Peanuts at the 'Met'

An art that started life in the French Court as an entertainment exclusively for kings and queens and noblemen, then moved to Russia into the same rarified atmosphere—ballet—has moved, in this century, out of this snooty category. Ballet is now almost as popular a spectator "sport" as basketball or ice skating, and should be, it's nearly twice as strenuous.

When the legendary Russian, Vaslav Nijinski, appeared in one of the best-known ballets in his repertoire, "Spectre de la Rose," he became as winded as a prize fighter after this apparently light and airy, eight-minute exercise and, after his famous leap which carried him across the width of the stage at the ballet's end, had to have a quick massage in the wings to keep from passing out.

When members of Russia's Bolshoi troupe appeared at the Metropolitan Opera House, the walls were spattered with blood and sweat, according to reporters in on their practice sessions.

Over 500 Moore County school children will be seeing the N. C. State Ballet's Junior and First Com any at a free performance next Wednesday afternoon at the Pinehurst School Auditorium. If this is the first time at the ballet for most of them, we envy them their experience. This is an art form which should and does appeal to children, who like, above all things, action.

We attended some years ago, a matinee performance of the Ballet Theatre at the 'Met' in New York and the place was full of kids and they had a ball. First time we ever saw peanuts eaten at the staid and dignified old House.

Sensation in a Supermarket
Want to know how to create a sensation in a supermarket? Easy. Just load your cart with 40 pounds of dried beans, 17 pounds of salt pork and five gallons of molasses, and roll it casually up to the check-out counter.

This is guaranteed to draw a reaction, says Mrs. John L. McKenzie who did it last week.

One little old lady asked solemnly, "Does your family like dried beans and molasses?" "I don't really know," said "Chickie" McKenzie, who has a minimum of seven at the table when all her family is at home, "I haven't tried it on them."

A statuesque blond next accosted her in astonishment: "If you don't mind my asking, what in the world are you going to do with all those dried beans and all that molasses?"

Well, the answer to the riddle made sense: these were the basic raw ingredients for the baked beans to be served at the PTA Ham and Bean supper, Saturday, November 14, at the school cafeteria. Mrs. McKenzie, Mrs. Rassist E. Wicker and their committee not only buy the food, but they cook up the basic raw ingredients into a mighty good finished product.

St. Andrews Choir To Give Program At Village Chapel

The St. Andrews College Choir will present a program of religious music at the Village Chapel on Sunday, November 22, at 4:30 pm. Included in the program are examples of contemporary music as well as spirituals and selections by medieval composers.

The 54-student choir is under the direction of Lawrence Skinner, who holds graduate degrees from Ohio State University.

Recently, the choir was chosen to sing for the Presbyterian series on NBC's "Protestant Hour." Last spring they went on tour, singing in churches and schools in this state, Virginia, and Maryland.

A. M. Morris Dies; Mass To Be Held Friday

Archibald McAllister Morris, a resident of Pinehurst for the past six years, died Monday morning at St. Joseph's Hospital. He was 75.

Mass will be sung Friday at 10:30 am from Holy Name Tabernacle in Chicago, Ill., with interment in Calvary Cemetery, Chicago.

For several years before his retirement, Mr. Morris was associated with McGraw-Hill Publishing Company. He came to Pinehurst from Larchmont, N. Y., in 1958. He was a member of the Tin Whistles and the Pinehurst Country Club.

Surviving are one son, James M. Morris of Larchmont; and one sister, Miss Helen Morris of Wollaston, Mass.

In lieu of flowers, the family requests that donations be made to St. Joseph's Hospital.

FHA Girls Plan Fruitcake Sale

The Pinehurst chapter, Future Homemakers of America, held its monthly meeting Monday. June McKenzie, vice president of the group, talked about earning degrees in FHA and Joan Fields read a poem about earning degrees.

The members plan to make fruitcakes for Christmas and request that persons interested in buying these get their orders in to Miss Jerry Jones, advisor, Janice Fields, or one of the girls. by Donie Edson, reporter

SALE AIDS LOCAL CHURCH

Open hours are 8:45 am to 5 pm Friday and Saturday for the annual fall rummage sale at the Community House. Sponsors are the Women of the Pinehurst Community Church and proceeds are used by them for special church projects. In addition to the many bargains in furniture, kitchen and other household furnishings and children and adult's clothing, a special feature of the sale is the homebaked goods.
