IN DEMOCRATIC PRIMARY

4 Commissioners File; Auman To Run Again For State House

Following a special session at Carthage Tuesday morning a.d. a public hearing that afternoon, four Moore County commissioners paid their fees and filed for renomination subject to the Democratic primary, May 28.

They were John M. Currie of Carthage, J. M. Pleasants of Southern Pines, W. S. Taylor of Aberdeen and C. Wiley Purvis of Robbins.

The fifth commissioner, W. Lynn Martin of Eagle Springs, was not present for the meeting or hearing, and had not at that time filed or made known his intentions.

Other filings of the past week have included those of Voit Gilmore of Southern Pines, who had previously announced his intention of seeking reelection to the State Senate, and Moore Rep. Clyde Auman of West End. Both the men served their first General Assembly terms in 1965.

M. G. Boyette of Carthage, Superior Court solicitor in the 13th District, filed for reelection at Raleigh in advance of last week's deadline, and is without opposition, as is Sutherland.

T. CLYDE AUMAN

Superior Court Judge John D. McConnell of Southern Pines, resident judge in the 20th District, for whom Friday was also the filing deadline.

The Friday deadline also brought out a third candidate for reelection to the State House.

New Voting Districts Approved By Board For Reapportionment

The Moore County commissioners in special meeting Tuesday adopted a reapportionment plan, re-shuffling the county's townships to create five new voting districts more nearly equal in population than the five into which the county has been divided.

The result, while admittedly not ideal, they said they thought would serve the purpose of meeting requirements under the law for the coming primary and general elections.

For the future, they discussed the possibility of seeking legislative authority in 1967 to reapportion on the basis of voting precincts rather than by the old townships of widely disparate population.

Commissioners will continue to be nominated and elected as before—one from each district, the winner in each being the one receiving the highest countywide vote.

Camp Easter Golf Week Promising

Plans for Camp Easter Golf Week, April 4-10, give promise of an outstanding fund-raising event for Camp Easter, the camp for handicapped children and adults operated here by the Easter Seal Society.

The week has been designated by Governor Moore for a handicap tournament, similar to National Golf Day and sanctioned by the Carolinas Section of the PGA, in which golfers at more than 200 clubs over North and South Carolina will receive a $1 fee to pit their scores, using full handicap, against the winner of the last round of the Masters Tournament at Augusta, Ga., on Sunday, April 10. The fees will go to Camp Easter.

Scrolls will be awarded winners and holders of tying scores.

General chairman for Camp Easter Golf Week is Jack Hegarty of the Friends of Camp Easter, a group of Sandhills men who have volunteered to help the camp with fund-raising.

Full details will appear in next week's Pilot.

Clean-Up Week Starts Monday

The town council is asking people to help Southern Pines look attractive to visitors, as well as to local residents, by cleaning up the premises of their homes and places of business, starting Monday and running through next week.

The emphasis on making the town more attractive was suggested to the council by the Town's Parks and Parkways Beautification Committee of which Mrs. Henry C. Flory is chairman. Having the town look well for the many visitors expected at the Home and Garden Tour April 13 and the Stoneybrook Race Meet April 16 was mentioned when the request was made.

It is urged that trash and litter be picked up in all areas of the town, that dead weeds and grass in vacant lots be cut and that property owners generally rake up and clean up their places.

The litter problem is the subject of an editorial on page 2 of today's Pilot.

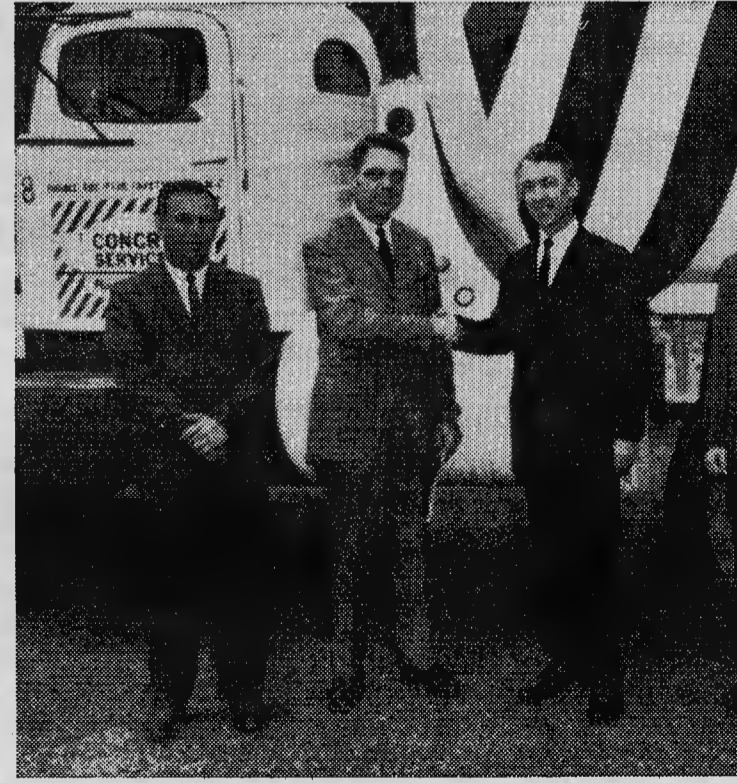

2 COLLECTIONS OF BLOOD SET

Two collections of blood will be made in Moore County next week, in the continuing program administered by the Red Cross and serving both hospitals in the county.

A special collection will be made at the Proctor-Silex plant here Monday from 1 to 5:30 pm. The stop is primarily for employees, but any donor may give there at that time.

On Tuesday, the bloodmobile will be at the Baptist Church in Robbins, from 11 am to 4:30 pm.

Col. John Dibb of Southern Pines, blood program chairman, urged a generous response at both stops.

County's First Zoning Ordinance Applies To College-Airport Area

The Moore County commissioners Tuesday afternoon adopted the county's first zoning ordinance, applying specifically to the Sandhills Community College-airport area, but comprehensively worded to provide a basis for future zoning in other areas.

The action followed a public hearing at which only a handful of people appeared, including eight residents of the area involved. Most of them expressed their views, some endorsing the measure, and others, while not actually protesting it, expressing concern lest the rights of the individual property owner be lost in doing what he wants with his own land.

The ordinance, prepared under the statute, after weeks of study, by the Moore County planning board, was presented by Leonard Tufts of Pinehurst, chairman, assisted by Donald Bradley of Southern Pines, planner with the State Department of Conservation and De-
