CHRISTMAS SEALS— Mrs. Sallie Baker Everett of Palmyra, State Christmas Seal Chairman; Arthur C. "Uncle Sam" Davis, Rocky Mount postman for twenty-eight years, now retired; and J. W. Porterfield, Durham County rural mail carrier, display the first 1961 Christmas Seals to be mailed in North Carolina. Letters containing Christmas Seals will be delivered by post office employees to the homes of over one-half million North Carolinians. Forrest Lockey of Aberdeen, chairman of the seal sale for the Moore County Tuberculosis Association, said that appeal letters will go out soon in this county.

No. 1 Highway Association Planning Greatly Expanded Advertising Drive

No. 1 Highway Association has announced plans for increasing its budget and expanding its advertising program. The Association has entered into a contract with Highway Guides of America of Aiken, S. C., to solicit membership and contributions for the Association from Baltimore, Md., to Miami, Fla. The expanded program calls for the immediate erection of two large outdoor billboards signs each 15 by 50 feet in size and illuminated—one to be located on the Petersburg, Va., Turnpike where U. S. No. 1 Highway and U. S. 301 Highway and Interstate Highway 95 converge, and the other 10 miles north of Henderson where Interstate Highway 85 converges with U. S. No. 1. The Association also plans to double its newspaper advertising by advertising with 30 of the largest newspapers from Washington, D. C. to Quebec and Toronto, Canada and in the spring will carry a series of newspaper ads with some of the large newspapers in Florida. The Association will also print and distribute from Canada to Florida between 200,000 and 300,000 No. 1 Highway strip maps. These maps will give complete information as to points of interest and things to see and do in each town on No. 1 Highway from Washington, D. C. to Jacksonville, Fla., but only towns on the highway that pay their proportionate part of the budget will appear on the map. Ben Haigh of Raleigh, president of the Association, stated that the expanded program was necessary in order for the north-south tourist travel, pointing out that U. S. 301 Association and U. S. 17 Highway Association both have large budgets and are doing an extensive advertising campaign. In Moore County, No. 1 Highway runs through Cameron, Vass, Southern Pines, Aberdeen and Pinebluff.

13 Divorces are Granted as Court Term Commences

(More Superior Court news elsewhere in today's Pilot).

The granting of 13 uncontested divorces marked the opening of the regular criminal term of Moore County Superior Court Monday, with Emergency Judge Q. K. Nimocks of Fayetteville replacing Judge A. H. Gwyn of Reidsville on the bench.

Divorces were granted as follows on grounds of two years' separation: Montie Mae Diggs vs. Basil Bruce Diggs; Janet Allred Knight vs. Charles P. Knight; George Jackson vs. Katherine Jackson; Opal E. Lanier vs. John G. Lanier; Mary Elizabeth Hunsucker vs. Edward Gregg Hunsucker; Odie L. Hussey vs. Virginia Magdalene Hussey; Alonzo Barrett vs. Bessie Ruth Barrett; Joann McNeill vs. Garland P. McNeill; Florence Webb Kelly vs. Edward Fletcher Kelly; Sandra Zelle Dunn vs. Robert F. Dunn; Daniel R. West vs. Helen Gordon West; Ethel Taylor Rooks vs. Major Allison Rooks; Allison P. Goodwin vs. Elizabeth Graham Goodwin.

Besides a couple of motions in civil cases, Judge Nimocks heard one case before recessing court in mid-afternoon. The criminal case, a consolidation of three in which the defendants all pleaded guilty, resulted in the following penalties: Joseph Currey Western, drunken driving, illegal possession of illicit whiskey, 60 days on roads suspended for two years on payment of $100 and costs, not to violate any laws during that time, operators' license to be suspended for 12 months; Claude Cummins and Thomas Henson Cummins, public drunkenness, illegal possession of illicit whiskey, 30 days each suspended on payment of costs. The defendants are residents of Little River township, where the arrests were made.

Farm Agent Heard by Men's Garden Club

A talk on fall planting and soil conditioning by Fleet Allen, Moore County agricultural agent, was heard by members of the Men's Garden Club meeting Wednesday night of last week at the home of William T. Shore on Saylor St. Mr. Allen emphasized better methods of installing lawns, shrubbery and trees.

THEATRE SUNRISE

Since Edgar Allen Poe fathered the modern mystery story, the suspense thriller has become the most popular of the prose forms. In part, this has been because of a succession of great motion pictures in the suspense milieu—pictures like "Rebecca," "Suspicion," "Witness for the Prosecution" and the recent smash success "Psycho." Now, Pennebaker-Baoda Productions has come up with the newest entry in the suspense sweepstakes, "The Naked Edge." Based on a story idea hitherto unexploited by films, it opens Sunday at the Sunrise Theatre. Max Ehrlich's highly successful novel, "First Train to Babylon," is the source of the United Artists release, which has as its peg a blackmail letter in a mail sack stolen by train robbers. It is recovered five years later and delivered to the original addressee—and opened by his wife. Gary Cooper and Deborah Kerr are cast in roles that represent a radical departure from their usual characterizations. An array of top talent with them includes stars Eric Portman and Hermione Gingold and such distinguished British performers as Michael Wilding, Diane Cilento, Ronald Howard, Peter Cushing, Wilfrid Lawson and the Abbey Theatre's Ray McAnally.

Vass Student Shares In Pfeiffer Program

The 60 members of the Pfeiffer College faculty at Misenheimer were honored recently by members of the Pfeiffer College Chapter of the Student National Education on the occasion of American Education Week. Sharing in the program was Miss Ann Edwards, a sophomore and an Elementary Education major. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Edwards, Jr., of Vass, she plans a career in teaching, is an active member of the Pfeiffer NEA and the Pfeiffer Mixed Chorus. She is a 1960 graduate of Vass-Lakeview High School.
