Auman Heading Committee On Cattle Voting

T. Clyde Auman, West End, has been named chairman of the Moore County Cattle for Slaughter Referendum Committee. The statewide cattle for slaughter referendum will be held Tuesday, April 9. Serving with Mr. Auman on the Moore County Committee will be Judge J. Vance Rowe, Aberdeen; and T. E. Morton, Southern Pines.

Chairman Auman says his committee has the responsibility of informing all cattle producers on the purpose of the referendum, and how the money collected will be used. The committee will also urge all eligible persons to vote in the referendum.

This is the third assessment referendum to be held by the North Carolina cattle producers. The last referendum conducted on March 25, 1961, was approved by an 87 percent favorable vote. The question at stake is whether they wish to continue their present assessment program for promoting the North Carolina beef industry.

Under the present program the producers contribute 10 cents per head for all cattle sold for slaughter in the state, which bring $20 or more per head. This applies to cattle sold through auction markets, handlers or processors.

The program was started five years ago. Some $100,000 has been collected and put into promoting the production, marketing and consumption of beef.

A two-thirds favorable vote of all voting is required for the referendum to carry. All persons who share in the proceeds from the sale of cattle for slaughter are eligible to vote. Polling places will be announced.

Pulpwood production and use will continue to increase in 1963. This went up six per cent in 1962. Demand for wood pulp of various types strengthened slightly throughout the year.

Sandhills Courses Top Golf Lay-Outs

Listed in a new bulletin, "Golf in North Carolina," just published by the Travel Information Division of the Department of Conservation and Development, are 173 golf courses. Of these, new courses include the Number 5 at Pinehurst, fifth 18-hole course at the Pinehurst Country Club, and the 18-hole Whispering Pines Country Club course near Southern Pines and Pinehurst.

The new Oak Island Golf Club's course is the first state golf layout adjacent to the seashore. Under construction and expected to be ready for use during the summer of 1963 and nine holes of the Lake Toxaway Golf Club course in a new resort development between Brevard and Highlands.

Longest course on the list is the famous No. 2 Championship at Pinehurst, scene of the USGA National Amateur Championship Tournament in 1962. It is 7,051 yards, par 72.

Over 150 North Carolina courses are open for play every month in the year. The highest-altitude mountain courses are open from spring through autumn. In the Sandhills, nine courses are open from September through April, and three courses are played year around.

In addition to the standard 18 hole and 9-hole courses, there are half a dozen par-three courses—lighted for night play—plus many driving ranges.
