Young Democrats Elect Officers, Hear Speakers

The Moore County Young Democratic club went all out Friday night in support of a native son for state YDC president.

In a resolution unanimously adopted at the annual meeting held at the courthouse, the club endorsed the candidacy of W. E. "Dub" Graham, native of Jackson Springs, now a rising young lawyer of Charlotte.

Bidding for the homefolks' support in the election to be held at the state YDC convention next month in Durham, Graham was accorded an ovation. This was the second time the Moore club had endorsed him. Two years ago he considered making the race, but later decided against it.

Two other candidates for state office made their pitches at the Moore meeting, but, though they received interested attention, in the interest of the committal to Graham the club declined to make any further endorsements. Decision between the two, Charlie Hodson of Chapel Hill and Al House of Roanoke Rapids, opponents in the national committee race, will be made at the pre-election caucus at Durham. A strong Moore delegation is in process of formation.

As is customary, all Moore YDC members in good standing who attend the state meet will be official delegates. A resolution was adopted to this effect.

Arthur Rowe, young Aberdeen attorney with office in Southern Pines, conducted the meeting. (Continued on page 9)

Students Gather Here For College, Career Guidance

Seniors of all high schools in Moore county attended a full program of conferences at the Southern Pines High school Wednesday to enable them to make a wise choice of higher education and-or of a career.

The occasion was the annual Vocational Guidance and College Career Day sponsored by the Sandhills Kiwanis club, in cooperation with the Moore County, Pinehurst and Southern Pines school systems.

J. D. Hobbs was Kiwanis chairman for the event, assisted by C. E. Powers, vocational guidance director for Moore schools, and Supt. Luther Adams of Southern Pines schools.

Chairman Hobbs presided at the opening assembly, in which Supt. Adams, Moore Schools Supt. Robert E. Lee, Kiwanis President C. R. VanderVoort and Director Powers also took part. Dr. Cheves Ligon, executive secretary of the Fayetteville Presbytery, offered an invocation.

The seniors then attended the college conference of their choice, meeting with representatives of various universities, colleges, business and industrial schools in (Continued from Page 17)

'Open House' Slated at Telephone Building

The public is invited to the formal opening of the new United Telephone Company of the Carolinas general office building at 385 W. Pennsylvania Ave., to take place Friday, November 3, from 4 to 8 p. m.

Refreshments will be served and visitors will be conducted throughout the large modern building that has 6,300 square feet of floor space and houses the executive, engineering and accounting offices for the company's operations in 21 telephone exchanges in North and South Carolina.

With John James Croft, Jr., of Asheboro as architect and the J. P. Pfeiffer Construction Co. of Rockingham as contractor, the building has outside walls of brick and interior walls of concrete block. Much of the interior wall space is finished with birch panelling.

The building has a built-up flat

AT HOME SITE—This large sign on the Weymouth Estate tract given for the proposed Episcopal Home for the Ageing tells its own story. Gathered at the site to emphasize the sign's message are, left to right: N. L. Hodgkins, treasurer of the Home's board of directors; the Rev. Martin Caldwell, first vice president of the Home and rector of Emmanuel Church here; Mayor John S. Ruggles, a member of Emmanuel Church who has been long active in its work; and, at right, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. MacDougall, administrators for the home. (Humphrey photo)

Mrs. Flippin Takes Lead in Women's Senior Golf Tournament at Pinehurst

Competition was continuing today in the 36-hole, two-day medal play North and South Senior Women's golf tournament, being conducted over the No. 1 and 3 courses at the Pinehurst Country Club. Contestants play 18 holes on each of the courses.

The fourth annual edition of the event had total entries of 230 as it began yesterday, including the 1960 title holder, Miss Maureen Orcutt of Englewood, N. J., former three times winner of the North and South Women's amateur tournament at Pinehurst.

The Pinehurst event will be concluded today, but final results were not obtainable before The Pilot's press time.

In yesterday's play, Mrs. Harrison F. Flippin of Douglassville, Pa., scored 36-39-75 on the No. 1

NO TREASURE!

A large, heavily rusted steel safe, uncovered this morning several feet underground by workmen digging a hole for a new oil tank back of the Broad Street Pharmacy, proved to hold nothing but trash and charred wood.

Lifted from the hole by the May wrecker and taken to C. D. May's auto shop and opened, the safe did not justify the excitement of a crowd that gathered when it was unearthed and speculated about what it might contain.

From the condition of the safe, Joe Montessanti, Jr., proprietor of the Broad Street Pharmacy, and others concluded that it must have been buried long ago after it had been damaged in a fire.

course to lead the field. Only players to break 80 were Miss Orcutt and Mrs. John Pennington of Buffalo, N. Y., each with 79.

Low net leaders of the field at 69 were Mrs. Flippin and Mrs. S. H. Kuhn, Class D entry from Bronxville, N. Y. Mrs. Morrison B. Orr of Piqua, O. was low in Class B with 71; while Miss Julia M. Ball of Bala-Cynwyd, Pa. and Mrs. Casper B. Ughetta of Scarsdale, N. Y. led Class C at 72 and Mrs. William F. Morton of Winchester, Mass. and Miss Margaret Sullivan of Hamilton, Ont. were low in E with 72.

The field of senior women golfers taking part includes the champion and runner-up in the U. S. Women's Seniors tournament—Mrs. Theodore W. Hawes of Summit, N. J. and Mrs. Edwin H. Vare, Jr., of Merion, Pa. Mrs. Vare is the former Glenna Collett, who won the women's National and North and South amateur championships each six times. She was the runner-up in the women's senior tournament at Pinehurst two years ago.

PLAY TRY-OUTS

Try-outs for the next production of Theatre in the Pines, local amateur theatre group, will be conducted at the town hall from 3 to 5 p. m. Sunday. Persons from throughout Moore County are invited to take part.

Plans Made For Construction of Episcopal Home

Ground will be broken in late January or early February, 1962, for the Episcopal Home for the Ageing here, it was estimated by Walter Hobbs of Charlotte, chairman of the building committee, this week.

The building committee will meet next week to give its final approval to plans being drawn by Louis Asbury, architect of several other homes for the ageing in North Carolina, including a Methodist home in Asheville and the large addition to the Methodist home in Charlotte.

Mr. Asbury expects to have the final plans completed by the first of the year, and he estimates that the ground-breaking can take place a month later. Actual construction, he believes, will take about 10 months. The home (Continued on Page 8)

Concert Sunday Evening to Open Musical Season

The big easel is once more on view out in front of the Bank and the Barnum Agency in Southern Pines, notifying folks that tickets are on sale inside. Tickets are also being sold in Pinehurst at the Carolina Pharmacy and at the Martin Motor Company in Aberdeen.

Tickets for what? Tickets, as the poster proclaims, for the first concert of the series sponsored by the Sandhills Music Association, in this case the famous FIRST PIANO QUARTET.

This group of brilliant artists with their four pianos—eight hands on four keyboards playing together as one instrument—will appear Sunday night at Weaver Auditorium at 8:30, in a program to suit every taste in piano music, from Bach to Gershwin.

Sunday's concert heads a list of four, with the probability that two special concerts will also be held for members of the Association only. The regular series includes, besides the famous piano quartet to be heard this Sunday, the appearance here of 'Cile (Continued on page 8)

Dedication of Airport Facilities Set Sunday

JAMES T. PYLE

A formal dedication ceremony and aviation display on Sunday will mark the opening of new facilities at the Southern Pines-Pinehurst airport, and the expansion of Piedmont Airlines' seasonal service to provide the long-coveted north-south air link.

James T. Pyle, deputy FAA administrator, of Washington, D. C., will be the guest speaker at the ceremony starting at 3 p. m., dedicating the new runway 4,500 feet long and 150 feet wide—a $144,000 construction project.

Voit Gilmore of Southern Pines, director of the U. S. Travel Service, just back from Berlin, will be master of ceremonies, saluting the event toward which he has long worked with other public-spirited Sandhills citizens.

Officials to Speak

Tom Davis, Piedmont Airlines president, of Winston-Salem, will also be in the program which will in addition feature greetings from representatives of the Moore County commissioners, the Moore County Airport Commission and Moore County Industrial Development Committee, sponsors of the program.

Buck McKenzie, airport manager, in his plane will cut the ribbon opening the new runway.

The public is invited, not only to the ceremony but to the display of new airplane models and parachute jumps which will feature the occasion. Static displays by Piper, Aero-Commander and Cessna, also by the U. S. Air Force at Pope AFB, will be on show from 1 p. m., and there will be parachute drops by military skydivers.

Boy Scouts will operate a concession stand, and assist in parking. (Continued on page 8)

Thomasson Heads Merchants Group

W. S. Thomasson has been elected chairman of a proposed Merchants Council to work in cooperation and be a part of the expanded Southern Pines Industrial Committee.

Members of the committee, the Industrial Advisory Committee and merchants met at the town hall, with W. Harry Fullenwider, committee chairman, presiding, Monday night.

Mr. Thomasson named the merchants and businessmen present at Monday's meeting as members of a temporary steering committee. They are E. Earl Hubbard, Gene Blackwelder, Joe Carter, Joe Kimball, Jim Ritchie, Al Levy and Stanley Austin.

Mr. Fullenwider stressed that the reason for bringing merchants into the group was to improve the Southern Pines business community. There will be no dues or assessments, he stressed, but merchants will be urged to work cooperatively for the betterment of business and service to the public in Southern Pines.

ROTARY CARNIVAL, UNICEF COLLECTION

Halloween Events Scheduled

Children and young people of the community are invited by the Southern Pines Rotary Club to take part in its annual Halloween Carnival, to be held Tuesday, starting at 6:30 p. m., on N. W. Broad St., between Pennsylvania and New Hampshire Aves.

With Harry Chatfield as general chairman, many members of the club will be assisting with the activities which include the costume parade, with prizes, from 7 to 8 o'clock; special events, from 8 to 8:45; and fun at entertainment booths opening at 8:45. A street dance is planned, with the Bob Bass orchestra, following the regular carnival, from 9:30 to 11 o'clock, primarily for teenagers.

Penny collections at booths will be given to the UNICEF (United Children's Fund) campaign.

The carnival has been held for several years at Memorial Field, but was changed to the business section this year to make it more accessible and to give more protection from possible inclement weather.

With Walter H. Daeke as general chairman, four local churches will take part on Halloween (Tuesday of next week) in a collection of funds for UNICEF—the United Nations Children's Fund.

Children from the churches and other children who wish to join the groups will go from door to door between 5:30 and 7 p. m. Tuesday, to make the collection. Funds go for food and medical treatment for needy children in many foreign nations.

The project is part of a nationwide program that has been increasingly supported for several years.

The local churches and chairmen in each are: Brownson Memorial Presbyterian, Dr. Bruce Warlick; Southern Pines Methodist, Mrs. Harry Herendeen; First Baptist, Mrs. Charles W. Kay; Mrs. Harold B. Fowler and Mrs. W. Calvin Howell; and United Church of Christ, Royster P. Gas-kill and Mr. Daeke.
