

First Move Of Equipment Into New Building Made By Crew Of The Pilot

Well, the linotype machines moved into the Pilot's new composing room last week.

Lest that sentence give a wrong impression of their progress—such as gracefully rolling themselves over into their allotted corner in a matter of minutes—we hasten to say: it was not like that.

If there is anything more grotesquely awkward than a linotype machine, we don't want to hear about it. It is heavy as ten mill stones, and ornery as a snake, with, when mobilized, a snake's malignant delight in twists and sudden darts and stoppings. It is top-heavy as an elephant with a howdah on his back; its shape, inexplicably confused, goes off in strange and, it would seem, unnecessary angles, climaxing in a high shaky thing at the top, clearly bent on unbalancing the whole machine if it can. Actually the machine itself is not unlike a camel with an extra big hump. It also resembles a camel in the fact that when angry it spits. It spits boiling lead at the drop of a hat—one of its less virulent characteristics. A linotype machine is supported on four crouching, iron, piano legs.

The Pilot's two monsters, after a terrifying passage from their nook in the old shop, now repose in their new quarters. How did they get there? Ask Mike, Jim, Charlie, Robby. Or don't ask them. Not if this account is to be printed.

First: A Dolly

First dollies were borrowed from the kind Trimble Company. For those who, like this reporter, are not too sure what this kind of a dolly is, we attempt elucidation. A dolly is something very heavy and strong, a kind of criss-cross rack that you put under something else heavier and stronger in order to move it. Its ability to move depends on its four detached feet, like flat wooden sandals—kind of each one mounted on a wheel that will swivel. This is the secret horror of the dolly. Each iron foot of the machine being moved sits on one of these flat sandals. All would be well except for that revolving wheel, enabling the whole thing to go just about anywhere it wants. Ornerly? Let me tell you: Each one of these sandals of the dolly has a built-in mind, edad-set and determined not to go where it is meant to go and urged to go, and cussed at to go.

"Pivot!" Mike cries. "Swing her to the left!" and off she goes in a long slide to the right.

A Running Fight

The four engaged in this running fight to move the two machines were armed each with a crowbar. Two of them squatted in front of the monster, each iron bar braced against the rollers, straining fiercely to keep the machine from coming on too fast or tearing off to one side or sliding wickedly from under the iron feet of the machine. Behind came the two other lion-tamers, pushing. The great thing towered between them so that neither pair could see what the other was doing or know what was happening. They communicated by shouts and whoops, that sometimes rose into screams of anguish as the feet suddenly stuck, causing the machine to totter frighteningly, or, as it charged forward, the pair in front in grave danger of getting run down, desperately fending it off. Then would come the bellow: "Hold it! Hold it!" and all progress would stop.

Well, they got there! First one machine and then the other, with a bit of rest in between to catch the breath. Each big machine was shepherded into its stall, and the aim was so good that it required only the least bit of careful prodding to edge the machines the half inch or so needed to put them right in the center. And, another near miracle: a carpenter's level placed on top of each one, showed the bubble plumb in the middle, testifying to the perfect level of the new floor.

On Our Way

So now The Pilot is occupying two large shops: part of it is the new one and part still in the hospital Tuesday.

Harvey Lathans In Post-Game Crash With Egg-Laden Truck On Highway 1

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Lathan of Pinebluff were injured, their 1960 Chevrolet totally demolished and a big tractor-trailer truck loaded with 680 cases of eggs was badly damaged Friday night, in a freak accident on the US Highway 1 bypass.

The Lathans, who had just attended the Aberdeen-Southern Pines game in which their son Mac played on the Aberdeen team, were driving along the right-hand northbound lane between the Pennsylvania and Midland Road overpasses, preliminary to crossing to the southbound lane to go to Pinebluff.

At the crossover just south of the Mid Pines Lake, according to Sgt. Charles L. Wilson of the local police department, the Lathan car was in collision with the heavily-loaded truck, which was also proceeding north.

The two vehicles skidded together 291 feet along the highway before the tractor-trailer fell on its side on the right-hand shoulder, and the Lathan car

IT WAS A RUNNING FIGHT as the two Linotype Machines were moved, one by one, from the old shop to their new quarters. Here the first of the extremely heavy machines is being edged into place by the composing-room gang. From left, clockwise, they are: Tommy (Shag) Mattocks, linotype operator and make-up; Robby Coffin, pressman; Jim Pate, linotype operator; Charles Weatherspoon, make-up, and Mike Valen, shop foreman. Actually, it's a posed picture—Shag had to miss the chore as he was taking Pilots to Pinehurst.

THE TWO MACHINES come to rest in their new quarters where they are hard at work rattling away under the quick fingers of Dixie Ray and Jim Pate.

old. The latter will stay put, with the old press in use until, in due course, the new one will come to take its place over the concrete-lined pit that has been prepared for it. Meantime, members of the writing gang still go plunging down into the old composing-room, look blankly around for the linotypes, look for the copy hooks, and then suddenly it's "Oh! Of course! they have moved—!" and they reverse gears to charge back up the old stairs, down the new stairs, across the beautiful new cement floor to where the machines crouch in their corner rattling away under the quick fingers of Dixie and Jim.

Parent-Teacher Conferences Set Wednesday P.M.

Wednesday of next week has been designated Parent-Teacher Conference Day at East Southern Pines school, when parents are asked to meet with the teachers of their children to discuss matters of mutual interest concerning the school.

It will be a half-day for students, who will attend classes in the morning. Buses will run as usual that morning, then at 12 noon. No lunch will be served in the cafeteria.

Conference hours with the parents have been set by all faculty members from 1 to 5 pm, with appointments to be made by returning the appointment slips given all students Tuesday of this week. Parents who cannot arrange to confer at the designated hour are asked to call the homeroom teacher for another time. All parents are asked to make every effort to visit the teacher as requested, in the interest of better understanding between teachers, parents and pupils.

PATRONIZE OUR ADVERTISERS

hospital Tuesday. Billy Winfield, Negro, of Apex, Rt. 2, driver of the tractor-trailer owned by Haywood Atkins Trucking Co. of Cary, climbed unhurt from the cab as it lay on its side. He told police he was proceeding north in the left-hand lane at about 50 miles an hour when the Lathan car slowed, then turned from the right-hand lane directly in his path. He said he was unable to stop the truck in time. The accident occurred at 10:10 pm, while there was considerable traffic on the highway following the football game, at the local field near the Morganton Road overpass. Chief Earl Seawell and other officers who had been on duty at the game were quickly on hand, and all the officers worked together to get the injured to the hospital, the highway cleared and the traffic unimpeded.

3-State Handicap Bowling Tourney Starts December 1

The Sandhills Handicap Bowling Tournament will be held at the OK Bowl in Southern Pines, starting December 1, with some 1,000 entries expected from the three-state area of Virginia, North and South Carolina.

Sponsor of the tournament, which will be the largest bowling event ever held in this section, will be the Southern Pines Junior Chamber of Commerce.

It is open to both men and women, with play on a handicap basis, authenticated by the player's bowling association. Membership in the American Bowling Congress or the Women's International Bowling Congress is required. Guaranteed first prize for men will be $200, and $120 for women, with automatic increases if entries exceed the guarantees. There will be a prize for each 10 entries.

Two special humanitarian projects will benefit from the tournament, with a portion of each entry fee being donated to the Lake Waccamaw Boys Home and Camp Easter, the Easter Seal camp for crippled children at Southern Pines.

The Jaycees urge all local bowlers to support these causes, and the tournament, and make application to Charlie Watkins, manager of the OK Bowl.

MAYOR CUTS RIBBON Wednesday evening at the opening of Kelly's Flower & Gown Shop, on Old US 1 just south of the town limits. Looking on is Mrs. Dorothy Kelly of Rockingham, proprietor of the new shop, which features flowers and floral arrangements of all kinds, brides' and bridesmaids' gowns and other special-occasion apparel, while offering also a complete wedding service.

After the ribbon was cut, a fashion show was held, with local models showing some of the new season's prettiest styles. (Pilot photo)

LEAGUE BOWLING

Sandhill Bowlerettes Team Results

Mill Outlet 4 - Southern National Bank 0. Carolina Bank 0 - Carolina Soap Candle 4. The Billie-Fran 1 - Barnum Realty & Ins. 3. Craig Drug Co. 2 - Cornell's TV Repair 2.

High Ind. Series, Judy Cameron 489; High Ind Single, Dorothy McCrimmon 231; High Team Single Carolina Soap & Candle 583 and High Team Lines The Billie-Fran 1665.

Standings table with columns for Team, Won, and Lost. Includes teams like Barnum Realty & Ins., Carolina Soap & Can., and Mill Outlet.

Ole Timers Results

Senators 4, Phillies 0 (By default); Capitols 3, Giants 1; Red Legs 3, Pine Cones 1; Braves 3, Tigers 1; Indians 3, Yankees 1; High Team Game, Capitols 978; High Team 3 Games, Capitols 2786; High Ind. Game, S. Poole 251 (new high for the year); High Ind. 3 Games, S. Poole 585.

Standings table for Ole Timers with columns for Team, Won, and Lost. Includes teams like Capitols, Yankees, and Red Legs.

Knights Drop Championship Tilt 20-7; Now Seek Regional Title, Wake Forest

BY JOHN McLAUGHLIN

Coach Tony Trentini's Southern Pines High School Knights ended up on the short end of a 20-7 score Friday night. Consequently, Coach Bobby Brendell's Aberdeen Red Devils won outright possession of the Cape Fear Conference Championship for the 1964 season. Aberdeen's conference record was nine wins and no losses, while runner-up Southern Pines finished up with eight wins and one lone loss.

In the first quarter, neither team was able to generate much offensive thrust. However, this quarter unfolded a punting battle between Southern Pines' Harry Webb and Aberdeen's Wayne Lewis, with both boys getting off fine punts.

Early in the second quarter, the Red Devils' Lewis got off a 37-yard punt, which rolled dead on the Southern Pines nine yard-line. After being unable to move the ball, the Knights' Harry Webb punted on third down.

Mrs. Musser Passes Monday At Cleveland

Mrs. James Coburn Musser, the former Marion Andrews, daughter of the late Mrs. James Andrews of this community, died Monday in Lakeside Hospital in Cleveland, Ohio, after a long illness. She is survived by her husband, of Akron, Ohio; 2 daughters; a sister, Mrs. C. A. Lohman of New Haven, Conn., and a brother, Edward D. Andrews, of Akron, Ohio, and Southern Pines.

Mrs. Musser spent much time with her mother in former years, first in "Little House" at Pinehurst, then in the beautiful home on Connecticut Avenue Extension, Southern Pines, built by Mrs. Andrews in 1930. She had many friends in the Sandhills communities.

Mrs. Musser was the prime mover in starting the Mary Day Nursery in Akron, which later became the Children's Hospital. She was an active member of the board for many years. She also started the Old Trail School for children. During World War 2, while living in New York, she drove a night ambulance.

Tentative funeral plans were for services to be held Thursday at her church, St. Paul's Episcopal, in Akron, with burial in Rose Hill cemetery there.

ACHIEVEMENT NIGHT

The Moore County Home Demonstration Achievement Night Program will be held Friday, November 13, at Union Pines School. A covered dish supper will be enjoyed at 6:30 pm and the program will begin at 8 pm. The public is invited to the program. Highlights of the year's work will be given in form of a play. Awards will be presented by Carolina Bank, Carthage Jaycees and the Regional Librarian.

MOORE COUNTY'S LEADING NEWS AND ADVERTISING WEEKLY.

Aberdeen took possession of the ball on the Blue Knights' 31-yard line and scored their first touchdown nine plays later, with Gary Mofield scoring on a one-yard plunge. Red Devil tackle Bill Yates kicked the point after touchdown to give Aberdeen a 7-0 lead. Southern Pines took the ensuing kickoff, and aided by a 24-yard return by Peter Pezzi, began a drive on their own 44-yard line. Seven plays later, the Knights' Jerry Wilson faked a fourth down punt, and rifled a 31-yard touchdown pass to Peter Pezzi. Pezzi carried on the extra point attempt, which was successful. At halftime, the score was tied at 7-7.

After exchanging fumbles with the Knights early in the third period, Aberdeen fashioned a 67-yard scoring drive, scoring in 12 plays. Aberdeen fullback Gene Thompson carried for the final one and one-half yards. The PAT was unsuccessful. After receiving the after-touchdown kickoff, Southern Pines drove to their own 46-yard line before the drive bogged down. On fourth down, Webb unleashed a tremendous 47-yard punt, which gave Aberdeen possession of the ball on the following seven-yard line. In the following series of downs, halfback Gary Mofield carried for six yards before he broke loose on a second down 87-yard scoring gallop. Mofield carried the ball off tackle, raced outside the Knights' defenders and outran everyone off the touchdown. Yates kicked the extra point, which gave a 20-7 advantage at the end of the third quarter.

During the fourth quarter, neither team was able to score again. The game ended with Aberdeen in possession of the ball on the its own 45-yard line. This Saturday Coach Trentini's Knights will journey to Wake Forest to play their first game in quest of the Western Regional 1-A Championship. Their opponent is Helena High school, winner of the North Central 1-A Conference Championship, whose record is six wins, two losses and two ties. The game will be in Wake Forest High School Stadium, with kickoff set for 8 p.m. The return will be a homecoming for Coaches Trentini and Larry Addleton. Trentini lived in Wake Forest for 12-years—four as a student at Wake Forest College, and eight as head football coach and athletic director at Wake Forest High School. Coach Addleton is a former resident of Wake Forest, and played football there under the tutelage of Coach Trentini. It is hoped that many local fans will attend the game and give the Blue Knights the support they need and deserve in this crucial contest.

USDA figures received this week show that, as of last Thursday, a total of 16,700,000 pounds had been sold on the two markets, for about $9,548,000. At Aberdeen's three warehouses, 10,145,840 pounds were sold for a total of $5,741,390—an average of $56.59 per 100 pounds. At Carthage's two warehouses, total poundage sold was 6,552,162, for $3,806,053—an average of $57.83 per 100 pounds. The averages compare well with the others in the 11-market Middle Belt, where the lowest was $3.86 at Ellerbe, and the highest 60.93 at Fuquay-Varina.

Average throughout the Belt was 58.95, as 168,032,965 pounds were sold for a total of $99,080,205. All the figures will be revised, adding the results of final sales during this past week.

IN BIOLOGIST CLUB

John Frye, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Frye of Carthage, is a member of the Highland Biologist Club at Appalachian State Teachers College, Boone. The club, which has 32 members, promotes scientific interest on the campus and participation in scientific activities while encouraging the improvement of sciences teaching. John is a sophomore, majoring in biology.

STATISTICS table with columns for SP, A, T, and various game statistics like First Downs, Yards Passing, etc.

Table with columns for SP, A, T and various statistics including First Downs, Yards Passing, Yards Rushing, Passes Completed, Kickoff Returns, Punt Returns, Punt Returns No Return, Fumbles Recovered By, and Passes Intercepted By.