and a line map of place names, waterways and roads, "including practically every copath, the most accurate map ever made of Moore."

It all had to be started from scratch, beginning with aerial photos. Previous maps, largely inaccurate, and a brief 1927 survey only "caused confusion."

The full survey, which will cost the State about $35,000, won't be ready for distribution until next May or June, when some 2,500 copies will be available through the State office. It will include the two maps, with legend and symbols in explanation, and a book-length description of the minerals and soils.

In its preparation, initiated in September 1959, Dr. Stuckey paid several visits to the county and Conley has spent most of his time in field work here, partly with an assistant.

Of the 47 types of mines active in the State's history, many have existed in Moore and all which could be traced down have been marked on the maps. They include pyrophyllite, gold and coal mines, sand and gravel operations.

The pyrophyllite deposits— "probably the largest in the United States, maybe in the world," also the old gold mines lie along two major faults in the volcanic rock of upper Moore. Of coal there appears to be only a trace in the Glendon area.

VANDALISM

While much of the vandalism of highway signs comes on remote secondary roads it is by no means limited to such facilities. It is commonplace on major primary and interstate roads as well.

Not long ago a state highway official returned to Raleigh from an Asheville trip to report that he found sixteen damaged signs in a row along US 64.

On one 16-mile stretch on an interstate roadway, sign crews replaced between 50 and 75 delineators in one week. These are small glass reflectors mounted on metal posts at the edge of the shoulder and are especially helpful for nighttime driving.

The first state-sponsored trade fair opens October 12 at Charlotte to run through October 21. At Raleigh, the 94th annual North Carolina State Fair is October 16-21. The Cherokee Indian Fair in the great Smokies is October 3-7.
