MRS. CLAUSTON LEVI JENKINS, JR.

MISS JOSLIN IS WED AT DANVILLE, VA.; BROCKWELLS HOST WEDDING BREAKFAST

Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood Brockwell and daughter Sarah Anne spent last weekend at Danville, Va., sharing in the festivities attendant upon the wedding of their niece Miss Mary Louise Joslin to Clauston Levi Jenkins, Jr., of Raleigh.

Sarah Anne was a junior bridesmaid in the wedding held Saturday afternoon at the Episcopal Church of the Epiphany, and Mr. and Mrs. Brockwell shared host honors that morning at the wedding breakfast at the Danville Country Club with Mrs. Sherwood Brockwell, Sr., and daughter Miss Mary Brockwell, of Rye, N. Y., and son Kenlon Brockwell of Charlotte.

Other social occasions they attended included the rehearsal dinner given Friday evening by the groom's parents, and the reception following the wedding given by the bride's parents at the Danville Golf Club.

As junior bridesmaids Sarah Anne and her cousin Susan Adele Buckingham, of Asheville, wore costumes identical with that of the maid of honor, Miss Elizabeth James of Danville—gowns of peau de soie in Christmas red, with fitted bodices and flared-back skirts, wearing red velvet headpieces and carrying bouquets of wholly and white chrysanthemums.

Other attendants of the bride included four bridesmaids and a tiny flower girl, Cynthia Ann Rey of Rye, N. Y., who wore a miniature of the bride's classic

McELVARES HOSTS AT HOLIDAY PARTY FOR THEIR DISTINGUISHED VISITORS

Dr. and Mrs. Lorus Milne of Durham, N. H., famed writing, lecturing and movie-making team in the field of natural history, were New Year's guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roland McElvare at their home at Skyline.

They were en route to their home from a Christmas trip to Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and as becoming a happy yearly custom, dropped in on the McElvares both going and coming. As is also becoming a pleasant custom, their hosts invited a group of friends to meet them and to see some of their beautiful, unusual films of birds and animals made in hidden corners of the world.

This year, since the Milnes were here on New Year's Eve, the occasion was an eggnog party, with the films as a thrilling dividend. Special quarry of the Milnes with their camera are creatures of forest and jungle which are being pushed into extinction by inroads of civilization, which most people have hardly ever seen or heard of, and which may soon be no more. Films they showed were made in

Hodgkins Entertain At New Year's Party

A New Year's day "open house" given by Mr. and Mrs. Norris L. Hodgkins at their home on 305 North May Street honored their son and daughter-in-law, the Rev. and Mrs. Lewis Hodgkins of Anchorage, Alaska, who, with their young daughter, Mary Faye, were holiday guests of his parents. (See story on another page in today's Pilot.)

Young People Stage Own Show At Birthday Party

His 14th birthday as well as the holiday season was the inspiration for a party given last Thursday evening by Charles Phillips, Jr., at the home of his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Phillips, on East Massachusetts Ave.

The dozen boys and girls, most of them Charlie's ninth-grade classmates, played records, danced and put on a show which they tape-recorded. The playback of the show was the hit of the evening's entertainment.

Charlie's parents assisted in the serving of refreshments, consisting of soft drinks with an assortment of Christmas goodies. The evening was described as one of "high-decibel" enjoyment for the young people, who were Anna Dell Smith, Diane Bigbee, Lynn Daugherty, Betty Jean Harrington, Karen Davis, Barbara Ritchie, Jerry Horrell, Al Poe, Billy Bodine, Paul Kelly, Fordham Wickler and the host.

Santa Claus Visits Moore Memorial Hospital On Christmas

Again this Christmas, Mrs. Alec Roberts and Mrs. Stuart Patterson of Pinehurst were in charge of the gala Christmas day party which has been an annual feature at Moore Memorial Hospital for a number of years.

They decorated the corridors with Christmas trees and other greenery and assisted Santa Claus, portrayed by Harry Pethick of Southern Pines, in distributing gifts to every man, woman and child patient in the hospital.

Bill Shockley's orchestra went the rounds with Santa and his helpers, playing carols and Christmas songs.

The hospital dietician, Mrs. Kate Davis, entertained Santa, his assistants, and members of the orchestra, at a coffee hour following in the nurses home.

Miss Shamburger Hosts Pre-New Year Dancing And Supper Party Friday

Miss Page Shamburger of Aberdeen Friday entertained a number of friends at a cocktail, dancing and supper party at the Moore County Club off Young's Road with David Duyk's orchestra supplying music for dancing.

Mr. and Mrs. Dwight W. Winkelman and their son, Peter, arrived before Christmas from Skaneateles, N. Y. for the holidays at their place here. Peter has left for a skiing trip to Canada and his parents are in Miami, Fla. for a short visit but plan to return here next week.

MRS. JOHN L. MCKENZIE, JR.

MISS BOWEN AND MR. MCKENZIE UNITED IN MARRIAGE AT PAGE MEMORIAL CHURCH

Page Memorial Methodist church at Aberdeen was the setting Sunday for the marriage of Miss Rebecca Bowen and John L. McKenzie, Jr., whose vows were heard by Dr. F. B. Bishop assisted by the pastor, the Rev. Brooks Patten.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Margaret King Bowen and the late Capt. John M. Bowen, Jr., USAF. The groom is the son of John L. McKenzie and the late Mrs. Daisy Carol McKenzie, of Pinehurst.

Graham Farrell of Aberdeen and Furman University, Greenville, S. C., was organist.

Giving his granddaughter in marriage was H. M. King of St. Pauls. The bride wore a sheath gown of white bouquet taffeta with scoop neckline and long sleeves appliqueed with lace and pearl, the separate overskirt featuring a bustle back, sweeping into a chapel train. She carried a bouquet of twelve white orchids cascaded with white satin ribbon.

Wearing red satin and carrying bouquets of white chrysanthemums and snowdrift amid white satin ribbons were the bride's attendants, who were Miss Courtney Bowen, her sister, as maid of honor, and bridesmaids Mrs. Bernice Thompson of High Point, sister of the groom; Miss Patricia McDowell of Washington, D. C., and Misses Linda and Shelia King of St. Pauls; also Miss Vicki Spell of Farmville as junior bridesmaids.

The groom's father was his best man, and ushers were his brother-in-law Bernice Thompson of High Point; John and Glenn Spell, both of Wendell; Ralph Gilliland of Chapel Hill; James Johnson of Raleigh; James Allen Beddingfield of Pinehurst and Jerry Caddell of Aberdeen.

The bride's mother wore gold lace with green satin hat and gloves, and corsage of white carnations and snowdrift. The mother of the groom wore peacock blue chiffon with matching accessories.

Present were the grandmothers of both the bride and groom, Mrs. H. M. King of St. Pauls in black lace with pink accents and Mrs. R. M. Bender of Aberdeen in yellow chrysanthemums.

The groom had as his best man his father, Martin B. Glaze, and ushers were Sgt. George Muholand and Sgt. Harry Buser, both of the Marine Corps.

Following a honeymoon at Williamsburg, Va., the young couple are making their home in Norfolk, where Mrs. Glaze is employed in the IBM department of Diesel Injection.

She graduated from Princess Anne High school in Norfolk, attended Woman's College at Greensboro, the School of Nursing of the Medical College of Virginia and the Automation Institute at Raleigh.

Lieutenant Glaze is a graduate of Shepherdstown College in West Virginia and is currently stationed aboard the USS Little Rock.

The bride was lovely in an original gown of white silk faced with peau de soie, the portrait neckline outlined in pearl-embroidered lace, the bouffant skirt accented with lace sprays. Her shoulder length veil fell from a lace coronet encrusted with sequins and pearls, and she carried a cascade bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley centered with an orchid.

Miss Connie Pierce, cousin of the bride and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Garland Pierce, of Southern Pines, as maid of honor wore a sheath gown of blue satin brocade, with cascade bouquet of
