Charla Marcum Debuts This Week As Singer At Carolina Pine Room

Singer of popular songs and blues, Miss Charla Marcum of Southern Pines, will be the featured entertainer on Tuesday, Thursday and Friday evenings at the Pine Room of the Carolina Hotel in Pinehurst.

She made her initial appearance for the season there Tuesday with the Basil Freeman orchestra.

Miss Marcum, who made a "one-night stand" in the Pine Room last season, has been featured singer with the Bob Smith Orchestra of Fayetteville for the past 16 months.

A 1961 Miss North Carolina beauty pageant contestant, she brought home from Charlotte the "Miss Congeniality" title, on unanimous vote of the other 68 competing beauties.

She appeared in the 1960 Scandals of the Sandhills and also that season, sang nightly at the Pine Needles Lodges and Country Club in Knollwood.

In her spare time, the talented miss, who also composes songs and lyrics, teaches piano students at her home, 235 South Ashe St., where she lives with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Marcum.

And when she is not singing, teaching or making recordings at Durham, where she has a long-term recording contract, Charla "keeps shop" at the Mary-Ground Gift Shop in Pinehurst for owner-manager Mrs. Kenneth (Mary) Ferris.

Cameron's Visit Their Sons On Delayed 50th Anniversary Trip

The Clifton Camerons have recently returned to their cottage at Stoneybrook after a week's trip to New York which was really a delayed celebration of their Golden Wedding anniversary.

The Camerons, who were both born near Manly, attended high school there, and have lived in that section since their marriage 50 years ago last April, have been visiting their son Carlyle, his wife and their two young sons in Hicksville, Long Island, and their older son, Clifton, Jr. and his wife in Brooklyn.

They also paid a visit to Lillian Earl Bullock, who works in New York City. Lillian's mother is the wife of Hubert Cameron, the Clifton Camerons' son who lives in Southern Pines.

"This is the first time my husband has gone on a trip since we were married," said Mrs. Cameron, "and I guess it was the thought of seeing the grandchildren (Carlyle's second son and namesake was born quite recently) that got him away."

Mr. Cameron managed Mrs. Reid Healy's Firleigh Farms for many years before her death last year.

Local Student Pledges Honorary Fraternity in Art At East Carolina

Fourteen students of art at East Carolina College have just become pledges of Delta Phi Delta, national honorary fraternity in art, according to an announcement by John Goodheart of Baltimore, Md., president of the organization. All were selected on the basis of high academic standing.

Each of the pledges has submitted two examples of his work as an artist for display in the Methodist Student Center in Greenville. The Pledge Show, now hung in the Center, will be on view for the next two weeks.

Among those honored by invitations to join the fraternity is Barbara Blackwelder of Southern Pines. Barbara is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Blackwelder of 250 West New York Avenue.

U. S. OFFICER WRITES TO WIFE HERE

Appeal Made For Clothing, Blankets To Aid Children In Korea Orphanage

An Army captain stationed in Korea this week wrote his wife an urgent appeal for clothing and blankets for 68 native children who are desperately in need of these necessities before the annual bitter cold of the Korean winter sets in.

Capt. Carl Young, whose wife Mary Lou and their three young daughters live with her mother, Mrs. Colin Smith on East Indiana Avenue, recently took command of an infantry company which, he discovered, had sponsored the Sung Ji orphanage in Korea.

Upon his first visit there, he found that the 68 orphan inmates, between the ages of three and 13, were living in a dirty, three-room shack with only three mattresses to sleep on. The children were in rags and their only water supply was 50 yards up a mountain so they had to carry the water back in pails to their quarters.

Captain Young persuaded a company of Army engineers to dig a well and paid for the pump with money contributed by the U. S. troops.

But the youngsters still need warm clothing, and Mrs. Young asks any persons who may have used clothes and blankets to call her at 692-2361. She will then send on anything she can collect to her husband for use at the orphanage.

COUNTY GOP CHAIRMAN COMMENDS REPUBLICAN WOMEN AT MEETING

Mrs. William R. Bonsal, III, on behalf of the Sandhills Republican Women's Club, of which she is president, welcomed club members, their guests, and visiting GOP organizations gathered at the Pinehurst Country Club on Monday evening.

Mrs. Bonsal then introduced C. C. Thompson of Pinebluff, who presented many of the local candidates whose names will appear on the Republican ballot at Tuesday's election.

Special recognition was given Wallace W. O'Neal of Pinehurst for waging a most active campaign and for enlightening the public as to the responsibilities of the office which he is seeking, that of county commissioner.

Moore County Republican chairman, James E. Harrington, Jr. of Pinehurst was given a standing ovation as a tribute to the exceptional job he has done in his home precinct, the county, and the state of North Carolina.

Mr. Harrington gave a detailed account of Republican progress to date, and disclosed plans for final efforts to be made during this last week before election. The enthusiastic crowd of close to 100 women received Chairman Harrington's praise for their part in the large increase in Republican registrations.

He also stated that the high caliber of Republican candidates for election, including Congressman Charles R. Jonas with his fine record of public service, represents a most important step forward towards a two-party system in North Carolina.

Refreshments were served after the meeting and club members attending were given the opportunity to meet and talk with the candidates.
