Hussey, and Oscar Horner of Sanford, a family friend. Seven other prizes were awarded for displays in the parade. (V. Nicholson photo)

Farmers Day Draws Crowd to Robbins; Prizes Awarded For Parade Displays

The community of Robbins enjoyed the biggest and best Farmers Day in its history Saturday, with an estimated 12,000 persons attending.

Many took part in the parade of old-time vehicles and fancy riders, while others lined the streets to watch it go by. It included an unprecedented 280 entries.

Led by Curtis Hussey, wagon master, in his 1906 covered wagon—its body and woodwork painted bright new red and green—the parade included numerous other covered wagons, farm wagons and carts drawn by horses and mules, ponycarts, an oxcart, a goatcart, buggies, carriages and a black surrey with red fringe on top. There were many riders on fancy mounts, wearing old-time or western garb.

Eight trophies were awarded. Trophy for oddest entry went to the Cabin Creek Cooners Club of Candor, with horse-drawn float holding a tree in whose branches clung a live coon. Leaping and baying below were two coon dogs held in check by members of the club. E. F. Hussey of Robbins accepted the trophy for the club, and other members on hand were Howard Minton, Festress Hussey, John Turner, Larry Hussey and Clifford Cheek, some of Moore, some of Montgomery County.

Malcolm Humble of Asheboro won the trophy for best riding horse, the same for which he had tied last year, with his palomino with silver trappings.

Other winners were: best pair of horses, Gurney Davis, Robbins, Route 2; best pair of mules, Graham Hussey, Seagrove, Route 2; best workhorse, Wayland Hussey, Robbins, Route 2; best mule, William Vest, Robbins; best pony, John Gregory, Greensboro; best rig, Clarence Dunn, Liberty, and best colt, Garland Beal, Goldston.

While waiting for the judges to make their difficult choices, Wayland Kennedy, general chairman, and Dock Smith, Jaycee president, presided over a drawing for cash prizes, for which all entries in the parade had been given tickets.

Winning the top prize of $50 was Grayson Byrd of Asheboro, Route 1, while prizes of $25 and $10 went to the following: John Gatling, Seagrove, Route 1; Kenney Maness, Seagrove, Route 1;

Rites Conducted On Wednesday For Mrs. K. G. Deaton

Funeral services were held Wednesday morning at Bethesda Presbyterian Church, Aberdeen, for Mrs. K. G. Deaton, 56, of Pinebluff, who died Sunday night at Moore Memorial hospital.

Officiating was the pastor, Dr. W. C. Neill. Burial was in Old Bethesda Cemetery.

Mrs. Deaton, well-known and beloved in this area, had been a hospital patient for three days, after suffering a heart attack at her home.

She was the former Eston Cameron of Moore County. Surviving are her husband, Pinebluff police officer; three daughters, Mrs. James Gannaway, Jr., of Nesbit, Miss., Mrs. Victor Notarangelo of Huntington Station, L. I., N. Y., and Mrs. S. J. Kuzminski, who taught school at Aberdeen before leaving recently to join her husband at his military post in Germany.

Also surviving are nine grandchildren; five sisters, Mrs. John Thornburg of Orange Park, Fla., Mrs. J. C. Culbreth of Linden, Mrs. W. N. Fields of Sanford, Mrs. Hubert Brown of Star and Mrs. D. B. Herring of Aberdeen; and two brothers, H. C. Cameron, of Jacksonville, Fla., and J. C. Cameron of Cadiz, Ohio.

BEETLES FOLLOW 'BIG FIRE' EFFECTS

Landowners Having Damaged Timber Advised; Trees Need Quick Treatment

Moore County landowners having insect infestations in timber damaged by the "Big Fire" which swept over hundreds of acres in the county in April received advice this week in a letter sent out by Bennie R. Fulcher, assistant agricultural extension agent specializing in forestry matters.

The letter said: "Recently a number of questions have been asked about the control of insect in the fire damaged area in the lower end of Moore County. Following are comments concerning these insects and their control."

"The presence of bark beetles in our pines can usually be noted by the numerous white to red-brown rosin pitch tubes, ranging in size from less than one-half inch in diameter to about 1 1/2 inches in diameter, on the bark of the branches or trunk. In trees of low vigor, such as many of these which were weakened by the fire, pitch tubes may be lacking, and the earliest signs of attack will be the reddish boring dust in bark crevices and in spider webs at the base of the tree. Since these pitch tubes may not be present, it will be necessary to make a close examination to determine if beetles are present. Landowners who cannot make this determination should seek professional advice from the county agents office or from professional foresters."

As to what can be done, the letter quoted Fred Whitfield, forest management extension specialist, from State College, as follows:

"These steps should be taken by landowners who have an infestation: (1) Cut and remove all trees infested with bark beetles immediately. (2) Saw-log size trees should be peeled or sprayed with an insecticide. (3) Pulp-wood-size trees should be sent to mills immediately. (4) Trees too small to be used should be cut and sprayed with one-quarter per cent gamma insomer benzene hexachloride in No. 2 Fuel Oil or burned with fire.

"If landowners follow this procedure, the infestation is likely to remain at a low level. If they take no action, there is a possibility of two generations before cold weather and an insect epidemic. Speed is essential."

"I will be glad to assist landowners with inspections of trees to see if you have insect damage," Mr. Fulcher said.

of Shelby as No. 2, William Poore of Belton, S. C., as No. 3, and Perry Holland of Sanford as No. 4. All have played here before, Poore in the Junior Sandhills where he won the boys' singles a few years back.

In the women's field, with only eight entries, top seeding goes to Alicia Smythe, Ecuadorian national champion, who is married to a Marine officer at Cherry Point and is living at Havelock.

Unseeded are Julia Holt of Charlotte, North Carolina's No. 1 woman player, and Gloria Payne of Macon, Ga., No. 2 in her home state, who beat Joanne Cooper to win the 1962 Sandhills title. Miss Cooper is not entered.

G. M. CAMERON

which he was an elder and charter member. Officiating was the pastor, the Rev. R. L. Prince. Burial was in Mt. Hope Cemetery here.

He was born at Manly, the son of D. D. Fairley Cameron and Effie McGregor Cameron, memora of pioneer Scottish families of the county. He entered World War I as a private with the first Moore County contingent in 1917, served overseas with the Army's Field Artillery and ended his service as a first lieutenant.

Soon after his return, he became associated with Pinehurst, Inc., and continued this association for 45 years until his death, as the official in charge of civic and community affairs. He had been in poor health, with failing eyesight, during the past year and had been seriously ill last winter.

As county commissioner and chairman and in other phases of his life he was known for his integrity, diplomacy, courtesy, kindness, practical good sense and thrift. His gracious ways and gentle humor, with sound common sense, made him ideally suited as "liaison" between native residents and seasonal visitors, and in government he maintained due regard for both.

He was a member of the Pinehurst Lions Club and Pinehurst American Legion post, and served in former years as a director of Moore Memorial hospital and as a member of the Pinehurst volunteer fire department.

Surviving are his wife, the former Evelyn Sloan of Mt. Ulla; one daughter, Mrs. Paul Monahan of Durham, and one son, G. Bevins Cameron, of Pinehurst; seven grandchildren, and two brothers, Herbert N. Cameron and D. D. Shields Cameron, both of Southern Pines.

rant location on N. E. Broad St., now headquarters for production of the firm's extensive new toilet-tries line which includes cologne, after-shave lotion, shampoo, hand lotion and other items. Mr. Hicks said the line is selling well.

Two buildings, each of about 2,500 square feet of floor space, on Morganton Road, opposite Memorial Field near the No. 1 parkway overpass. Soap is being manufactured in one, candles in the other. Both items come in a variety of shapes and scents and are hand-made.

The orders, invoicing and purchasing departments, located along with stock and storage, in the former A & P store building on W. Pennsylvania Ave., which has been leased for some time by the company from its owner, the Citizens Bank and Trust Company. Mrs. Flora Bowers is general manager at this location. Mrs. Nelson Hyde is in charge of sales services there.

Mr. Hicks said that the company has bought 30 acres of land on No. 1 highway parkway, north, but has no immediate plans for using this site.

ORPHAN YOUTH

witness is an Aberdeen high school girl who was 15 at the time of the alleged offense, last February.

Also on the warrant docket are embezzlement cases against Clifton Simpson and his wife Sylvia, brought by W. C. Garner, partner with Simpson in the operation of a restaurant and service station at Skyline. Garner is accusing Simpson of embezzling the sum of $2,500 belonging to him, and Mrs. Simpson of aiding and abetting.

Other cases for grand jury action are those against Charles Ritter, Richard Dunlap, Howard Harris, Wilbur Terry and Dwight Terry, all separately charged with assault with deadly weapon with intent to kill; Bobby Terry, assault on a female; Leland Daniels, Jr., violation of zoning ordinance of Town of Southern Pines (see separate story elsewhere in today's Pilot); William Guy Bauguess, James Henry Johnson, driving while drunk; Charlie Andrew Marshall, Jr., two speeding cases, failing to stop for red light, possession of seal-broken whiskey; Helen Louise Stanley, speeding.

The traffic cases are those which have come up from a lower court.

Scheduled on the trial docket, Monday through Thursday, are 61 cases, a few on grand jury indictments which failed to reach trial at earlier terms, the others up on appeal from the lower courts. They include the usual variety of whiskey, traffic and assault cases, one manslaughter (Joe Louis McDonald), one breaking and entering and larceny, one escape from prison, one altering, moving and defacing a landmark.

Board Authorizes Contracts On More Union Pines Work

The first phase of the Union Pines consolidated high school has been completed and was formally accepted by the Moore County board of education following a final inspection tour Monday afternoon.

Keys to the handsome modern structure of steel, glass and concrete on the Union Church Road were turned over to the board by the contractor, L. P. Cox of Sanford. It comprises the main portion of the building, including classrooms, offices and laboratories.

Architects Thomas T. Hayes and W. Calvin Howell of the Hayes-Howell & Associates firm of Southern Pines accompanied the board on its tour and then met with them to start on the next big step—construction of the second phase, with hopes of getting it completed by September, 1964.

Studying bids opened July 23, they determined on $284,000 worth for letting. While it will take nearly $460,000 to do a complete job, that much money is not now available. With 19 bids on hand in seven different categories, their problem was to get the most school they could, making an adequate program possible in 1964, with the least expenditure of funds. According to the architects, the bids were very reasonable, lower than had been expected in some instances.

Bids selected were turned over to the architects, who were to draw up the contracts and notify the successful contractors immediately so the work could get started at once.

Postponed until more money is available, either through a bond issue or through appropriation made in the 1964-65 budget (which could throw the opening of Union Pines a year behind) is the addition of the shop, music room and dressing rooms, gymnasium and auditorium.

Union Pines, when completed, at an estimated cost of $1,215,000, will serve the high school students of the Carthage, Farm Life, Vass-Lakeview and Cameron districts and serve as headquarters for Area 1, comprising all these districts. It will contain offices for the guidance director, supervisors, librarian and others serving this district, one of three into which the county system has been divided.

Area 2 comprises Robbins, Highfalls and Westmore, Area 3 Aberdeen-Pinebluff and West End.

UPSETS FEATURE

girls' play, was the only top seed to come out on top. No 1 in junior girls' singles, she beat Lynn Chance of Burlington 6-0, 6-3 in her last match here as a junior. Next year, she will have reached the cutoff age of 18 and will be in adult play.

In girls' singles, Patricia Freeman, unseeded, defeated Rosalind Meschan, No. 2, of Winston-Salem, 6-4, 6-4.

Doubles winners: Junior boys, Clinch Belsler and Richard Holderness of Greensboro over Billy Trott and Ed Parker, both of Raleigh, 5-4, 3-6, 6-3; boys, Johnny Zambelli and Allen Lassiter over Fred Rawlings of Durham and Mark Helms of Goldsboro, 6-1, 2-6, 6-4; junior girls, Jane Davenport and Lynn Chance over Janie and Rosalind Meschan, Winston-Salem, 6-1, 10-12, 6-2; girls, Anne Bingham of Lexington and Patricia Freeman over the Meschan sisters, 6-2, 6-3.

Careers In Health, Medical Services To Be Promoted By Hospitals, Schools

With some 6,500 positions in health careers needing to be filled in the State, a program of "motivation" was outlined last week by Miss LoRayne Dingues, newly appointed coordinator for District 3, to Moore County school and hospital representatives.

Stating that it would be her job over the next three years to stimulate an interest in nursing and health careers, she will be working in a 13 county area, which includes Moore County, primarily with the schools, but with other community and civic organizations as well. While nursing is considered the primary target, there are many other jobs to be filled by licensed practical nurses, orderlies, lab technicians, x-ray technicians and others.

While these career openings now exist, "we are not even filling the schools we have available," she said.

From her headquarters in Charlotte, where she has offices with the Duke Endowment Fund,

Miss Dingues will provide information on opportunities for training and employment in 200 medical and hospital careers. Her territory includes Cleveland, Gaston, Lincoln, Iredell, Mecklenburg, Rowan, Cabarrus, Union, Stanly, Anson, Montgomery, Richmond and Moore Counties. Included in her "tools" will be brochures, and a new film which will be out this fall, as well as other films. She will also attempt to collect and publish all available data on scholarships available for the whole area.

Meeting with her were Dr. Charles A. Phillips, a member of the District 3 committee representing the medical profession, Duncan McGoogan, administrator; Mrs. Betty McLeod, director of nursing; and Mrs. Harris Blake, director of inservice training; all of Moore Memorial Hospital; C. E. Powers, county assistant schools superintendent and guidance counselor; Glenn Cox, East Southern Pines High School principal.
