Blaze Damages Carthage Home

The home of Attorney and Mrs. P. H. Wilson in Carthage was badly damaged by fire Easter Sunday afternoon and Mrs. Wilson had a narrow escape from injury or death.

Mr. Wilson had gone to his office when his wife, taking a nap with a heating pad in the bed, woke to find the bed afire.

She called her husband and he had the volunteer fire department called. Their efforts kept the flames and smoke damage confined to two or three rooms in the house, in which some of the furniture was also destroyed. The loss is covered by insurance, Wilson said.

Mr. Wilson practiced law at Aberdeen several years ago.
