Social Security Office Recognizes
Marking Of 'Senior Citizens Month'

In observance of the first national "Senior Citizens Month" during May, W. W. Thomas, Fayetteville Social Security district manager pledged a renewed effort on behalf of his office staff to maintain a high level of service to the aged residents of Moore and other counties in the district.

Thomas pointed out that President Kennedy's proclamation, designating May as Senior Citizens Month, urges all persons "to cooperate in its observance by increasing community awareness of the problems faced by older men and women, strengthening services and opportunities to meet their special needs, giving recognition to their past and present contributions, and making this special month the beginning of continuing interest and activity on their behalf."

Thomas cited the latest benefit statistics for this area as evidence of the contribution senior citizens make toward economic stability. He said more than 1,900 Moore

County men and women over 65 receive social security monthly benefits which total more than $1,439,992 each year. "Studies show," he added, "that the senior citizen spends the biggest part of his social security check in the community for food, clothing and housing. And the number of people receiving benefit is constantly increasing as more and more people join the senior citizens rank each year."

Thomas invited all non-retired workers over 65 to visit the social security office for a complete explanation of the provisions of the social security law as it applies to the individual's particular circumstances. And he urged senior citizens who are working while receiving social security to phone or visit the district office if they have questions about how their earnings will affect their benefits.

A representative of the Fayetteville office visits the Information Center building here on four Tuesday mornings each month.
