Nugent New Head Of Moore County Realtors, 1963-64

William B. Nugent, of the Col. George P. Hawes Agency, was named president of the Moore County Board of Realtors at a meeting in Pinehurst June 18. Other officers elected for 1963-64 were Wallace W. O'Neal, of Biddle & Company, vice president; and Howard G. Phillips of the Sandhills Insurance & Realty Company, secretary-treasurer. The Moore County Board includes Realtors from Pinehurst, Aberdeen and Carthage. Southern Pines Realtors have their own association and do not belong to the county organization.

H. Burwell Registers For Classes At UNC

Henry McAleen Burwell has just returned from the University of North Carolina where he completed pre-registration for classes beginning in the fall semester. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis C. Burwell, Jr. of Blue Road, Henry (Buzz) graduated early in the month from Tabor Academy in Marion, Mass. In pre-registration, the students attend a "welcome assembly," take placement tests in mathematics, English and foreign languages, dine together in a Dutch Luncheon at UNC's Lenoir Hall, and then meet in conference with the dean of the General College or his representative, where the curriculum is explained to the students. The program, which takes place on appointed days throughout the summer, enables first-year men to become acquainted with the UNC campus prior to the fall orientation program.

Clyde P. Rich Succumbs At 43; Rites Held Today

Clyde P. Rich, 43, died Tuesday at the Veterans Administration Hospital at Fayetteville, where he had been a patient for one week. Funeral services were held this (Thursday) afternoon at Forks of Little River Baptist Church near Troy, conducted by the Rev. Don Whitaker, pastor, with burial following in the church cemetery. He was born at Troy and served with the U. S. Marine Corps for 11 years before and during World War 2, and was with the Fourth Marine Division during the fighting on Iwo Jima. Separated soon after the war, he moved from Troy and was employed by Greer Furniture Co., Aberdeen. Unmarried, he made his home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Rich who live near the Pine Crest Manor apartments between Southern Pines and Aberdeen. Surviving are his parents; two sisters, Mrs. Lee Roy DeWitt of Pompano Beach, Fla., and Miss Gladys Rich of Aberdeen; and one brother, C. L. Rich, of Newport News, Va.

"PRO RODDEY" Tennis League Play Starts On Courts Here

Play in "The Knotty Pine Handicap League" got underway this week on the clay courts at the Pinehurst Country Club. Pro Joe Roddey explains that in this informal, ladder-type tournament which he plans to continue through the summer, wins will be rated on a handicap-percentage basis. Interested contestants should contact Pro Roddey at the Tennis House.

Beatrice Barrett One Of 3 Brides-Elect Honored At Luncheon

Bride-elect Miss Beatrice Barrett of Pinehurst was presented with a silver gift at a luncheon Saturday in Sanford which was given for her cousin, another prospective bride, Miss Carole Barrett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Barrett of Sanford. Hostesses at the luncheon were Mrs. Marshall Quick and Mrs. Coy Brown. The party was held at the former's home and a third bride-to-be, Miss Florence McCracken, of Sanford, was also given a gift of silver. Mrs. Robert H. Barrett of Pinehurst was present with her daughter, Beatrice.

33 Pinehurst High Students Taking Driver Training

For the past two weeks 33 Pinehurst High School students have been taking Driver Training from Hobart Williams, a regular teacher of the high school faculty. The students will receive a total of 30 hours' classroom instruction and 18 hours in car instruction, including six hours under-the-wheel training. The Pinehurst Garage Company has given a new Chevrolet car to be used for the program. This car will be used at the Academy Heights High School in the driver training program, which will start at a later date when an instructor has been secured. Superintendent Lewis Cannon stated he was well pleased with the interest and response to the summer program. A new state regulation prohibited this phase of instruction during the regular school term, he noted.

Two Tie For Prize In Morco Tourney

Two Morco Club members tied at 39 for first prize in the best 12 holes (6 each 9) tournament which ended Sunday at the Pinehurst Country Club. Winning first, on draw, was J. Hubert McCaskill, and second place went to Dr. Francis L. Owens. J. P. Rees was third place winner, scoring 40. Now in progress for Morco members is a medal play contest for all four partners. On July 4, the Morco Club will join with members of the women's Sandhills Summer Club for a mixed Scotch foursome. A buffet picnic will follow for members of both clubs and their families. A guest this week of Mrs. Donald A. Currie is her granddaughter, Barbara Currie of Westover, Mass. They spent the past week at Crescent Beach, S. C. where they had a cottage with Mrs. Currie's son, Wilbur, his wife, and their children, of Greensboro.

KEY FIGURES—Shown above are members of last year's Tennis Ball Committee, three of whom are working again toward the success of this year's party, to be held Saturday night from 9 till—at the Pinehurst Country Club. The three, in the foreground, are, right to left: Mrs. Norris L. Hodgkins, Jr., Wallace W. O'Neal and Mrs. William R. Bonsal, III. Behind them are Mrs. Kenneth F. Ferris and Mr. Bonsal. The Tennis Ball is again sponsored by the Sandhills Tennis Association of Southern Pines and the Pinehurst Tennis Club, and proceeds from the affair divided equally between the two organizations, are used for cost of activities for both. Honorary chairmen are C. A. McLaughlin, president of the Sandhills Tennis Association, and his wife, and Joseph W. Roddey, Jr., who teaches and directs activities for Pinehurst, and his wife. Reservations for the dance, at which The Woody Hayes orchestra will play, should be made in advance by a call to the Pinehurst Country Club. (Hemmer photo)

TEERING OFF * WITH deNISSOFF

Early in the month, a release on "wedding customs" appeared on our desk, and as June, traditional month of brides is just about to bow out, we have finally found time to peruse the three pages and to discover therein the supposed origin of many of the better-known wedding traditions. Here are some: Engagement ring—this represents the very old custom of a gift to a girl desired in marriage. The diamond ring originated in Italy where the diamond was believed to be a "flame of love." In Egypt, the ring symbolized eternity and also, the "captive bride" whose hands were tied to prevent her from escaping. Anglo-Saxons wore the ring on the right hand until the wedding when it was transferred to the left. Old shoes—To Egypt also is credited the custom of throwing old shoes or tying them to the bridal car. Here the father handed the bride's sandal to the bridegroom, symbolizing a transfer of authority. Orange blossoms—The Mohammedans in the middle ages used orange blossoms, their most prolific fruit, in their ceremonies and today, their use symbolizes the hope that the couple will be blessed with children. Rice and sunshine apparently carried the same hope of children—it was formerly believed that if the bride looked at the sun, she would have children—thus the expression "happy the bride the sun shines on." Tears—the bride was supposed to cry, symbolizing her dismay (in olden times) at having been captured by force. This capture is now reflected in the custom of the bridegroom carrying his wife over the threshold of their new home. Something blue—in ancient Israel, the bride's robe had a blue border signifying purity, fidelity and love—thus the custom of "something old, something new, something borrowed and something blue." The veil—among other reasons for the wedding veil, this is thought to have indicated long ago that the bride had been secluded from men until her wedding. Japanese tradition requires the bride to wear a veil over her elaborate hairdo called a "horn coverer." Jealousy is thought to vanish when it is removed. One thing we have noticed about weddings which apparently has nothing to do with custom or reason is that they invariably seem to blossom out in masses at holidays like, for instance, the fourth of July week now almost upon us, or at Christmas—periods when news is always unusually heavy and there is less time to deal with this abundance because of the holiday.

Sandhills Summer Club Winners Score Net 63

Winning combination in Tuesday's Sandhills Summer Club tournament was the team of Mrs. John E. Barry, Jr. and Mrs. Dennis C. Crotty, who turned in a net 63 in the better ball of blind partners event. Names of partners were drawn after the field was out. Mrs. E. A. Regan and Mrs. J. McCarthy scored 64 for runner-up spot.
