Masonic Lodge No. 484 Holds Ladies' Night Banquet in Vass; 200 Attend

Members of Southern Pines Masonic Lodge No. 484 and guests, numbering about 200, gathered at the Vass-Lakeview School Cafeteria Saturday night for the sixty-sixth Anniversary Banquet and Ladies Night of the organization.

Spring flowers with yellow predominating were used to decorate the room, and these, with blue dishes on the tables, created a pleasing effect.

Lloyd L. Woolley, traditionally the choice as toastmaster for these occasions, started the program with the singing of America led by Past Master H. W. Ehrhardt, Jr. An invocation by the Rev. Carl E. Wallace followed. Next and at intervals throughout the evening the Gospel "Four quartet, composed of Messrs. Britt, Deaton, Matthews and Williams, delighted the crowd with special music.

Mr. Woolley introduced the guests and Norris I. Edge gave the address of welcome to the ladies, to which Worthy Matron Mrs. Raywill Pearce of Magnolia Chapter 26, Order of the Eastern Star, responded.

Karl E. Schweinfurth introduced the speaker, Dr. Thomas E. Haggai, pastor of Emory Wood Baptist Church in High Point. He disclosed the speaker began preaching in Boston at the age of twelve and a half years, and cited an impressive list of accomplishments. In addition to his church duties, Dr. Haggai averages almost 365 addresses a year to special groups, Mr. Schweinfurth revealed.

As Dr. Haggai spoke, it was easy to see why he was in such demand. Waves of laughter spread through the room as he told clever er stories and jokes and in the serious part of his address he held the rapt attention of the crowd. "How strong is our country?" he asked, turning attention then to the importance of our heritage through the Pilgrim fathers. "In God We Trust" is not a motto, he said, but it is "the explanation of America." Stressing the importance of faith and positive principles the speaker emphasized the need of a spiritual revival.

District Deputy Grand Master E. Floyd Dunn presented a Past Master's emblem to Edwin L. Finch and a Twenty-five Year award to Jack Franklin Carter.

Mr. Woolley announced two awards made recently: a Fifty Year to Percival Earl Estes and Twenty-five to Secret W. Hefner, Martin A. Wicker and William Edgar Starnes. He also recognized present Lodge officers and their guests, living Past Masters in attendance, and two Past Masters of other lodges: James E. Besley, Roman 223, Rome, N. Y., and Ira E. Browne, who organized Verdun 46 in France.

He expressed thanks to the Banquet Committee: Mr. Schweinfurth, L. Russell McRae and Edwin L. Finch and all of the lodge officers.

Gen. R. B. Hill spoke the benediction.

Dinner was served by girls of the home economics department, of which Mrs. Sadie Maurer is head.
