about this question:

"IN THESE DAYS when we are often beset with tensions of many kinds, it seems to me we should concentrate more than ever on the things which help build up our strength as individuals.

"One of the most fundamental of these, to my way of thinking, is life insurance. Here is a form of individual planning by which a man can, insofar as it is humanly possible, exercise control over his own future and that of those he loves.

"Actually, the whole purpose of life insurance is to replace insecurity with security.
