

Fishers Move In Home Bought Here

Mr. and Mrs. Matthew C. Fisher and their three sons have occupied the former Lloyd Stemple house on Midland Road, just west of the No. 1 highway overpass. The Fishers recently purchased the house through Parks Real Estate Agency from Mr. and Mrs. Stemple who have moved back to West Virginia after living here since 1952.

lina for many years and is trustee of Saint Andrews Presbyterian College at Laurinburg.

The Carolina Bank has shown a steady growth since it was organized in 1914 and during 1961 its deposits increased over $780,000 to a new high of over $8,400,000. It now has offices in Pinehurst, Aberdeen, Carthage, Vass, and West End.

Mr. Currie was optimistic concerning the bank's future and as present plans for enlarging its services are continued he felt that the bank's future was bright. He stated that because of increased business a new building had been started in Vass and the bank expected to occupy it within a few months. With additional safe deposit boxes, a night depository, and space for two additional tellers, this should provide that area with excellent facilities.

FUNERAL HELD THIS MORNING

Richard Sears Lovering, 76, prominent Pinehurst resident, died in Moore Memorial Hospital Tuesday night after an illness of several months. Coming to the Sandhills from his native Boston, Mass., he had made his home here since 1920.

He was one of the pioneer peach growers of the area. On arrival in Moore County, Mr. Lovering purchased land from his friend, Roger Derby, adjoining the Derby farm, near Jackson Springs, where he laid out extensive peach orchards. The log-and-clay home where the family lived, surrounded by flowers and vegetable gardens, was largely the work of the owner with local help. Active in the community projects of the farming area in both Moore and the adjoining Richmond County, Mr. Lovering helped to build up the Sandhills Peach Growers Association of which he was secretary for several years.

The family lived in the country home until the place was sold in 1958, following the death of Mr. Lovering's first wife, the former Mary Eliot, of Boston.

Richard Lovering was the son of Charles T. and Marian Sears Lovering of Boston. He attended Harvard College; where he was a member of the Porcellian Club, graduating in 1908.

He is survived by his wife, the former Christine McIntosh, widow of Fred C. Page of Pinehurst, and four children by his first marriage; Mrs. Cornelius N. Bliss, Jr. of Darlington, Md.; Mrs. David T. Dana, Jr. of Lenox, Mass.; Richard S. Lovering, Jr. of Arlington, Va. and Mrs. Everett Allen of Harrisburg, Pa. Other survivors include a sister, Mrs. A. William Reggio of Medfield, Mass; eight grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

A graveside service was held at Mt. Hope Cemetery in Southern Pines this morning with the Rev. Roscoe L. Prince, pastor of the Community Church in Pinehurst, officiating.

Town Asks Authority

Southern Pines, the mayor explained, is in a State Stream Sanitation District. He said there is probably extra pressure on Southern Pines because McDeeds Creek, into which treated sewage effluent here is dumped, runs into Little River from which the Fort Bragg water supply is obtained.

He said that there is no alternative to doing the sewage treatment plant work and that, if the sewer bond issue is not approved, the town would be forced to issue revenue bonds which would carry about twice the rate of interest as bonds approved in an election.

"But I don't think this will happen," the mayor said. "We have a reasonable program that will last for years to come." The mayor said that Southern Pines has an "A" financial rating nationally and that, though this is not the highest given, it is "about as high as any rating given a town this size."

He also pointed out that all the bonds, if approved, would be issued only as need for their funds arises.

Town Attorney Brown said that there is no time limit on issuing bonds once they are voted. He noted that total amount of all the proposals is well within the town's legal debt limit.

Before the council voted, the sewer bonds proposals were explained by Mayor Pro-Tem Hobbs and the water bonds by Councilman Johnson.

Hobbs said that the present sewage treatment plant was built to take care of a community of 3,100 or 3,200 persons and that the town's growth has exceeded what the plant was built to accommodate. He said the plant is now running 25 to 30 per cent above its intended maximum use. The planned work would increase capacity of the plant to serve a community of 12,000, Hobbs said.

Explaining other portions of the sewer bond proposal, he said that there are many houses in town still not served by sewers and they should be provided with service. Looking to the future, he said the town should have bond funds available to provide sewer service to areas asking annexation to the town. With growth, such requests are sure to come, he said. Such bonds would not have to be sold until needed.

Johnson, explaining the water bond proposals, said that the money for the proposed new "raw water line" is vitally needed, as the present line from the lake reservoir to the water treatment and pumping plant is about half filled up with sand and silt and is not able to supply the purification plant with the water the plant is able to handle.

The storage tank raising work would eliminate bad pressure in high portions of the town, he said. Work could be done on one of the two tanks at a time, with no interruption of service.

Growth of the town will require, as with the sewers, funds for water mains to annexed areas. Connection fees, as new users tap these mains, will bring some of this money back to the town, it was pointed out.

A new water system pump of 750 or 1,000 gallons per minute capacity is needed to supplement the three existing pumps—two of 500-gallon capacity and one of 750-gallon, Johnson said. These are the pumps that send water from the purification plant to the two storage tanks on Weymouth Heights. Existing pumps are barely able to handle peak loads on the system, it was stated. Hobbs made the motion on the sewer bonds and Johnson on the water bonds.

All council members were obviously in complete agreement in favor of the two proposals. Swimming Pool Proposal

Mayor Ruggles brought up the proposed $35,000 bond issue for a swimming pool in West Southern Pines and made the motion to ask for authority to issue such bonds—the first motion he has made as mayor, he said. It was seconded by Councilman Capel who is a resident of West Southern Pines.

The mayor pointed out that the people of East Southern Pines have numerous public and private swimming facilities available to them, but that West Southern Pines "doesn't even have a decent creek." The nearest pool for Negroes is at Sanford, he noted—one that he said is operating successfully under municipal supervision, making a small charge for use.

In discussion of the motion, Capel said he thought the bond proposal would be "money well spent." Both he and Mayor Ruggles said they thought that having the swimming pool proposal on the bond election ballot would draw out voters who would vote also in favor of the water and sewer bonds.

Capel noted that Negro children are going off to swim in unsupervised ponds and streams and called this dangerous. He said that young Negro men who have Red Cross life saving certificates are available now to act as lifeguards at such a pool.

Councilman Johnson said he would abstain from voting for the pool bonds because he thought the cost of building and operating such a pool as proposed had not been sufficiently investigated. He said he doubted if it could be built for $35,000 and that operating expenses would be considerable, even with an admission charge. He said state law requires a life guard at all times (perhaps more than one at such a pool as proposed) and that water must be tested three or four times a day. One person would be required at the gate, he said—noting that all such persons would have to be paid.

Johnson said he is not against a pool for West Southern Pines but he could not vote for it now, if there were any chance that having it on the ballot would jeopardize the absolutely essential sewer and water bond proposals. Hobbs made no explanation for his abstaining from the vote.

Johnson said later that he is for both the pool and library proposals but that he does not want to attach any issues that might be controversial to the voting on the sewer and water bonds.

Cardinals' 1-0 win then tied the second half standings at 6 games won and 3 lost for each of the teams.

In another game played last Friday night, to determine the championship of the second half of the season, the Cardinals beat the Braves, 8-6. Since the Cardinals had won the first half season championship, they are considered season Little League champions now, barring a ruling next week that would uphold Pate's protest.

There are 15 members on the Little League board of directors, consisting of the eight Little League and Minor League coaches, and officers of the league.

Regular Events In Recreation Slated For Coming Week

Regular activities will continue in the town summer recreation program next week, Monday through Friday.

In charge of the East Southern Pines program are John Williams who supervises activities for youngsters 10 and older at Memorial Field and at Aberdeen Lake; Louis Manning, assisting with swimming and water safety instruction; Arden Fobes, in charge of activities for children 6 through 9 years old, at the park block; Dick Seymour who assists with a variety of events.

The West Southern Pines program, featuring a variety of activities centered at the school until 4 p. m. and at the "city lot," Stephens St. and W. Wisconsin Ave., after that hour, is headed by Joe Wynn, school coach, assisted by Miss Cora Steele.

Here is a summary of the East Southern Pines program for the coming week:

Friday, July 20—Swimming for children 10 and over at Aberdeen Lake (bus leaves Memorial Field at 9:30 a. m.); swimming for children 6 through 9 (bus leaves park block at 2 p. m.); teen dance behind school gym, 8 p. m. (See another story today about more teen dance plans).

Monday, July 23—Swimming for children 10 and over, 9:30 a. m. (bus leaves from Memorial Field).

Tuesday, July 24—Supervised bike hike leaving from park, tennis lessons at park courts, both at 9:30 a. m.

Wednesday, July 25 — Swimming for children 10 and over, 9:30 a. m. (leave from Memorial Field).

Thursday, July 26—Tennis lessons at park courts, 9:30 a. m. Roller skating on Massachusetts Ave.

Friday, July 27—Swimming for children 10 and over, 9:30 a. m. (leave from Memorial Field); swimming for children 6 through 9, 2 p. m. (leave from park block).

Spectacular Set Of 34 Games Seen In Match Sunday

Losing a 5-4 match with Raleigh here Sunday, the men's team of the Sandhills Tennis Association ended its four-match season with a 2-2 record and second place in the Class B League of the Eastern Carolina Tennis Association. All matches were played in Sunday's 90-degree-plus heat.

Sunday's play featured a spectacular three and a half hour victory by Norris Hodgkins, Jr. over Joe Cheshire of Raleigh, in which one set ran to 34 games. The score in this match: 18-16, 7-5.

Here are other results, with Southern Pines players listed first in each match:

Singles Ray Schilling df. Bob Still, 6-1, 6-1. George Little lost to Conrad Stewart 8-6, 6-2. John McMillan lost to C. R. Council, 6-0, 6-0. Ken Little lost to Joe Cheshire, Jr., 6-4, 6-2. Harry Watson df. Marshall Clayton, 6-4, 6-1.

Doubles Schilling and McMillan df. Cheshire and Council, 6-2, 6-4. Hodgkins and Watson lost to Stewart and Still, 6-1, 6-1. Bill Samuels and George Little lost to Clayton and Warlick, 6-3 6-2.

included with the lower Moore area in the territory eventually to be administered by Starnes.

Scout executives coordinate the training and activities of volunteer leaders in all phases of the program.

There are approximately 1,500 Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and Explorers in the Moore District, with 583 adult volunteer leaders, according to information from the Raleigh headquarters of the 12-county Oconeechee Council of which the Moore District is a part. Starnes has had over 15 years in Scouting, as Scout and leader. He won Eagle rank as a Scout and served for four years as water-front director of Scout Camp Dick Henning near Albemarle. He is a graduate of Duke University and the National Aquatic School of the Boy Scouts of America. He was a Marine Corps officer for three and a half years. He is not married.

19 Young People From County At 4-H Club Week

By C. E. LEWIS, Jr. Ass't. County Agricultural Agent

Nineteen outstanding 4-H Club members from Moore County have been selected to attend State 4-H Club Week in Raleigh, July 23-28. The Moore County delegation will meet on the North Carolina State College Campus with over 1,000 4-H Club members from every section of North Carolina. Participation in the week's program is a high point in a 4-H Club member's career and carries with it responsibilities as well as many opportunities.

In the delegation from the county will be three girls and five boys who will compete in the State 4-H Demonstration contests. These boys and girls won County and District honors and will compete with demonstration winners from the five other districts in North Carolina.

Members participating in the State contests are: Linda Maness, Dress Revue; Ronald Maness, Entomology; D. A. and Diane Cockman, Poultry Marketing; Janice Cockman, Electric; Tommy and Donald Phillips, Poultry Production; and Robert McLeod, Tractor Operation.

Other members of the delegation from Moore County are: Carolyn Stutts, Gary Purvis, Ronald Garner, Johnny Purvis, Foy Hartzell, Janice Havener, Donald Wallace, Larry Brewer, Bobby Maness, Jerry Hunsucker and Carolyn Kidd.

Miss Mary Braswell, assistant home economics agent, and C. E. Lewis, Jr., assistant county agricultural agent, will accompany the delegates.

General Assemblies will be held for all delegates and agents each morning and evening, with a vesper service each evening.

Program highlights include the State 4-H Dress Revue scheduled for Wednesday evening, the State 4-H Health Pageant on Thursday evening, and the 4-H Talent Parade for Friday evening. Recreation will be held each night following the main programs that will be held in the Coliseum on the State College campus.

The afternoons will be devoted to State Demonstration contests tours and state elections. Classes in leadership, record keeping and recreation will be conducted each morning.

LIBRARY

(Continued from Page 1) they were named as Mrs. Glen Rounds and Fred Brindley, who was appointed to the board last week, succeeding C. H. Bowman. Councilman Hobbs, although not saying whether either or both of the disagreeing trustees had spoken to him, questioned leaving unread books on the shelves of the library and asked if such books couldn't be stored in the space used for books more in demand.

Councilman Johnson, who is also a member of the library board, suggested that the trustees get together and iron out their disagreements. He said he favored submitting a library bond issue to the people in the future but was worried that a controversial question on the proposed bond election ballot might jeopardize success for the water and sewer bonds.

Mr. Brown said that the trustees had discussed the proposed addition to the building and the additional shelves at several meetings and that no opposition had been voiced by any trustee in a meeting. Mr. Brindley, he pointed out, was not a member of the board at that time.

"If they had something to say, they should have brought it up to the trustees first," he commented. "It is the feeling of the majority of the board that the library must be enlarged. We feel that the people should have an opportunity to express themselves."

Mr. Brown opened the discussion by saying that the library is a public facility whose size is being strained by the growth of Southern Pines, just as are the sewer and water systems. He said that since the town took over the library from its private ownership a few years ago, there has not been a single month in which circulation of books has not exceeded the same month of the preceding year.

He said the library needs more book shelf space and reading room space and that it is being used more and more for research purposes. The proposal, he said, called for an addition to be built to the library at a cost of not more than $20,000. Additional metal shelving could be obtained and installed for not more than $5,000, he said.

During the discussion, Mr. Brown pointed out that there are many books in any library that are not taken out often or at all, in some cases, and that some books in the local library have a "rarity value." He said that books suitable for research purposes, not likely to be used often, have been contributed as memorial gifts and that the library is "looking to the future" in keeping such books on its shelves.

Mrs. James Boyd, a member of the board of trustees and a visitor at the meeting, pointed out that books are being eliminated from the library's collection "all the time."

Mayor Ruggles did not join in the discussion, or indicate whether the objecting trustees had spoken to him. When he asked for a motion on the bond proposal, no one spoke up.

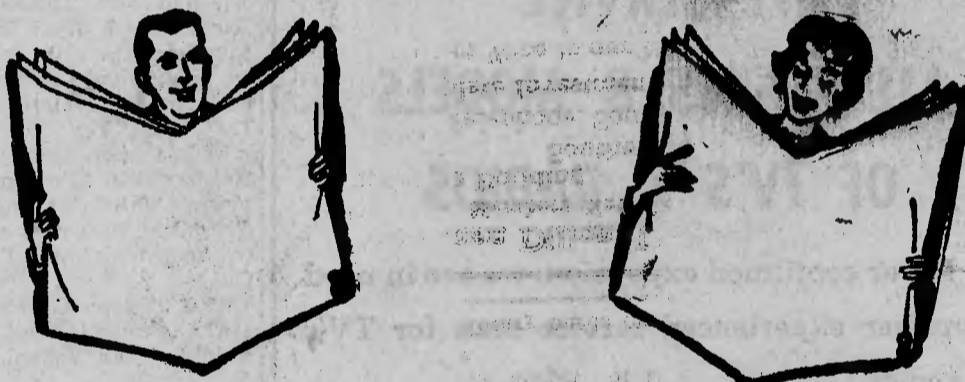

DUKE

There is, however, no allocation to the hospital in the 1962-63 tentative county budget which was approved by the commissioners July 2, because of reduced non-tax revenues and pressing school construction requirements.

The Duke Endowment is a perpetual trust created by James B. Duke in an indenture dated December 11, 1924. In the 37 years, 1924 through 1961, the Duke Endowment has allocated $38,466,588.57 to charity care, building and equipping of hospitals. With assets of approximately $500 million, it is the third largest private philanthropic organization in the nation.
