MOORE COUNTY RECORDER'S COURT

Probation Allowed For Lee County Youth In Vending Machine Cases

A Lee County youth, wanted on charges which had brought three companions into Moore County Recorder's Court at Carthage March 25, had successfully eluded officers since March 18, but responded to a letter sent to his home by Probation Officer Cecil Shoaf, and turned himself in to Shoaf at Lee County Court last Tuesday.

Fred Fackrell, 18, of Cumnock, had already been placed on probation in Lee County February 26 on breaking, entering and larceny charges.

Monday of last week, he pleaded guilty in Moore Recorder's Court to five counts involving breaking and entering, larceny and malicious destruction of property, in the entering of five service stations and stores, damaging a number of vending machines and robbing some of them of small amounts of cash.

The incidents were the same which had brought Ernest P. Dowdy III, Larry Thomas and Richard Kelly, all of Sanford, into the Moore court one week earlier—Dowdy on six counts, Thomas on five and Kelly on one. Dowdy and Kelly had already been placed on probation in Lee County for similar offenses there. Another Sanford teen-ager, James Kelly, had been arrested with them at Sanford but admitted participation only in robberies in Chatham County.

The breaking and entering spree of early Sunday morning, March 17, had taken Fackrell, along with Dowdy and Thomas, into the W. T. Lewis service station and store at Eagle Springs, Bert's Shell station at Aberdeen, and Carpenter's Red & White Grocery and Vann's Esso Service at Pinebluff.

Chief Deputy Sheriff H. H. Grimm was state's witness in the cases, and Judge J. Vance Rowe offered Fackrell the same alternative as the others—lengthy terms, to be spent if possible at a first offenders' camp, which at 12 months on each count would total five years for the defendant—and a stiff two-year probationary term. Like the others, Fackrell chose probation.

A condition of the probation was the payment of all damage to the vending machines, amounting to several hundreds of dollars, repayment of the moneys taken and costs in all the cases. Since these had already been paid by Dowdy, Thomas and Kelly, Judge Rowe revised his judgment to a straight $140 fine for Fackrell, which would include his share of the costs. The youth paid out.

Since he is already on probation in Lee County, problems for Probation Officer Shoaf could be foreseen but what his recommendation to the Lee court would be could not be immediately predicted.

Other cases disposed of last week:

Caroline Swaim, Fayetteville, speeding 65 in 55-mile zone, $10 and costs; Weldon M. Bunnell, Parkton, speeding 70 in 55-mile zone, $20 and costs; Bennie Sylvester Martin, Robbins, speeding 65 in 55-mile zone, $20 and costs; D. M. Who needs profits?

Everyone does!

Some folks seem to regard profit as an evil motive. Yet profit is basic to economic growth which creates new jobs and produces more tax dollars.

Consider CP&L, for example. To keep up with the growing need for electricity in our area during the last 10 years, we have invested $250,000,000 in new facilities.

Where did CP&L get the money? Some of it came from net profits—part of which are plowed back into the business each year. Some of it came from reserve funds set aside to replace old equipment. Part of the money was borrowed. But without profit we could not have built the new facilities necessary to serve our customers.

Nor could we have paid our 30,000 stockholders, about half of them Carolinians, a reasonable return on the money they have invested as part-owners of our Company.

Our annual tax payments to support local, state and Federal governments have increased by $12 million in the last decade. This too would have been impossible without profits.

While regulatory commissions approve rates for public utilities that offer the prospect of a fair profit, companies such as CP&L are not guaranteed any profit whatsoever. It is somewhat like the man who buys a fishing license. He is free to fish but there is no guarantee he will catch anything. Good management and efficient operation are necessary for any business to make a profit.

Next time you talk about economic growth, remember that profit is both the margin and stimulus for it.
