

Southern Pines High School News

By DICKEY HOSKINS

The most outstanding event of the week was the Wednesday Chapel program. A panel of six—Joan Grover, Eddie McKenzie, Diana Bridges, Cathie Sandstrom, Ken Smithson and Dick Seymour—discussed problems dealing with the slowing down of students in school interest. The panel answered and talked about topics brought up in the questions which were collected by Dick Hoskins.

The questions concerned the school spirit which was related to the responsibilities of the student, and then they talked about the problems in the school as a result of the administration, teachers and students. After considerable discussion, it was found that the students had begun to take for granted the school plant.

It has been resolved that programs will be begun to help the general level in school interest. It is my opinion that at the turning point the students need to do some new things and have variety introduced into their schedule.

Mr. Cox felt that it did the whole system good to let the students and teachers have their chance to say something, suggest, and complain a little to someone who will listen with an open mind. Many felt that this may have been a turning point for the success of the school program.

HIGHEST HONORS

Ronny Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Lamont Brown, 465 E. Indiana Ave., has received highest honors at the McCallie School, Chattanooga, Tenn., with a scholastic average of better than 92.5 according to information from the school.

Hoke, Scotland Counties Invited Join SADA Group

The four-year-old sandhill Area Development Association composed of Moore, Montgomery, Lee and Richmond counties, may soon be enlarged by one and perhaps two more counties.

Representatives of Hoke county, currently a member of the Tarheel Area Development Association attended a luncheon meeting of the SADA executive committee held here Tuesday to express interest in changing their affiliation.

W. C. Williford, Hoke agricultural agent, and William L. Moses, of the Raeford Chamber of Commerce, said they believed Scotland County might also be interested in changing. This would leave only Robeson in the Tarheel group, from which no expression has come. The committee voted to invite all three to join SADA, extending a welcome to all or any part of them.

Authorizing the secretary to extend the invitation to K. J. Shaw of Laurinburg, TADA president, the committee set a deadline of March 15 so, if the change is made, the new member counties could join in upcoming projects of the year.

The expansion would strengthen SADA in bringing together a larger group of counties with mutual interests, according to Neal Cadieu of Rockingham, SADA president, who led the meeting, held at the Howard Johnson Restaurant.

Moore will be host for the quarterly area meeting set for Wednesday, April 25, and Fleet D. Allen, Moore agricultural agent, reported on tentative plans. These include a tour of a poultry processing plant, potteries, etc., in the Robbins area, and a number of other points of interest in upper Moore. The tour will precede a supper and business meeting at a place to be selected.

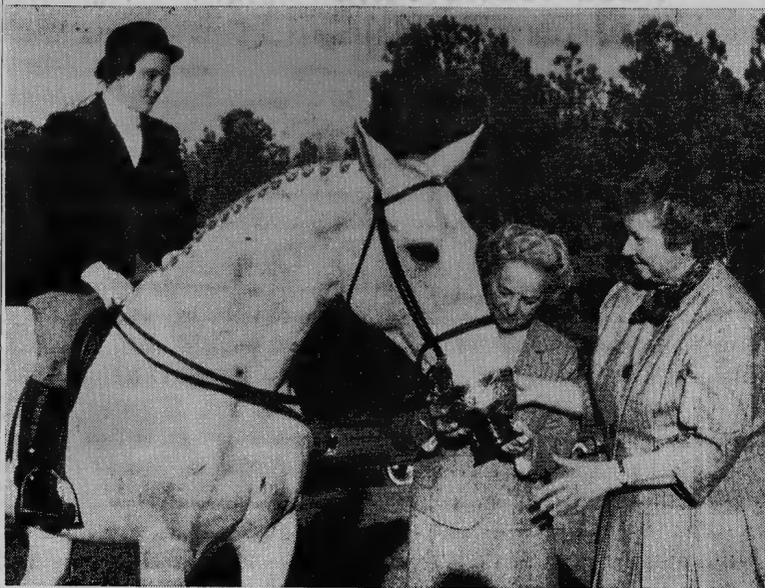

T. C. Auman of West End, president of the N. C. Mutual Peach Growers Society, was present to ask that SADA continue its cooperation with the annual Peach Festival initiated last year. This was agreed upon, with the decision made to hold the Festival as a highlight of the July SADA area meeting July 12, in Montgomery County. East Montgomery High school near Candor will probably be the site.

Alwin L. Folley of Southern Pines, chairman of the Travel and Recreation Division, reported the distribution of 15,000 Travel and Recreation brochures now in progress in all four counties, and asked that Hoke and Scotland be included. If they elect to join SADA they will be asked to assist in the distribution, and in return, Folley said, his division will assist in distributing any brochures they might have.

Folley's was one of the reports presented by the four division chairmen, who with the county chairmen and area officers compose the executive committee. Other division chairmen reporting were Mrs. D. F. Hurley of Montgomery, on Community Development; Clay L. Bruton, Montgomery, of the Agricultural Division, and Glenn Lee, of Richmond, of the Industrial Division.

Full reports on all division activities and accomplishments will be made at the April area meeting. In the meantime, the executive committee set another meeting for March 20.

Present were: Montgomery—R. W. Dozier, Austin M. Garriss, James W. Andrews, Mrs. D. W. Hurley, Clay L. Bruton. Moore—T. Clyde Auman, A. L. Folley, F. D. Allen. Lee—K. S. Harmon, Herbert L. Brewer. Richmond—H. G. Lee, J. R. Faison, Earl W. Kev, Neal Cadieu. Hoke—W. C. Williford, William

TROPHY WINNER—The Field Hunter Challenge Trophy was won Saturday by Blue Fox, owned by Miss Betty Dumaine of Pinehurst, right. Holding the trophy, in which Blue Fox seems to be finding something of interest, is Mrs. Ed Daniels who presented the trophy which is donated annually by Mr. and Mrs.

The presentation was made during the Hunter Trials of the Moore County Hounds, though Blue Fox did not take part in the trials. (Hemmer photo)

MARRIAGE-GO-ROUND

First-Night Audience Hails Comedy at Pinehurst; to Continue Thru Sunday

Broadway has come to Pinehurst in the form of a real theatrical season, and if the first offering, "The Marriage-Go-Round," to run through Sunday night, is any indication, it is going to be topnotch.

The first-night audience Tuesday night had a gorgeous time with this sparkling and sophisticated comedy, produced with that touch of real professionalism which makes all the difference.

The story of a brilliant but rather sedate professor and his college-dean wife, whose happy home is invaded by a glamor girl from Sweden with overt designs on the professor, is deft, daring and delicious. The audience, nearly filling the 440-seat Pinehurst Theatre, showed its appreciation with hilarity and applause.

Peter Hobbs as the professor, a refugee from soap-opera-land showed few traces of the woe and solemnity which marked him for eight years in "The Secret Storm." More in evidence were the charm and whimsicality which recently put him in "Thurber Carnival" as Tom Ewell's replacement on Broadway.

And one of the nicest things about him, it turns out, is his wife, Parker McCormick, a piquant pixy who, playing his stage wife in this play, is definitely not a college-dean type. Her wit, charm and grace make her more than a match for the Scandinavian predator, a tigerlike "Petty girl" named Arnette Sens who won attention in a fiery role in the long-run off-Broadway play "The Balcony."

Rounding off the cast is Bruce Hall in an incidental "other man" role, a permanent member of the company and, like Hobbs and Miss McCormick, a veteran of numerous television shows as well as live theatre.

Few of the players this season are permanent, as most will be coming from New York for one-shot runs. For the list of 10 hit plays selected by Donald Filipelli, ambitious young producer, for his second season here, he has engaged professionals with impressive credits in movies, theatre and television, including a few real "name" players.

Widely extending his promotional efforts with the aid of Willson (Gene) Lafferty as publicity director, and also extending the play runs from four to six nights, Tuesday through Sunday, he is making a bid for theatre lovers from all over the State and also South Carolina.

It will take a lot of Carolinians traveling considerable distances, to fill the house six nights a week, but judging from the sample now being offered, it will be worth it.

AT PINEHURST PLAYHOUSE

Joan DeWeese, Charles Waterman to be in 'Bus Stop' Opening Tuesday, Feb. 27

William Inge's comedy, "Bus Stop," will open the second week of the season at the Pinehurst Playhouse, starting Tuesday at 8:15 p. m. and running through Sunday, March 3 with performances at 8:30 nightly and a Saturday matinee at 2.

Taking leading roles in the story of what happens to five people stranded at a bus stop in a snow storm, 30 miles from Kansas City, will be Joan DeWeese (in the Marilyn Monroe role), Charles Waterman, Georgia Bennett, Henry Strozier and Bob Pastene.

Also appearing in the cast will be Shelly Post, Bruce Hall and James Vann.

Rocco Bufano is the director, with Frank Schmitt as stage manager and sets by Lynn Pecktal. The box office at the Pinehurst Playhouse—formerly the Carolina Theatre building in Pinehurst is open daily, 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. For reservations, call Pinehurst 294-7051 or write Box 254, Pinehurst.

GOP Chairman Charges Students Given Grade Credits, Party to Hear Sanford

James E. Harrington, Jr., of Pinehurst, chairman of the Moore County Republican Executive Committee, charged yesterday that high school students "in at least one school in this county, were offered a ten-point credit on their average grade in a subject of their choice," provided they attended one of the speeches made at several schools in the county Tuesday by Gov. Terry Sanford.

Also, he said, "the grammar grade having the best attendance (at the speech) is to be given a party."

Harrington did not name the school in which he said the offers to students were made.

L. Moses, State Extension Service, Raleigh—J. W. Crawford, director, and Mrs. Jane U. Norwood, of the community organization service.

Here is his complete statement: "In at least one school in this county, an improvement in students' grades can be attributed directly to Governor Sanford's 'education' tour.

"At this school, high school students were offered a ten-point credit on their average grade in a subject of their choice, provided they attended the Governor's speech. The grammar grade having the best attendance is to be given a party.

"This is a typical instance of the coercive 'something-for-nothing' philosophy which pervades almost every program presented now-a-days by the Democrats.

"It does not exemplify what most of us have in mind when we talk about 'quality education.'"

Many of the varieties of crops being grown today were not even known to farmers ten years ago.

New Shrine Club Installs Officers On Charter Night

The new Moore County Shrine Club observed its Charter Night and Ladies Night, with installation of officers, at a banquet held last Wednesday evening at the Southland Hotel.

Distinguished guests present included the Illustrious Potentate, John F. Hartman of Winston-Salem, and members of his Divan of Oasis Temple of Charlotte, which has jurisdiction over this area and all the western part of the State.

Officers were installed by the Illustrious Potentate as follows: Lloyd C. Woolley, Southern Pines, president; J. Edwin Causey, Lakeview, vice-president, and Walter F. Harper, Southern Pines, secretary-treasurer; and directors: Wayland R. Kennedy, Southern Pines; Hurley B. Short, Carthage; Allen A. McDonald, West End; J. Russell McRae, Vass, and Joe C. Thomas, Robert A. Lockhart and Marshall G. McRae, Southern Pines.

The charter was presented by Hartman to President Woolley, with 44 charter members listed.

Woolley extended a welcome to the Nobles and their ladies, numbering 62 in all, and for the ladies, Mrs. Clara F. Harper made response. Guests presented were, in addition to the Illustrious Potentate, the following members of the Divan, or Temple officers: Julian Helms, recorder; Karl Miller, membership chairman; Tom B. Meacham, assistant to the Potentate; Roy S. Smith, treasurer; Ralph O. Hood, chief rabban; M. Eberette Pierson, past Potentate, all from Charlotte, and Bob C. Harrington, Thomasville, ambassador.

Noble Hartman congratulated the club on the fine start which had been made, and Noble Smith spoke briefly on the Shrine's work in behalf of crippled children.

He also spoke on the Visitation to be made Saturday, April 7, to both the Moore and Lee County Shrine Clubs, when the Shrine Band and uniformed units will meet with the club members and give public parades in both Southern Pines and Sanford. Joe C. Thomas heads the committee on local arrangements for the occasion.

200 Hear Gavin at GOP Dinner

Nearly 200 persons attended a Lincoln Day dinner staged by Moore County Republicans Tuesday night in the school cafeteria at Carthage, with Robert L. Gavin of Sanford, 1960 GOP gubernatorial candidate, as speaker.

James E. Harrington, Jr., of Pinehurst, county chairman, presided. Precinct chairmen were recognized, as were delegates and alternates to the 8th District convention to be held in the courthouse at Rockingham at 2 p. m. Saturday and the state convention to be held in Durham March 3.

Coy Lewis, Jr., of Robbins, is a candidate for reelection as the 8th District chairman. His reelection is expected.

The public is invited to the district convention, Harrington said.
