

AT MANLY INTERSECTION

3 Young Women Have Narrow Escape From Death When Train Clips Auto

Three young women on their way to work at the Proctor-Silex plant were injured, two seriously, and all narrowly escaped death when the automobile in which they were riding was clipped by a Seaboard Air Line railroad train at the Manly (N. C. 2) crossing Tuesday morning.

The 1963 Chevrolet sedan barely failed to make it across the intersection, headed west after turning off the old No. 1 highway. The Southbound mail-express train, No. 5, on regular schedule at 6:48 a. m. struck the car on the left rear. It spun about on the rain-slick road, coming to a stop facing the track about 150 feet away.

Witnesses said the three girls got out of the car, two of them with bloody heads, shouting for help. At St. Joseph's Hospital, where a passerby took them, two were later reported to be in serious condition. These were Eunice Foster, 20, and Ruby Honeycutt, 19, both of whom suffered head wounds, facial cuts and possible internal injuries, with Miss Foster reportedly being the more seriously hurt. Both are from Vass.

The driver, Della Yow, 20, of Cameron, Route 2, was given first aid and released to go to her own physician at Sanford. She was said to be not seriously injured.

All three are employees at the Proctor-Silex plant, which is a half-mile from the crossing, on N. C. 2, between Manly and Midland Road.

Nearby residents said the train whistle was blowing and the crossing signal was in full action, lights flashing and bell ringing, before the impact. A "Stop" sign is placed in the middle of the highway at the crossing.

After the crash, the train stopped south of the crossing and remained at the scene for 20 minutes.

No charges were immediately preferred pending full investigation of the accident, being conducted by State Highway Patrolman T. S. Clark.

Given Foundation Grants $30,000 To Hospital Here

A grant of $30,000, for the purchase of equipment, has been made to St. Joseph of the Pines Hospital here by the Given Foundation of New York City and Pinehurst, it was announced today by Sister M. Virginia, administrator of the hospital.

A partial list of the equipment to be acquired with the funds includes electric food carriers for all floors, motorized patient stretchers and 12 electric "Hi-Low" patient beds, the administrator said.

She said that hospital officials are pleased that the grant is coming at this particular time as regular hospital funds are being used for renovation and air conditioning of the entire building. Some equipment at the hospital needs replacing and other items need updating to keep services abreast with the best in hospital care, she said.

Sister Virginia said that Eric Nelson of Pinehurst, vice president and trustee of the foundation, was instrumental in making application for the grant to St. Joseph's.

The Irene Heinz Given and John La Porte Given Foundation was established by the late Mr. and Mrs. John L. Given, Pinehurst. (Continued on Page 8)

OVER 100 CHILDREN TAKE PART Camp Easter Closes Summer Season

Camp Easter in the Pines, off the Carthage road north of town, ended its third and final two-week session for handicapped children, Friday, closing a successful first season.

The camp, to which many local persons, organizations and businesses contributed funds, materials or labor, is owned by the North Carolina Society for Crippled Children and Adults with headquarters in Chapel Hill.

Director of the camp was Robert A. Lassiter who has now resigned as executive secretary of the Society and has been replaced by Herbert L. Hawley. A story about this change, with another photo made at the camp, appears on another page of today's Pilot.

Plans are to extend the camping season to three months next summer, said Mrs. Mark Liddell of Southern Pines, south-central area secretary for the state society.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sullivan and family of Southern Pines will move into the staff house at the camp and will act as property managers until next May, under Mrs. Liddell's direction.

During this period the Camp Easter office will move to Liddell House on US 1 South, and all Camp Easter business will be conducted there Monday through Friday, hours 9-5. Tel.: 695-5122.

This temporary Camp Easter office at Liddell House will be operated by Mrs. Liddell. The south central area includes 11 counties—Stanley, Randolph, Hoke, Scotland, Cumberland, Richmond, Robeson, Harnett, Moore, Chatham and Lee.

The Camp will serve a useful purpose during the remainder of the year, as handicapped adult training will begin there this fall.

During this year's six week camp, over 100 crippled children attended. There were many interested visitors from all over the state who came to look at the facilities.

Southern Pines-Pinehurst School Merger To Be Discussed Aug. 11 At Open Meeting In Armory Here

The Southern Pines and Pinehurst Boards of Education have scheduled a public meeting in the National Guard Armory at 7:30 p. m., Tuesday, August 11. Purpose of the session is to explain and discuss a proposed merger of the Southern Pines and Pinehurst administrative school units. Invited to attend are the patrons of the East Southern Pines, West Southern Pines, Pinehurst and Academy Heights Schools, as well as all interested citizens. The meeting was announced by the chairmen of the two boards—Dr. C. C. McLean of Southern Pines and L. B. Creath of Pinehurst.

Several weeks ago the two school boards announced that they were recommending the two school systems be merged, and emphasized that the patrons of the schools and all citizens interested in the educational needs and facilities of the area would be fully informed of the plans.

The program for the public meeting will include explanation of the proposed merger, the legal aspects, proposed curriculum, the teacher allotment, selection of school board members, proposed sites, financing and taxes, student transportation and other aspects of the plan.

Following the formal presentation of the various aspects of the proposal, efforts will be made to answer all questions from the floor, the announcement said.

"The audience-participation in the discussion will help determine the desires of the community on the important problems concerning the education of the children in the elementary grades and high schools now and in the years to come," it was stated.

The proposed merger of the Southern Pines and Pinehurst units into one special "city unit" will need legislation to provide a vote on the matter by the people. Citizens of the two school districts will make the final decision, it was emphasized.

TRUSTEES CHOOSE NAME

It's 'Sandhills Community College'

"Sandhills Community College" it is! By unanimous action, the Community College board of trustees chose that name for the college, Monday night.

Each board member was asked by Chairman H. Clifton Blue to suggest a name. Several ballots were taken before the name of Sandhills Community College received a majority. Motion was then made to name the college and make the formal action unanimous.

The Trustees also heard a progress report on building plans from the architects. The board was told that contracts for construction could be let within two months.

Sources of funds for construction and operation of Sandhills Community College were discussed. Action by the State Advisory Budget Commission to appropriate $500,000 in state funds is anticipated.

The Moore County Commissioners will be asked to hold a public hearing on the question of appropriating the full $1,000,000 from bond issue proceeds. Interested citizens would be given an opportunity to express their views on the matter. Area enrollment projections and state wide experience in community college attendance have led college officials to plan for 600 students instead of 400, as originally thought adequate.

The possibility of capital gifts was raised. A Memorials and Endowment Committee—composed of Chairman Blue, Robert S. Ewing, N. L. Hodgkins, Sr., and John F. Taylor—is developing plans whereby gifts might be received. Raymond A. Stone, college president, suggested that a foundation be established to receive endowment funds. According to Dr. Stone, the primary object of foundation funds would be to attract outstanding faculty members to the college.

In personnel action, Mrs. Sarah Helms of Aberdeen was elected to a secretarial position with the college.

New Pastor Of Baptist Church Assumes Duties

The Rev. John Dawson Stone, who was called as pastor of the First Baptist Church in May, arrived in Southern Pines this week and will conduct services at the church on Sunday.

The Rev. Mr. Stone, with his wife, Catherine S. Stone, and two young daughters, has rented the Lanier house at Manly. The church plans to sell the former parsonage at 260 S. Ashe St., it has been announced.

The church has been without a regular pastor, since January when the Rev. Maynard Mangum, former pastor, was called to Elizabeth City.

A native of Durham, the new pastor has Th. M. and B. D. degrees from Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary at Wake Forest and a B. S. C. E. degree from Duke University, Durham, where he graduated in 1955. His wife is also a 1955 graduate of Duke.

He comes here from Raleigh where he has served as pastor of Trinity Baptist Church since completing his graduate studies at the Seminary in 1961.

A reception, to introduce the Rev. and Mrs. Stone to the community, is tentatively planned for September. The event was delayed until then so that persons on vacation or away for the summer would be able to attend.

Medical Buildings At Pinehurst Are Entered, Robbed

Extensive property damage was done and varying amounts of money stolen when three medical buildings opposite Moore Memorial Hospital at Pinehurst were entered and ransacked in the early hours of Wednesday morning.

Pinehurst Police Chief J. T. Shepherd said that the three structures entered were the offices of Dr. J. C. Grier, Jr.; the Pinehurst Surgical Clinic, containing the offices of seven physicians; and the new Pinehurst Medical Center, with offices of two physicians, a pharmacy, the Mental Health Clinic, a surgical and corset shop and an optician office.

From the extent of the damage and other evidence, Chief Shepherd judged that more than one person must have been involved. Entry was made sometime between midnight Tuesday and 6 a. m. Wednesday, he said. He is being assisted in the investigation by the Moore County Sheriff's department and the SBI, but said today there is nothing to announce at this time.

Throughout the buildings, windows were broken, doors smashed and drawers and files were disturbed and ransacked, apparently in a search for cash.

Probably the hardest hit was the Medical Center Pharmacy where a cash box was broken (Continued on Page 8)

Budget Adopted; New Medical Care Program Omitted

A 1964-65 budget totalling $1,563,917—with a $1.05 per $100 of property valuation tax rate—was adopted by the county commissioners in a special meeting at Carthage Monday afternoon.

The budget is based on an estimated county-wide real and personal property valuation of $89 million.

Tuesday was the deadline for adopting the budget, after a tentative budget, approved by the board July 6, had been open to public inspection for 20 days.

At Monday's meeting, the budget was read by John C. Muse of Sanford, head of the county's auditing firm and was immediately adopted by the commissioners.

The action was taken before Joe H. Allen, chairman of the county welfare board, and Mrs. Walter B. Cole, welfare director, who had been present from the start of the meeting, could ask the commissioners if they had included in the budget $3,343 (Continued on Page 8)

Board To Study County Zoning

At a special meeting in Carthage Monday, the county commissioners agreed to ask the county attorney, M. G. Boyette of Carthage, to furnish them with information on county zoning procedures.

Commissioner W. S. Taylor brought the matter up, saying that zoning was necessary to protect the area of the Sandhills Community College, on the Pinehurst-Airport road, and also in the area of the county's three consolidated high schools.

Other areas outside town limits need protection in various ways, he said.

The commissioners said they hoped they could have enough information by their regular meeting Monday of next week, to start planning for county zoning regulations.
