Causey Explains New Postal Rule

Many pieces of mail are not being delivered in Southern Pines (and throughout the nation) because of a new postal regulation requiring correct addresses on mail. Postmaster J. W. Causey said today.

The regulation on second, third and fourth class mail discontinues the local transfer and out-of-town forwarding of third class mail, (circulars and other similar mailing pieces). This means that incorrectly addressed mail will not be transferred locally or forwarded even though the correct address is known by the local employees at the post office.

One of the chief problems here and at other city delivery offices is mail of box holders which is addressed to the physical residence or office address. The regulations, which became effective January 10, requires the Post Office not to place mail in a lock box if it is addressed to the street address and vice versa.

If a sender marks mail with "Return Requested," then undeliverable mail will be returned to sender with correct address, if known, marked on it. Charges for return service is transient rate or 10 cents, whichever is higher, for second class mail (newspapers, magazines, etc.) and single piece rate or 8 cents whichever is higher, for third and fourth class mail.

Postmaster Causey urges everyone to inform their correspondents and publishers of their correct addresses.

28 Students on Honor Roll for Quarter at SPSHS

Twenty-eight students at East Southern Pines High School maintained a scholastic average high enough on each of the subjects they are taking to qualify for the honor roll, it is reported by Principal Glenn Cox.

These students did not have any grades on their report cards below a "B".

Bonnie Sontag maintained the top grades by earning all A's for the grading period. In order to receive an "A" on a subject, the student must average 95% or better on his or her work.

The following named students received all "A's" and "B's" on their report cards. To earn a "B" for a grading period, a student must maintain at least an 89% average for the nine week grading period. The students, whose names are listed have maintained an average grade of about 92%.
