Mrs. Eva Prime Founts, noted equestrian artist, and her husband, Paul, of Middleburg, Va., will be here next weekend for the Hunter Trials, February 15, and the Hunt Ball to follow at Pineholme. The couple plans to stay at Whispering Pines.

The arrival of this distinguished painter of horses brings to three the number of women known and established in this interesting field.

A permanent resident of Southern Pines is Mrs. William (Pat) Stratton, and a visitor is Mrs. Marjorie Jackson of Charlottesville, Va., who has been in the section for some time as the guest of Miss Betty Dumaine in Pinehurst.

A painting by Mrs. Jackson, of a horse belonging to Mrs. Rodman Tilt of Bedford Hills, N. Y., was the cover photo of a recent "Chronicle," the equestrian magazine published in Middleburg.

Transient members of the "horse colony" here, now, in the midst of the hunting season, are Mr. and Mrs. William Sterling of Rector, Pa., who have rented the Young Farmhouse and barn for six weeks.

Hunt Breakfast at Pineholme.

Entertaining at the Hunt Breakfast next Thursday at Pineholme will be Mrs. Robert Huffines, who flies here from her home at Yamasee, S. C. for the hunting and returns home the same day.

Mr. and Mrs. Haynes Boren are also here on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday of each week to hunt with the Moore County Hounds. Mr. Boren is Master of the Sedgefield Hunt Club.

Arriving this weekend to visit Mrs. E. O. Smith for the rest of the season is Miss Jane Clark of Dover, Mass.
