

District Democrat Leaders To Gather For Organization

Democratic leaders from the Eighth Congressional District will hold a second organizational meeting at Revels Restaurant in Rockingham, August 15.

Eighth District Democrats held an initial organizational meeting in Raleigh, June 4. At this meeting Mecklenburg County Party Chairman Ray King was elected temporary chairman and assigned the task of promoting a second meeting.

"Letters have been sent out to Democratic leaders in the Eighth District," said Charlie Smith, Mecklenburg's executive director who is handling publicity and arrangements for the "dutch treat" dinner slated for 7:30 p. m.

All county chairmen and vice chairmen have been invited in addition to members of general assembly representing 8th District counties, and presidents of Young Democratic and Democratic Women's Clubs.

The meeting will not deal with personalities or candidates, but will be for the purpose of seeing if a district-wide organization is to be established. An Eighth District Steering committee will probably be selected.

State Democratic officials residing in the district and Tom Davis, executive secretary of the State Democratic Party, will be invited to attend.

Leading Democrats not holding office or title in the Party will be invited at invitations of county chairmen.

Attendance is expected to exceed 80.
