VIRGINIA - NORTH CAROLINA 65'

Rates, Benefits Set In New Health Insurance For Persons 65 And Older

Rates and benefit schedules for the Virginia-North Carolina 65 health insurance plan have been agreed upon by the sponsoring insurance industry steering committee.

Approximately 45 major companies writing life and health insurance in the two states are cooperating in making available the special coverage for persons 65 and older, which is expected to be offered to the public later this spring. These companies have established The Virginia-North Carolina 65 Health Insurance Association through which this protection will be available.

Two Types
Richard J. Jones of Greensboro, chairman of the North Carolina steering committee for the plan, said the rates have been set by the committee at: $8.50 monthly for basic coverage; $9.50 monthly for supplemental major medical coverage; and $18 monthly for the combination of basic and major medical coverage.

"We believe that these rates are reasonable, particularly since no medical examination or lengthy health questionnaire will be necessary for enrollment. They are as near to anticipated costs as possible," Jones said. "We feel this will place within the reach of many senior citizens substantial protection against the threat of expensive medical care."

In the near future, enrollment forms and information on procedures will be released and at that time most local licensed insurance agents will be authorized to handle applications.

Who Is Eligible
Persons eligible for enrollment will be residents of the two states who are 65 or older, and the spouses of those who enroll, regardless of age. It will be possible for a son or daughter to enroll a parent, or other dependent relative eligible for coverage.

The Virginia-North Carolina 65

health insurance plan has been drafted by the insurance industry of the two states, under authority of special state legislation. Similar plans are operating successfully in a number of other states, including Connecticut, New York, Massachusetts, and Texas.

Agents selling life and health insurance will enroll persons under the Virginia-North Carolina 65 plan.

While a person may enroll regardless of health, coverage will not be effective for persons confined to a hospital, licensed nursing home, or under care of a private duty nurse, until 31 days after the end of such confinement or nursing care.

Summary of Benefits
A summary of benefits under the three plans follows.

Basic—during each benefit period: hospital room and board up to $12 per day up to 31 days; up to $125 for hospital services and supplies; and surgical benefits up to a top of $240, according to a schedule for performance of surgical procedures.

A benefit period is counted from the time the insured person enters the hospital until 90 days have subsequently been spent free of confinement.

Major medical—up to 80 percent of eligible expenses, with a calendar year maximum of $5,000, and a lifetime maximum of $10,000. Major medical benefits are not payable until expenses in any calendar year go over a $100 deductible, plus the amount payable under the Virginia-North Carolina 65 basic plan.

The combination plan includes both the basic and the major medical coverage.

A non-duplication clause takes into account benefits payable under any other plan of insurance, and limits benefits to the total amount of actual hospital or medical charges.
