Scouting Leaders Urged to Attend Training Classes

Adult Cub, Boy Scout and Explorer leaders of the Moore District were reminded this week by William R. Bonsal of Southern Pines, District training chairman, that training sessions for all three groups of leaders will be held in the next 10 days.

Leaders, unit chairmen, den mothers, committee men, advisors and parents are urged to attend especially those leaders who have not received previous training.

The courses will be given in Cub Scout and Explorer work, with two sessions in each division, each session running from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. The Cub and Scout sessions will be at the United Church of Christ, Southern Pines, and the courthouse in Carthage.

Dates of the sessions are: Cub—March 23 and 30; Scout—March 22 and 23; Explorer—March 23 and 30.

Both sessions in any of the three groups must be attended, to qualify as a certified leader Mr. Bonsal said.

Archeologist at Indian Site Tells About Work There

Bennie Keel, archeologist at the Town Creek Indian Mound in Montgomery County, was the principal speaker at a meeting of the Upper Cape Fear chapter of the Archeological Society of North Carolina, at Howard Johnson's Restaurant Friday night.

He showed slides of archeological features of the Mound where an Indian town site is being restored under state ownership.

Dr. Jerry Jernigan of Dunn presided at the meeting which was attended by 17 members of the chapter and 30 guests. Membership is drawn from several east-central North Carolina counties, including a number of members from Moore.

Next meeting of the group is scheduled at the Bel Aire Restaurant on Route 301, south of Fayetteville, April 20, at 7:30 p. m.

Lt. Col. H. A. MacCord of Fort Bragg, who started a move to form the chapter several months ago, will review Indian-white contacts and acculturation in North Carolina prior to 1700. The public is invited.

REEVES SPEAKS TO ROTARY CLUB

State Ports Activity Increasing But Facilities Can't Meet Needs

Speaking at the luncheon meeting of the Southern Pines Rotary Club, at the Country Club Friday, John M. Reeves of Pinehurst, chairman of the North Carolina State Ports Authority Board, described rapidly increasing activity at the ports of Wilmington and Morehead City and said that port facilities should be expanded if their great potential value to the state is to be realized.

Mr. Reeves, who is chairman of the board of Reeves Brothers, Inc., a textile firm, was introduced by E. Earl Hubbard, program chairman. Robert Leland, club president, presided.

The Pinehurst man, who has been ports chairman since his appointment by former Gov. Luther Hodges four years ago, said that $1 million per month "is now being generated in North Carolina by our two port facilities."

Tonnages handled have increased from 687,000 tons in 1959 to over 900,000 tons in 1961, he said, while vessels handled have risen in number from 448 to 624 in the same period.

"Increased use of the Tar Heel ports by North Carolina industry and agriculture means millions of dollars yearly added to 'stay-at-home' money," Mr. Reeves said. "Our competitive ports to the north and south of us are expanding rapidly. We cannot remain static, but must go forward to maintain our competitive position."

Ports authority officials are studying the possibility of a revenue bond issue to finance ports expansion, Mr. Reeves noted.

To show the need for expansion he pointed out:

That 150,000 tons of North Carolina's exports and imports are available for shipping via N. C. ports, but the present state-owned docks are inadequate to handle this additional tonnage.

That six times in six weeks all ship berths were occupied at the ports, with vessels waiting in the stream, last October and November.

That gross income from the two ports last year was $1,135,000, for an operating profit of $457,000.

That the state exports enough farm and industrial products now to furnish employment to approximately 18,000 North Carolinians.

Damages Awarded in Accident Cases in Civil Term of Moore Superior Court

Only four cases went to the jury in last week's term of Moore County Superior Court, for trial of civil cases, at Carthage, and of these one was settled after the evidence was in, and another ended in a mistrial.

Finding for the plaintiff in W. B. Guin vs. J. L. Riley Co., an auto accident case, the jury awarded him $1,000 for personal injuries while allowing the defendant to recover nothing on his counterclaim of contributory negligence.

The jury also found for the plaintiff in Ken S. Hall vs. Dolen F. Henderson, a contractual dispute, finding defendant indebted to plaintiff in the sum of $55 for a survey, $12 for a helper and $12.50 in attorney's fees.

In another accident case, Joseph M. Phillips by next friend Joseph B. Phillips vs. C. M. Kiser, after the evidence was introduced the court gave its opinion plaintiff had failed to present a cause of action and found as a fact that he was injured as the result of an unavoidable accident. Following a conference of attorneys, defendant's offer of $250 in full settlement was approved as reasonable and fair, the clerk to pay hospital and medical bills out of this sum.

In the case Bert Mario Lewis by next friend vs. Ellerbe Poultry Co., Inc., a juror was withdrawn and mistrial declared.

Divorces

Six uncontested divorces were granted: Ina R. McBride vs. Edgbert Lee McBride, Roy Lester Pope vs. Lois A. Pope, Clarence Dezalia vs. Nancy Dezalia, Lucinda Dowdy vs. Samuel Dowdy, Geneva Williams Hill vs. James Alfred Hill and Clyde L. Chriscoe vs. Omita P. Chriscoe. In the Chriscoe case, the defendant with permission of the court withdrew her answer and cross-action.

Largest Award

Largest award of the week was a compromise settlement of $5,000, with costs of action, to be paid to plaintiff by defendant in the auto injury case of James G. Pack by next friend J. H. Pack vs. William R. Puckett by guardian ad litem Wade Puckett. The money was directed to be paid to the clerk, who was to pay any outstanding medical and hospital bills, attorney fees of $1,500 and $500 to J. H. Pack, father of the minor plaintiff, as reimbursement for expenses he had already undergone; the balance to be retained for the use and benefit of the minor plaintiff.

Other cases retired from the docket: Claude E. Miller vs. Henry Seawell Tillman and Charlie Willis Cook, deceased, vs. Thomas Bennett Rogers, in both of which plaintiff took a voluntary non-suit; Ola F. Presley vs. Dock Layne, Jr., non-suited when plaintiff failed to appear, plaintiff to be taxed with costs; and settlements or consent judgments as follows:

Fields Plumbing and Heating Co., Inc. vs. Mrs. Lillian T. Dodson, $198.38 to plaintiff, he to pay costs; Dossenbach's Finer Furniture, Inc. vs. David C. Lambert et als, settled between plaintiff and defendant Highland Lumber Co., costs up to $20 to be taxed against Highland Lumber Co., above $20 against plaintiff; Linton H. Kidd vs. James Parker, Jr., settled and compromised, defendant to pay costs.

Demurrers and motions were heard in several pending suits.

Johnson Cottage At Kitty Hawk Damaged in Storm

The disastrous storm that hit the North Carolina and Virginia outer banks last week damaged but did not destroy a summer cottage that is jointly owned by a Southern Pines resident.

Dr. W. Hærrrell Johnson, local dentist, said this week that the huge waves that had beaten over the Outer Banks had torn off the front and side porches and some of the wooden siding shingles of a cottage that is owned by him and his brother, Charles E. Johnson, an attorney who lives in Hertford. They have owned the property since 1939.

Damage at the house was inspected on the spot by his brother, Dr. Johnson said. The local man saw it from the air Sunday when Dr. Charles Phillips, Southern Pines physician, flew his plane to the coast to survey the situation there.

Making the flight were Dr. Phillips and his son, "Tar," and Dr. Johnson and his daughter, Julie. Leaving about 1:35 p. m., they flew to Oregon Inlet and then up the coast to Kitty Hawk, where they circled the Johnson cottage. They landed at the Mantoloking airport to refuel and were back at Southern Pines-Pinehurst Airport shortly before 5 p. m.

Dr. Johnson said that his family cottage had been threatened by a rising high water line last year and had been moved back from the beach, toward the highway along the beach, as much as possible. While some cottages in the area were filled with sand after the storm, the Johnson cottage, which had been on pilings about three feet above ground, is now perched about six feet above the level of the sand.

Interior damage has not been assessed yet, Dr. Johnson said, as his brother, who had visited the damaged cottage after the storm, had not been able to get into the dwelling at that time.
