TWO PROS FROM HERE TO TEACH AT LPGA GOLF SCHOOL AT GREENSBORO

Two golf teachers from Southern Pines will serve as instructors at the National Ladies Professional Golf Association Golf School, to be held for the second year at Woman's College under chairmanship of Ellen Griffin, Woman's College associate professor.

They are Peggy Kirk Bell and Ann Little, who go Monday to Greensboro to join the staff of 12 instructors headed by Mickey Wright, LPGA president. The Golf School ends July 5, and according to advance publicity, this will be "one week packed full of golf from 8:30 a.m. to 8:30 p.m."

Sessions will emphasize improving individual skill, swing analysis, error correction, teaching progression, lectures, and LPGA clinic-demonstration and discussions on handicapping, rules, and equipment purchase and care.

Peggy Kirk Bell is the wife of Warren Bell and is co-owner, with him, of the Pine Needles Lodges and Country Club in Knollwood. The mother of three children, she is both a teaching and touring pro and in fact, was voted LPGA teaching pro for 1961.

This week, Peggy is on Long Island, where she is playing in the Carvel Ladies Pro Celebrity tournament at the Cedarbrook Golf Club at Old Brookville. She will return home just in time to go to Greensboro Monday for her five-day teaching stint there. As the daughter of a Naval officer, now retired, and the wife of an officer in the Regular Army, Ann Little has played golf for over 25 years in military outposts just about all over the world, but "primarily in the District of Columbia," she notes.

She came to Southern Pines last September when her husband, Maj. Selby F. Little, Jr., was sent to Viet Nam where he is with the Military Advisory Group. On his return this fall, he expects to be assigned to the 18th Airborne Corps at Fort Bragg.

"And we hope to continue to make this our home," says Ann, who is the mother of two sons, Bob, 12, and Selby, III, nine. The family lives at 925 North Saylor Street.

This is the first year in the professional ranks of golfdom for Ann, who stresses that she is a teaching, not a touring, pro and hopes to concentrate in the instruction of military dependents in isolated posts where she has seen the need for such golf instruction.

A native of Newton, Mass., the daughter of Capt. Philip Stonemetz (USN Ret.) and Mrs. Stonemetz, Ann grew up in Virginia.

She holds many local country club titles and also has won tournaments abroad—in Dachau, Germany and in Panama, among other places.

$7,000 Watch Found Near Air Crash Turned In To Sheriff's Department

A diamond-encrusted woman's wristwatch, found at the scene of the airplane crash between Highfalls and Robbins, in which four persons were killed Sunday afternoon, June 16, has been turned in to the Moore County sheriff's department.

Chief Deputy Sheriff H. H. Grimm said the value of the watch had been estimated by a Robbins jeweler at around $7,000. He said he did not recall the name of the young man, an on-looker at the crash scene, who had turned the watch in. Grimm has written to the brother of Thomas E. Ribble, of Albuquerque, N. M., owner and flier of the crashed plane, to determine its ownership and receive instructions on shipping it.

Grimm said there was no doubt in his mind it belonged to one of the persons in the plane. Ribble, a well-to-do bowling alley owner and concrete products manufacturer of Albuquerque, was killed with his wife and two teen-age daughters while on a vacation trip in his Beechcraft Bonanza airplane.

The brother, Ira Tribble, who flew to Robbins to attend to the shipment of the bodies home by chartered plane, shipped home effects of the family found in the plane. He shed more light while here on how Ribble may have gotten into such a desperate situation, when he became lost and gave out of gas in heavy overcast which prevailed while he was trying to fly from Crescent Beach, S. C., to Richmond, Va.

The plane was superbly equipped and his brother was an expert flier, Ira Ribble said, who had logged something over 3,000 hours in the air. However, he noted, most of this flying had been done over New Mexico and other parts of the Southwest, where the air is generally clear and "you can see for hundreds of miles." The deceased flier had had no experience with the rainy overcasts of the Eastern seaboard and didn't realize the danger when he took off, the brother surmised.

Students Pre-Register

Completing pre-registration at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, this week were William K. Caton, Jr. son of Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Caton of Southern Pines, and William L. Wicker, son of Mrs. Raymond Wicker of Aberdeen.

Students taking part in pre-registration take placement tests, attend a "welcome assembly," and hear an explanation of the curriculum.

Junior Woman's Club

The annual dinner meeting of the Aberdeen Junior Woman's Club was held Tuesday evening, June 18, at Byron Nelson's Restaurant in Southern Pines. Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Marshall Donathan, Mrs. John Copley, and Mrs. Harry Watson. The president, Mrs. Donathan, welcomed the guests and Don McCluskey gave the response. Fifteen members were present and 13 husbands joined their wives.

Following dinner, bingo was played and door prizes donated by merchants and industries of this area, were awarded.

The club meetings have recessed until September.

Scout Tour
Highlight of the summer for three Aberdeen members of Troop 68, Victor Grose, Bob Matthews, and Baxter Taylor, is their current trip to Philmont, Calif., and interesting points en route.

They departed via bus from Raleigh on Saturday, June 15. High points of their California trip will include Los Angeles, Hollywood and Disneyland. On the return trip they will spend one week at Philmont Scout Ranch, Cimarron, N. M. They expect to return to Aberdeen July 10.

Girl Scout Certificates
Twelve girl scouts of Troop 100, and their leaders, have completed their Junior Red Cross First Aid training and recently received their certificates. Dr. J. C. Grier, Jr. and Mrs. Maxine Cherry of Pinehurst were their teachers. The Scouts completing the course included: Amelia Wicker, Jean Veasey, Debbie Allred, Linda Garner, Elizabeth Anne Marks, Kathy Yow, Doreen Donathan, Viola Collins, Sandra Keller, Helen Parks, Connie Singleton and Judy Wynn. Their leaders are Mrs. Betty Yow and Mrs. Carl Wynn.

Sixth Birthday
David McNeill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank McNeill, celebrated his sixth birthday on Wednesday, June 19, with several friends and several cousins on hand.

Guests were invited for 5:00 in the afternoon for a party built around a baseball theme, with a game of baseball for the boys and catch ball for the girls. After the birthday boy had opened his gifts, the group went to the Scout Hut across Aberdeen Lake for a wiener roast. Favors of Bubble Mix were enjoyed by the following: Beth Blue, Beth Buffkin, Lori Gotch, Jean Robertson, Noel Copley, Walker Copley, Henry Wicker, Johnny Robertson, Johnny Burns, Robert Burns, Franke McNeill, Mary K. McNeill, and Laurie Ann McNeill.

Dessert-Bridge
Mrs. Ralph Leach was hostess to members of her bridge club and two guests on Tuesday afternoon. Following several progressions of play, scores were tallied and Mrs. George Anderson was declared high scorer. Mrs. Dan Farrell was second high. Others playing were: Mrs. Bob Farrell, Mrs. Lawrence Johnson, Mrs. N. C. Pleasants, and Mrs. C. D. McGowan; and guests, Mrs. Mack Wallace and Mrs. Ralph B. Leach of Miami, Fla.
