Exchange Teacher Talks On Schools In El Salvador

Mrs. Maria de Rauda was honored Thursday afternoon in the Pinehurst High School Library at a tea, given the faculty. Miss Violet Lester, the Southern Pines and the Pinehurst supervisor, introduced Mrs. de Rauda after which refreshments were served. Mrs. de Rauda's visit is sponsored by the International Teacher Program and she is one of nine teachers in America under this program. She is also sponsored by the North Carolina Board of Education. On February 12, she will go to Raleigh and then to Washington, D. C., to return to El Salvador.

In her talk to the teachers, Mrs. de Rauda gave a vivid insight as to school conditions in her country. She stated that classes were conducted in three shifts, the first beginning at 7:30 in the morning; an afternoon class and a night class. Crowded classroom conditions are responsible for this.

It was interesting to learn that these conditions would be relieved by 1968, when adequate classroom space will be available.

The number of students in each class is also very large, in her class she has 45, and in some classes there are as many as 60. The books are purchased by the parents as they have no book rental system.

Her school starts in January and ends in November.

Shutterbug Bugged

When a professional shutterbug is the subject of a news photo, that's as much of a twist as when man bites dog. And that's what happened last week, when Pinehurst's top man with a camera, John Hemmer, was crowned "King of the Mardi Gras Ball," at the annual dance, held Friday night in the National Guard Armory.

Each year, a "mystery" king and queen are announced and crowned just before the grand march. This year, Hemmer was asked to take pictures at the dance as Emerson Humphrey, Southern Pines photographer, he was told, would be out of town.

John dutifully showed up, lugging his equipment. Asked when the unknown monarchs would be announced, he was told "at 11," so at 11, he picked up his camera, all prepared to shoot the picture, and discovered he was elected!

Emerson Humphrey was present to record the historic moment, and the photo appears on another page in today's issue of the Pilot.

We understand John is still dazed with shock, but likely to recover.

Need New Name

Those attending the mid-winter dinner meeting of the local Tennis Club last week got to batting around the idea of adopting a more original name for the group than simply "The Tennis Club." Something, for instance, like the "Double Faulters," which was suggested.

Anyone have any novel ideas? If so, call the club's headquarters, 294-7813, with your suggestion.

Photo Finds
During a long overdue desk clean-up last week, we found a file chuck full of interesting photographs of various people whose pictures have appeared in the Pilot.

Apparently, though there were no dates shown on the backs, these were used during World War II, as there was a bristling preponderance of military uniforms.

One, in fact, showed Maj. Gen. I. T. Wyche, commander of the 79th Infantry Division in WW II (now retired and living in Pinehurst), being decorated by a representative of the French Government with the Legion d'Honneur, at Munchen-Gladbach, Germany.

HERE and AWAY

The Robert F. Beards of Gladwyn, Pa. are occupying the Homer H. Johnson cottage on Midland Road, which they have leased for the spring season.

Miss Bonnie Nugent returned Sunday to Woman's College after spending a few days' semester break here with her parents, the William B. Nugents.

Returning Monday from a week at Palm Beach Gardens, Fla., were Mrs. Robert E. Harlow, her son Eldon Thompson, publisher and vice president of Golf World, and Editor Ray McNally, who attended the Merchandise Show and club championship at the new PGA headquarters at Palm Beach Gardens.

Mrs. Dan Lewis and Mrs. Otho Robinson returned early this week from Winston-Salem where they attended a three-day hairdressers' convention.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Gramelsbach and daughter, Karen, expect to leave this week for Spartanburg, S. C., where they have taken an apartment. Mr. Gramelsbach, an executive with the Deering-Milliken Company, was transferred from the Aberdeen office to Spartanburg in January.

Arriving next week for his semester break with Mrs. S. T. Stevens, is her son, Shelby, a student at Fishburne Academy in Virginia.

After spending several weeks at her home in Erie, Pa., Mrs. Charles A. Dailey is back with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Barrett, at the Pinecrest Inn.

Sgt. and Mrs. William Shamblin and their four children, Gwen, Debbie, William and Paul, left this week for Fort Totten, N. Y., where he has been transferred. They have lived here on Fields Road for over a year.

Thomas C. Ragan, Jr. from Princeton University, who has been spending the between-term holiday with his parents, Adm. and Mrs. Ragan, returned to college Monday.

Bishop and Mrs. Louis C. Melcher left Wednesday for Columbia, S. C., for a few days' visit. Their daughter, Mary, returned Tuesday to St. Mary's Junior College following the mid-term break. An overnight guest Thursday of the Melchers was Gen. LeGrande A. Diller (USA Retired) of Bradenton, Fla.

Woman's Exchange Members To Meet At Carolina Monday

There will be a short meeting of the executive board of the Sandhill Woman's Exchange at 10 a. m. Friday, February 7, at the home of Mrs. Robert Fisher. All board members are urged to be present.

The regular monthly meeting and tea for Exchange members will be held in the cardroom of the Carolina Hotel on Monday, at 3 p. m. Hostesses will be Mrs. H. B. Spelman, Mrs. Heman Gifford, Mrs. B. F. Krafft, Jr., and Mrs. Robert Smith.

Any members who did not receive notice of the meeting are asked to call one of the hostesses to indicate acceptance.

Winners Listed, Country Club Event For Women

Nineteen women members of the Pinehurst Country Club participated in an individual stroke play contest Friday, with the following winning top honors in the two divisions:

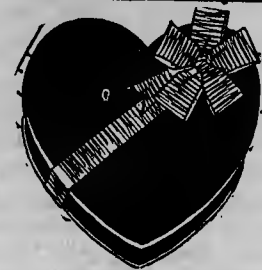

Class A, first— Mrs. Daniel O. Delany, 92-16-76; tied for second, with 79, Mrs. Albert L. Sneed, 96-17, and Mrs. Stuart H. Patterson, 90-11.

Class B, first— Mrs. John E. Barry, Jr., 96-21-75; second, Mrs. John W. Lindsay, 101-24-77.

Southern Pines Players Tops In Duplicate Play

Mrs. T. C. Worth, Jr. and Mrs. J. M. Pleasants of Southern Pines were top winners in the Friday night duplicate bridge club session at the Carolina Hotel.

In second place was another team from Southern Pines, Mrs. Elree May and Frank deCosta, with a pair from Pinehurst, Mrs. Charles A. Dailey and Miss Margaret A. Lavery, in third place.
