'Man, Not Party, Counts'—Jonas

Republican Congressman Charles R. Jonas of Lincoln, campaigning to oust 8th District Rep. A. Paul Kitchin of Wadesboro in the November 6 election, told a crowd of some 400 persons at Westmore School in upper Moore County Friday night that a man should be judged by his ability and integrity, rather than his party affiliation.

With Moore GOP Chairman James E. Harrington, Jr., of Pinehurst presiding at the rally, Mr. Jonas was introduced by Wallace O'Neal of Pinehurst, candidate for county commissioner. The speaking in the school auditorium followed a free chicken stew supper in the cafeteria.

It is important to place a candidate above party, the Congressman said. Individuals, not parties, run the government, he asserted, saying he is always a little offended at appeals to vote a straight party ticket.

People who come to him for assistance, he said, don't come to a political party; they come to a man.

Mr. Jonas said he doesn't think it's true that the 8th District need have a Democrat in Congress as the only way to have influence with the party in power. He pointed out that as a member of the House Appropriations Committee he was able to postpone placing a proposed government Environmental Health Center in Maryland and give North Carolina a chance to retain it for the Research Triangle.

Federal agency and department heads come before his subcommittee to justify budget requests, Mr. Jonas pointed out, to show that party politics is not the only method of having influence in Washington.

Officials Laud Kitchin's Work

Democratic party spokesmen Tuesday night urged re-election of Rep. A. Paul Kitchin as a means to bolster President Kennedy in handling the Cuban crisis.

"We are in perilous times, we need to send someone up there to help the man at the wheel," said Sen. Sam J. Ervin, Jr.

Rep. Wilbur Mills, Arkansas Democrat, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, joined Ervin and other state Democrats in the plea for Kitchin's election at an 8th District-wide rally and barbecue supper attended by some 1,500 persons in Rockingham.

About 16 cars from Moore County joined a caravan to Rockingham.

Attending from Southern Pines were Moore County Democratic chairman, W. Lamont Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Johnson, Mrs. Francis F. Rainey, Bryan Poe and four Teen-Dems, Kathy Rainey, Barbara and Marie Hurst and Barbara Grove.

The 8th District congressman is opposing Rep. Charles R. Jonas in the November election. Both Mills and Ervin told the crowd that the country needs Kitchin's ability and experience which Mills pointed out includes heading a sub-committee investigating shipment of strategic materials to iron curtain countries.

The Armed Services Committee of the House was singled out as one of the congressional bodies which Kitchin served and which provided him with experience.

Gov. Sanford and members of the North Carolina Council of State joined several members of the congressional delegation at the rally.

Kitchin has been nominated by the North Carolina delegation for membership on the House Ways and Means Committee in the next Congress.

Kitchin Speaks At Teen Dems' Rally

The expected thousand never showed up for the Teen-Dem rally here Saturday afternoon, and the young people sponsoring it learned a lot about organization and its necessary preliminaries, even as they went on to stage a fine meeting for a handful of enthusiastic guests.

Most of a long list of program dignitaries also never appeared, but those who did spoke enthusiastically for the scarcely more than 100 who attended.

Making time in his busy campaign schedule for a whole day in Moore County, Rep. A. Paul Kitchin of Wadesboro discussed the gravity of decisions in the world today, the heavy responsibilities on the shoulders of President Kennedy and the necessity of his having a Democratic Congress to work with in his dilemmas. Kitchin is campaigning for the 8th District Congressional seat against Rep. Charles R. Jonas of Lincoln, Republican.

Lining himself up solidly behind the President, whom he called "a young man but able and aggressive," Kitchin, who has not always hitherto supported the Kennedy administration, vowed his allegiance to the Democratic party and its leadership.

He congratulated the Teen-Dems as "our future leaders with the destiny of the U. S. and the world" in their hands.

The final round of stroke play was taking place today in the 5th Annual North - South Seniors Golf Championship for Women at Pinehurst. Results were to come too late for the Pilot's news deadline.

Defending champion Miss Maureen Orcutt of Englewood, N. J. came through with the low medal on Number Three Course yesterday, scoring a 40-36-76 for a two-day total of 153 and a four-stroke lead. The 153 repeats her winning score of both previous years when she copped the title in the tournament, played at 36 holes.

Four-over women's par going out with bogeys on the first two holes and a double bogey at 8, the former three-time North and South Amateur champion birdied 10 and 18 on the home stretch.

One stroke off the pace on Number Three, Mrs. L. W. Smead of Orchard Lake, Mich., carded 77 to tie the second position at 157 with Mrs. John Pennington of Buffalo, N. Y., who posted 80. In fourth spot at 158 is Mrs. William Hockenjos, Jr. of Lake Hopatcong, N. J., 81; while Tuesday's medalist, Miss Betty S. Abernethy of Pittsburgh, Pa., slipped to fifth position at 159, with 83.

Dedication Of Land As 1,000th 'Tree Farm' Set

A program to be held Tuesday on Voit Gilmore's "Circle G" certified "tree farm," dedicating it as North Carolina's 1000th such farm, is expected to draw forestry and forest industry leaders, along with interested private land owners, to study tree-farming as an investment.

The public is invited to the three-hour program, starting at 1:30 p.m. on the property of approximately 450 acres west of Southern Pines. Main entrance is on the Midland Road at the Morrell place, across from Starland Farms. It will be marked with a sign.

Tours of the property, developed for the past three years as a model tree farm, will be made by tractor-drawn vehicle. Demonstrations will be held and equipment displayed. The demonstrations will include methods of fire-line plowing and burning, planting of seedlings by hand and machine and care of the seedlings, growth rate on different fertility level soils, preparation of the land, and others.

AT HEARING HELD LAST WEEK

Nature Preserve Opposition Melts

Though opposition appeared largely to melt at the public hearing held here last Thursday afternoon on the gift of the Boyd woods to the state, a possible impasse developed which remains to be resolved.

This was the revelation that, in more than a year of private discussions preceding the gift, the matter of continued use of the 400 forested acres by the Moore County Hounds had not been discussed by the Boyd family as donors with the Division of State Parks.

Robert Scott, member of the Board of Conservation and Development and chairman of its parks committee, who presided, said that the "nature preserve" which was planned would come under the rule of the state parks system by which all its lands are automatically wildlife refuges. Hunting is prohibited and no exceptions are made.

Yet several of the more than 60 persons present spoke up to mention the history of the foxhunt,

FOR NOV. 6 ELECTION

Registration Will End Over County Saturday

Registration for voting in county, state and Congressional elections on November 6 will end Saturday throughout Moore County. The books will close at sunset—about 5:30 p. m.—after being open all day at polling places.

Because a new registration of all voters is being conducted this year over the county, all names on the books used in former years are void and everyone must register again.

Voters who registered on the new books before the May primaries need not register again now, but all citizens are advised by Sam C. Riddle, county elections board chairman, to check to be sure their names are properly recorded.

Voters are offered the option of registering Democratic, Republican or Independent.

In Southern Pines and nearby area, there are three new precincts, created this year from the former single Southern Pines precinct and part of Aberdeen precinct.

They are:
North Southern Pines—Mrs. Frank Kaylor, registrar; polling place, the fire station on New Hampshire Ave., covering the north portion of the town and some territory north of the town limits.

South Southern Pines—Shirwood Brockwell, Jr., registrar; polling place, the town hall court room, covering the south portion of the town.

Pinedene—Mrs. Woodrow McDonald, registrar; polling place, Jackson Motors on Old No. 1 highway, south; covering the territory from about the southern town limits south to a line crossing No. 1 highway near Westbrook's Market, between Southern Pines and Aberdeen.

All voters in these areas are advised to check with their nearest registrar to determine in which precinct they should register.

In the county, state and congressional elections, voters will be asked to choose a U. S. Senator, 8th District Congressman, a state commissioner of insurance, State senators and Moore County representative in the General Assembly, and county clerk of superior Court, sheriff, coroner, judge and solicitor of recorder's court, surveyor, five members of the board of county commissioners and five members of the county board of education.

Also, Moore County voters will be asked to indicate approval or disapproval on two county bond issues—one for an agriculture-county library building and one for a welfare department building.

Full lists of candidates and explanations of county bond issues will appear in next week's Pilot.

UNICEF Funds To Be Contributed Through Churches

Local church leaders who have in former years sponsored a Hal-loween collection by children for UNICEF—the United Nations Children's Fund—have decided this year to take contributions through young people's groups in the churches, rather than undertake a door-to-door collection throughout the town.

The Southern Pines Youth Federation, which includes young people's groups in all the Protestant churches, has overall supervision of the collection, which will be made Sunday in the churches, with the aid and cooperation of adult members asked.

UNICEF funds provide food supplements and medical aid to vast numbers of children and mothers in areas of the world where these services are not available, under supervision of UN personnel.

THE WEATHER

Maximum and minimum temperatures for each day of the past week were recorded as follows at the U. S. Weather Bureau observation station at the W E E B studios on Midland Road.

October 19	72	46
October 20	75	43

Registration For Town Bond Vote Separate

Voters who live within the Southern Pines town limits will vote at the town hall November 6 to indicate approval or disapproval of four proposed town bond issues—$280,000 for the sewer department, $105,000 for the water department; $35,000 for a West Southern Pines swimming pool; and $25,000 for an addition and equipment at the town library.

This election and the registration for it are entirely separate from the county, state and Congressional elections that will take place the same day. Registration for one election does not qualify a voter to vote in the other, officials point out.

Mrs. Don Jones, registrar for the town election, will be at the town hall courtroom Friday and Saturday for the final two days of registration. Her book will not close until 9 p.m. Saturday, whereas books in the county-wide registration will close at sunset that day.

While a new registration is being conducted by the county this year, the town's registration is not new for everybody like the county's. Persons who have been properly registered to vote in town elections in former years need not register again. New-comers, of course, must register if they are to vote November 6.

No persons will be elected in the town voting. The four bond issues, on which separate votes may be cast, will be the only matters on the town ballot. Full explanations of the bond issues will appear in next week's Pilot.

Hospital Board Names Mrs. Dana Secretary

Meeting last week, the executive committee of Moore Memorial Hospital elected Mrs. Paul Dana secretary.

Her late husband, Paul Dana, who died several weeks ago, for many years had been secretary and treasurer of the hospital.

Dividing these duties, the directors named John Taylor treasurer and William C. Sledge assistant treasurer. Both are of Pinehurst.
