YOUTHPOWER CONGRESS

Junior at Vass-Lakeview High School Chosen As Delegate to Chicago Meet

For his successful work and leadership in many activities at Vass-Lakeview School and in his home community of Vass, David Godwin Crockett has been chosen as one of the nine delegates from North Carolina to attend the National Youthpower Congress in Chicago on March 28-31.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Crockett of Lakeview. His father operates a store at Vass.

The congress, conducted and sponsored by the National Food Conference, an organization of 64 national food groups, will dramatize to teenagers the importance of proper nutrition and the opportunity for careers in food.

Other than David, who is a junior in high school, those attending the Youthpower Congress from North Carolina include Miss Glenda Emory of Durham, Miss Marilyn Timberlake of Youngsville, Miss Anne Daniel of Greenville, Hoke Smith, III of Trinity, Miss Karen Cash of Monroe, Larry Whittington of Angier, Woodrow W. Carroll, Jr. of Raleigh and George Kyle of Canton.

At the three-day meeting in Chicago, the Youthpower delegates will hear speakers in food-related vocations — including North Carolina's Robert Cox of Chapel Hill—and participate in special food industry tours and discussion groups with other teenagers from many other states.

This expense-free trip is made possible by organizations in North Carolina which pay the travel expenses of the delegates to the convention. These organizations include Dairy Products Association, Carolina Power and Light Company, Egg Marketing Association, FCX, Bakers Council, Chain Store Council, Cattleman's Association, Duke Power Company and Peanut Growers Association.

Taylor Appointed Associate Editor For 'Golf World'

Richard S. Taylor has been appointed successor to Eddie Ervin, who has been associate editor of Golf World magazine at Pinehurst. Ervin has resigned to become public information manager of the USGA.

Taylor for the last 13 years has been with the West Palm Beach Post and Times, serving as a member of the sports staff and golf editor and being associate sports editor when leaving.

A veteran newsman, age 37, he began his career at the age of 15 as copy boy at the Indianapolis Star in his then home town, was graduated as a flying officer in the Air Force during World War II at the age of 19, attended Butler University in Indianapolis and the University of Tampa before embarking on a news career. He was a police reporter at the Tampa Times and Jacksonville Times-Union prior to joining the sports staff of the West Palm Beach Post in 1949.

In addition to covering the myriad golf events in the Gold Coast area of Florida, he wrote a golf column, "The Sunday Golfer" which was chatty, rather than instructional. He is an avid golfer.

He is married to the former Mary Lee Yates of Pensacola, a former "Miss Florida" beauty contest winner and niece of Mrs. Tony Penna, wife of the club designer. The Taylors have a daughter, Suzanne, age 7.

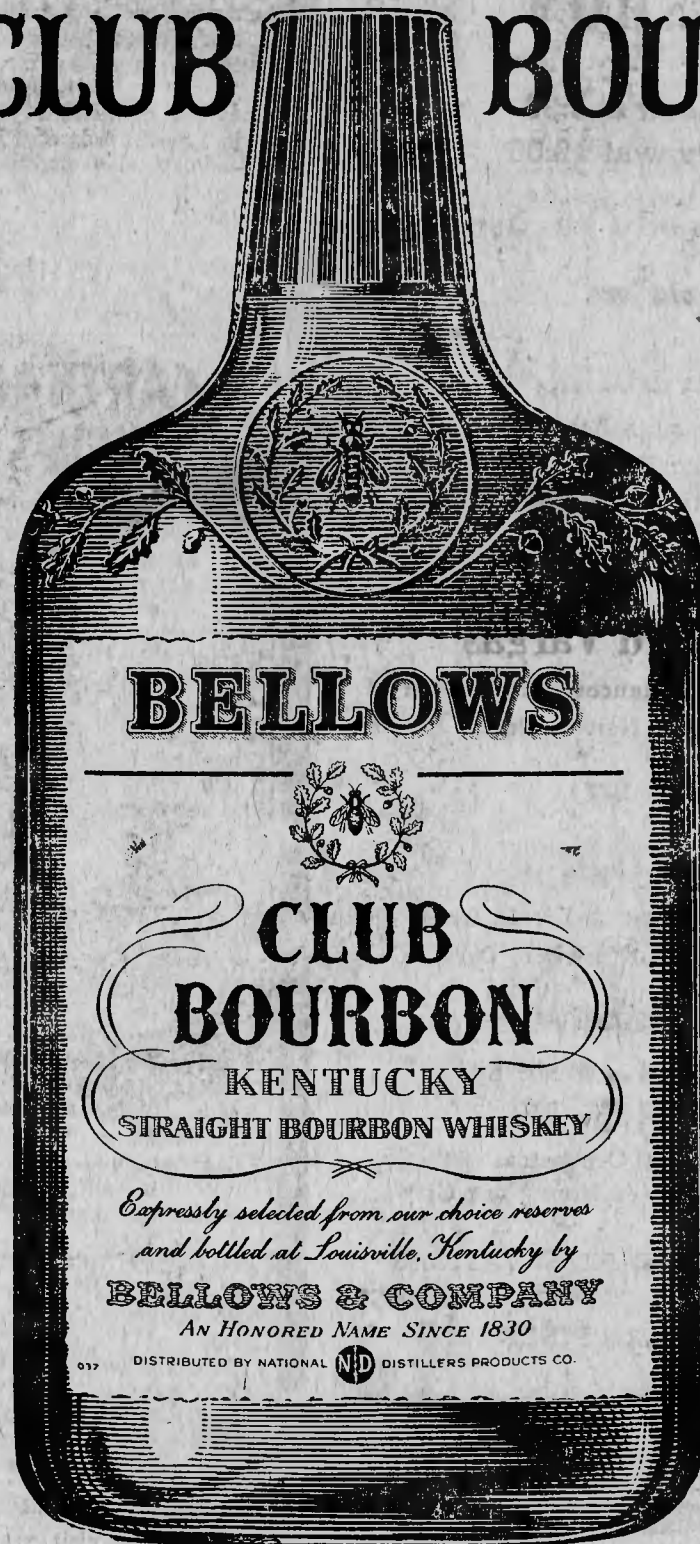

Taylor's appointment was announced by Mrs. Lillian Harlow, publisher of Golf World, a weekly golf news magazine founded by her late husband, Robert E. Harlow. Tom O'Neil is the magazine's editor.

culture information at State College, and Miss Marjorie Gilbert, director of the Durham Dairy Council, will accompany the delegates to Chicago as chaperones. Commenting on David, State Farm Bureau President B. C.

Mangum, chairman of the State Youthpower Committee, said, "We are glad to have David Crockett as one of the delegates from this State. With his fine record as a leader in FFA, 4-H Club, Beta Club and many other organizations and activities, I am sure he will represent the State well at the convention and come back home anxious to tell other teenagers in the State about proper nutrition and the opportunity for careers in food."
