

Food stamps, soon to be used in Moore County, are like a new industry, says an official. See page 8, Section 2.

THE PILOT

Three adult education courses are announced this week by the college here. See page 8 and page 1, Section 3.

Library Display Shows Long-range Town Plan

Interested citizens may view several maps of a long-range, comprehensive development plan for Southern Pines, throughout this month, in the new art gallery of the town library, John Faulk, chairman of the gallery committee, reports.

These planning studies are

OLD PHOTOS OF TOWN ON VIEW

In association with the town and area planning exhibit in the new art gallery of the Southern Pines Library, a display of over 100 old photos showing scenes of Southern Pines in days gone by has been arranged in the adjoining small gallery at the library.

Persons loaning material for the exhibit include the Misses Virginia and Nell Huttenhauer, Harry Goldsmith, Miss Ruth Doris Swett, Mrs. Ella Chatfield, Mrs. William Matchett and Mrs. John F. Faulk.

SAILOR CHARGED

Knifing Victim Still Critical

But Improving

A young Hoke County man is in critical condition at St. Joseph's Hospital, and a Richmond County sailor is charged with cutting him in an affray involving the first youth's estranged wife at Barney's Danceland (The Red Barn) on old US 1 north of here, Saturday night.

Michael McKenzie, 21, of Rockingham, a U. S. Navy man home on leave, made $3,000 bond Monday on a provisional charge of felonious assault, pending the outcome of the condition of William Morris, 21, of Lumber Bridge, Route 1.

Morris, a third-shift employee of J. P. Stevens & Co. at Aberdeen, suffered a knife gash halfway round his body from the front of the abdomen to the backbone. His intestines were pierced and spinal

'Guidelines' To Area Published

"Southern Pines Guidelines," a local information and promotion booklet of interest and usefulness to both visitors and native residents, has been published and widely distributed in the Sandhills by John Owen Jones and Cay Jones, in cooperation with the Merchants Council and the Town's Resort Advertising Committee.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones were retained by the committee last fall to do news and publicity work for the Town. The booklet replaces an information brochure formerly issued by the merchants.

"Guidelines" describes the attractions of the area, golf courses and places of interest to visit, has a two-page map of the area extending as far as the airport and the Country Club of North Carolina, and notes upcoming events of the Spring season.

Restaurants, hotels, motels and other service establishments and businesses have advertising in the booklet. It is available free at these places and at numerous other locations serving the public.

Wildlife Convention Scheduled At Raleigh

The annual state convention of the North Carolina Wildlife Federation with which the Moore County Wildlife Club is associated, will be held at the Sir Walker Hotel in Raleigh, February 24-26.

Mrs. Cornelia Vann, secretary of the Moore Club, asked The Pilot to bring the convention to the attention of club members, as formal notice has not previously been given to them.

It is expected that a number of Moore Club members will attend all or part of the meeting, Mrs. Vann said.

being done through a contract with the North Carolina Department of Conservation and Development Division of Community Planning, in Raleigh. The Town of Southern Pines is appropriating funds over a two-year period for the initial phases of the planning program while the federal government more than matches the town's amount with planning assistance funds under the new Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The exhibit includes a large aerial photograph mosaic of the entire area, a base map showing physical features, a land-use map, a comprehensive zoning map, a proposed thoroughfare plan, a subdivision topographic model, and a color slide show of "deirable and poor taste examples" in the vicinity.

According to Donald W. Bradley of Southern Pines, the community planner in charge of the local work, who also prepared the exhibit, the purpose of the show is to inform citizens of the planning program and its progress. "The planning process must have knowledgeable citizen participation to be effective and democratic," he believes.

The display will be studied by the Town Council, Planning Board, Zoning Board, Parkway Beautification Committee, interested civic organizations, local public and parochial school classes and the Community College and will be open to the public during regular library hours.

"It is hoped that people will sign the guest book and record their comments which will be considered in formulating further design and recommendations of the plan," Bradley said.

The Town will be provided with published reports and documents, including a population and economic study, a land development plan, subdivision regulations, and a new zoning ordinance "as guides to insure an orderly physical development."

SEN. JOE S. SINK

Sink Announces Candidacy For State Senator

State Senator Joe S. Sink of Lexington in Davidson County this week announced that he will be a candidate for reelection, seeking the Democratic Party's nomination in the May primary. He is one of three candidates so far to announce in the new 19th Senatorial District which includes five counties — Davidson, Montgomery, Moore, Richmond and Scotland. The district will have two senators in the 1967 General Assembly.

Announcing their candidacies for the Democratic state senatorial nomination two weeks ago were J. F. Allen of Biscoe in Montgomery County and Voit Gilmore of Southern Pines, incumbent state senator in the old 18th District. The new 19th District was created in the recent special session of the General Assembly, for reapportionment. (Continued on Page 8)

MEETING POSTPONED

The Moore County commissioners, who had announced plans for a midmonth special meeting Tuesday of this week, postponed it to Tuesday, February 22, at 2 pm because of a conflict with a district meeting at Rockingham.

EARLY ARRIVALS — Dr. Raymond A. Stone, right, was on hand at the Sandhills Community College campus this morning to greet the first group of about 30 students arriving to attend various science classes there. Next to the president is Miss Shirley Hare of Route 2, Robbins, and the three young men are, left to right: Bruce Monroe of Aberdeen, Jerry Lawrence of Sanford and Richard Austin of Raleigh. ALL-DAY EVENT SET SATURDAY

Many Entries In Hunter Trials

Close to 100 horses and at least eight hunt teams had been entered by early this week in the annual Hunter Trials to be held Saturday at the Scotts Corner course, off Youngs Road.

An official of the sponsoring

Moore County Hounds said the entry list is thought to be a record and well surpasses the entries of last year.

Starting time is 10 am for junior riders, in three classes, and 2 pm for the adult classes — First Season, Thoroughbred, Non-Thoroughbred and Open Hunters and Hunt Teams — also a new class, Amateur Owner-Rider, which is being added this year.

Climaxing the afternoon will be the final Championship Class, for the Stoneybrook Perpetual Trophy in which first and second place winners in other classes are eligible to compete. A special feature will be the awarding of the Field Hunter Challenge Trophy to a horse regularly hunted with the Moore County Hounds.

The entire Hunter Trials course can be seen from the parking spaces which may be (Continued on Page 8)

Kirkman Joins Barnum Firm In Real Estate

John S. Ruggles, president of Barnum Realty & Insurance Company, announced this week that Ira J. Kirkman has joined the firm as a real estate broker. Mr. Kirkman is managing the sales office at Highland Trails for the Barnum company which assumed exclusive management of that residential sub-division on December 1.

Rescue Units In Cape Fear Search

Members of all four units of the Moore County Rescue Squad — Robbins, Vass, Carthage and the Sandhill unit with headquarters at Aberdeen — took part last week and over the weekend in searching operations for three members of the Allen family presumed lost in a boating accident at Lock 3 on the Cape Fear River, according to Col. A. M. Koster, Moore County Civil Defense director.

Some 25 rescue units from around the state, using 50 boats, took part in the search on Sunday, reported Sonny Guion, commander of the Sandhill unit.

Camellia Exhibit At Library Here Set

The annual exhibition of a wide variety of camellia blossoms from the estate of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Morton on Youngs Road will begin at the Southern Pines Library on Monday, to continue, with new flowers added regularly, through March 5, Mrs. S. H. Lambourne, librarian, announces.

The library showing of the flowers began a number of years ago, when the estate was owned by the late Harry Vale who cultivated and developed many rare and beautiful plants.

Basketball Tournament Scheduled

Its basketball tournament time again for the high schools of Moore County.

Starting at Wadesboro Monday, to run through Saturday, will be the Central Tarheel Conference tournament in which Southern Pines, Aberdeen, Union Pines and North Moore will be playing — from this county — along with East and West Montgomery schools, Rohanen, Jordan Matthews of Siler City and Wadesboro.

Coach David Page of Southern Pines said last night that final seedings have not been made, but that it's probable that Southern Pines girls will play their first game at 4 pm Monday and the boys their first at 5:30 pm that day. Wadesboro is expected to be seeded No. 1 in both boys' and girls' divisions.

There will be four games Monday, three on both Tuesday and Wednesday and two on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Sandhill Conference The Sandhill Conference tournament — with Pinehurst and West End taking part as the Moore County members of the conference — will be played (Continued on Page 8)

20 ENROLLED AT UNION PINES SCHOOL

Students Taking Trade Courses

Twenty students at Union Pines High School, between Carthage and Vass (mail address: Route 1, Cameron) are taking part in the Industrial Cooperative Training (ICT) vocational education program there. Both boys and girls are included.

After 1 pm each school day, they leave their classrooms and go to jobs in a variety of trade occupations. They work on Saturdays, too. For the on-the-job work, they are paid wages comparable to those paid any other employees of equal skill and experience.

Thus, they are earning while they are learning; and North Carolina educators have found, over the many years the program has been operating in industrial plants and businesses of this state, that it is turning out young people who have a big headstart in the increasingly demanding business of making a living.

To enter the ICT program a student must be 17 years of age, must be a junior, must be able to furnish some type of transportation to and from work, and must be recommended by the school. (Continued on Page 3)

First Classes Held Today In College's New Building

Students of the science classes of Sandhills Community College today (Thursday) moved into the spacious and modern laboratories and classrooms of the just-completed Science Building on the college campus, off the Pinehurst-Airport road.

Use of the building was first scheduled for Wednesday, but last-minute preparations were not completed in time.

The first unit of the three-building complex to be opened, it will be used for classes in biology, chemistry, electronics and physics. Faculty members as well as students are enthusiastic over the new and up-to-date facilities. Faculty members — John Newcomer, physics; Donald W. Whelan, biology; John H. Carpenter, television and radio; and H. L. Thornburg, chemistry — agree that training and experimentation in their fields of teaching will be highly effective with the technical and scientific equipment of the laboratories and study rooms.

The opening of the Science Building is another milestone in the growth and development of the college, and comes exactly a year after the contracts for construction of the buildings were awarded to six North Carolina firms. Designed by Hayes-Howell & Associates, Architects, of Southern Pines, the red brick, white pillared structures admirably suit the 180-acre wooded campus site given to the college by Mrs. C. Louis Meyer of Pinehurst.

For Nursing Training
The second floor of the Science Building also includes an area which will be used by the Department of Nursing Training which will be added to the curriculum in the fall. Director of the department is Mrs. Regina S. Schendler who holds a B. S. Degree in Education from New York University. (Continued on Page 8)

SYSTEM TO CHANGE

3 Officials Of Courts Plan To Ask Reelection

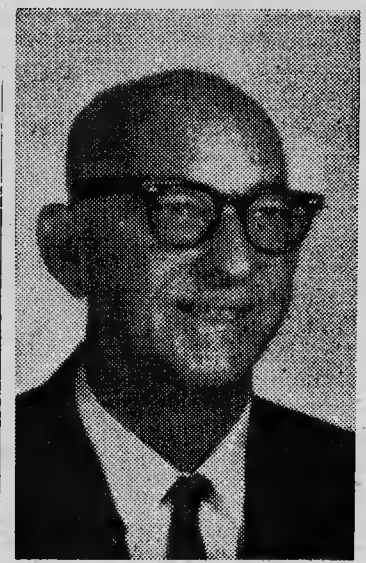

Three Moore County elective court officials all said this week they plan to run again in the Democratic primary this May, in the last elections for these particular posts.

When another election year rolls around, State court reform will be well under way, taking place in six North Carolina districts this year, in Moore and about 20 other counties in 1968. The rest of the State will follow in 1970.

Judge J. Vance Rowe of Moore Recorder's Court at Carthage and W. Lamont Brown, solicitor, both said they will seek reelection for the coming term — the last one of the court's existence. With the coming of the new district courts, the present lower courts — both county and municipal — will terminate.

C. C. Kennedy of Carthage, clerk of Moore Superior Court since 1948, will run again for this office, which will not be voted on again. With the coming of court reform, it will be appointive, not elective.

The courts and clerk's office will become responsibilities of the State, no longer of the county (or as in the case of the Southern Pines and Aberdeen courts, of the municipality).

MR. LEWIS

Fred G. Lewis Named To School Post. Pinehurst

Fred G. Lewis has been named superintendent of the Pinehurst City Schools to succeed the late Lewis S. Cannon, according to an announcement made this week by J. W. Sheffield, chairman of the Pinehurst board of education.

Mr. Lewis will assume his duties on Monday, February 21. He and his wife will occupy a home on Short Road. The post of superintendent has been vacant since the death of Mr. Cannon on December 5. (Continued on Page 8)

FREE CLASSES SET NEXT WEEK

Civil Defense Course To Begin

"Education for Living in the Nuclear Age," a free course covering all aspects of Civil Defense — with emphasis on what families can do to protect themselves in case of nuclear war or natural disaster — will start Monday at East Southern Pines High School.

Classes will be held each evening, Monday through Friday, at 7:30 pm, to last about two hours, said Charles Scott, project chairman for the sponsoring Jaycees. Full cooperation is being given by the State Department of Public Instruction and local Supt. J. W. Jenkins, as well as by Col. A. M. Koster, county and local Civil Defense director.

The specially trained instructor will be from the State education department. Persons planning to attend the course may register with any Jaycee; with Colonel Koster whose county CD office is in the Information Center building; or with Mr. Jenkins' office. Persons may also register at the first course session.

Films, slides and other visual aid material will be used, as well as verbal presentation by the instructor. The sponsors emphasize that the course presentation will be varied and interesting, not merely a series of lectures each night.

3 Escaped Prisoners Apprehended Here After Business Area Chases

Three young Negroes who escaped Monday from a Lillington prison camp road gang working on Pope AFB, were captured Tuesday night after a cops-and-robbers chase through midtown alleys here.

Spotted about 9 pm on the corner of Pennsylvania and Bennett by Sgt. L. D. Beck in the police car, they disappeared into the darkness behind the Southern Pines library, the post office and neighboring buildings. Beck radioed for help and was joined by Patrolmen Robert Moore and Bill McNeill, with Police Chief Earl Seawell and members of the sheriff's department also arriving in short order.

The pursued men ducked and dodged in a chase which lasted altogether about two hours. By 11 pm two had been caught, offering no further resistance, and the third had gone into the lighted showroom of the Carolina Soap & Candle Co. nearby, where an employee, Sid Hackney, was working late, and asked that police be called so he could give himself up.

The three were identified as Freddy Taylor, 19, Levi Hamilton, 22, and Rufus Bailey, no age given. They told officers that, after walking off the road gang near the sewage plant on the air base, they had spent the night in the woods. They admitted breaking into the Alvin Quick home on Youngs Road, taking only food, Tuesday afternoon.

Officials from the Lillington camp came for them that night. Moore deputies assisting local police in the capture were H. H. Grimm, Ed Cockman and J. A. Lawrence.
