Legion Installs Officers, Views John Glenn Film

A motion picture entitled "The John Glenn Story," was the feature attraction on Tuesday evening at a meeting of the Sandhill Post 134 of the American Legion at the Legion Hut on Maine Ave.

Members of the Legion Auxiliary also were present. Following a business session, Miss Sadie Fields, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Fields of Southern Pines, gave an interesting account of the activities of "Girls' State" held in June at Greensboro.

Presiding for the two groups were the Legion Commander, Dan R. McNeill, and Miss Gussie Cameron.

George Hunt of Pinehurst, was present to install post officers for 1964. Vernon P. Doughty of Lakeview is now vice-commander of the post. Commander McNeill and other officials are continuing in their respective offices for an additional year.

The story of astronaut John Glenn was a sound and color production, showing his career from the New Concord, Ohio, schools to his present position as an outstanding astronaut in the current space program.

Charles Rose of Southern Pines operated the projector, lent by the Southern Pines Schools. Refreshments were served afterwards.

OPEN ALL YEAR

Open to visitors year 'round are Tryon Palace restoration at New Bern; the USS North Carolina Battleship Memorial at Wilmington; Old Salem in Winston-Salem; and State and National historic sites ranging from the birthplace of aviation to Revolutionary and Civil War battlefields.

4-H CLUB EVENT

Poultry Chain Pullets Bring $3.15 At Sale

By GARLAND D. McCULLEN Assistant Agriculture

Extension Agent

Seven Moore County 4-H Club members exhibited pullets at the Poultry Show and Sale which was held at the Fairgrounds in Carthage on September 5. All are members of the 4-H Poultry Chain. During the past six months they fed and managed their flocks of Harco Reds and kept records of their feed and management expenses.

Five of the club members had a flock of 100 each and the other two members had a flock of 500 each on the "Go to College Plan." For each 100 chicks received last March, the 4-H'ers returned 12 of their prize pullets for the show. They were judged for egg production, maturity, and body weight.

Blue ribbons were won by the following exhibitors: Linda Baker, Larry Matthews (flock of 500), Sammy Fishel, Everett Sheffield and Raymond Sheffield. Lassie Scott, Jr., was the winner of a white ribbon; and Phillip Hussey (flock of 500) won a red ribbon.

Tom Morris, extension poultry specialist from North Carolina State College was the judge. After being judged, the flocks were sold at auction. The proceeds from the sale will be used to purchase chicks for new 4-H Poultry Chain members next spring. The average price per pullet was $3.15.

A. B. Parker, Jr., of Vass was auctioneer for the sale.

MILLIONS LISTEN

It is estimated that many millions of people throughout the world listen to the regular programs of the Voice of America which are transmitted each day. In times of crisis, this number jumps into the hundreds of millions of people, and it gives us in the United States a unique way of reaching people behind the Iron Curtain and giving them the message of freedom and the United States.

GROUND COVERS

Ground covers are substitutes for grass in those areas of the landscape where grass is difficult to grow. Most of the plants used for ground covers are low growing with spreading habit. Some spread by underground or surface runners while others spread by the rooting of stems that come in contact with the soil. When good plants are used and properly fed and watered, the spreading types should be well established in about one year.
