Council Tables Zoning Request For Home Office

The Southern Pines Town Council Tuesday night tabled a request to permit a professional office in an osteopath's home scheduled for construction on Midland Road.

This means it will take a two-thirds vote by the council to bring the matter up for discussion again.

The tabling motion was made by Mayor Fro Tem Felton Capel during a public hearing on the request of Dr. Henry W. Frey, Jr. The Planning Board by a 4-1 majority recommended earlier this month that the council approve the request.

Frey's attorney, Howard Broughton, told the council last night Frey bought the property last November, before the zoning ordinance was enacted. He also said the home, to be built in an area zoned as Residential Agricultural under the ordinance, was planned primarily as a dwelling.

He said no more than two patients at any one time would be in the office and that no one outside the home would be employed there.

W. Lamont Brown said the plan for the dwelling does not fit the definition of "conditional use" under the zoning ordinance, because the office is included in the plan. He said this shows the house's purpose is twofold: an office and a dwelling.

Dr. and Mrs. Frey plan to move here from Forest Hills, Long Island, N. Y. He has had his offices in New York City. Opponents to the doctor's request said they would welcome Dr. and Mrs. Frey as neighbors and that their objections were to an exception being made to the zoning law applying to the neighborhood.

Truck Stolen At Robbins Located In Siler City

A pickup truck stolen Friday night, September 16, from the Hurley & Yow Garage at Robbins was recovered this weekend following investigation by Chief D. B. Cranford and Deputy Sheriff I. D. Marley.

The truck had been abandoned in the A&P parking lot at Siler City. Billy Carroll, 26, of Siler City has been charged with the theft and will be tried Monday in Moore recorders court.

Bronze Star For Heroic Action In Vietnam Beats Lt. Parker Home

The award of the Bronze Star, for heroism in combat, has been made to First Lt. James E. Parker, Jr., who may not even know about it yet.

Lt. Parker left Vietnam September 9, flying westward for a delay en route in Europe, and is expected home some time this week. Tuesday, the handsome medal, with citation dated September 11, arrived by mail at his home here.

Poole Headed Toward YDC State Presidency

Sam H. Poole, 32-year-old Southern Pines attorney, goes to Winston-Salem this weekend with every expectation of being elected president of the State YDC.

Though he has been campaigning for several weeks, he has done it with a relaxed air, for there has been no opposition, nor hint of any, since he began.

Visiting numerous clubs throughout the State, he has received a warm welcome at most of them, and has garnered a sheaf of influential endorsements.

The Moore County club gave him its support through executive committee action in August, implementing it with an endorsing resolution adopted by the membership in annual convention last Thursday night at Carthage.

The club taking no chances, is sending representatives to the State convention, Friday and Saturday at the Robert E. Lee Hotel. Present in Poole's support will be Jerry Cole, newly elected county president; Dock Smith, immediate past president, and, representing both the YDC and senior party, H. Clifton Blue, Senator Voit Gilmore and county Democratic chairman J. Elvin Jackson. Blue is a former YDC president, Gilmore a former YDC national committeeman. Others may also be present from the club.

Also attending the convention with Brayton Anderson, advisor, will be 13 members of the Adlai Stevenson YDC club of the Sandhills Community College, who will go as observers of politics in action. How much action there will be is problematical at this time. (Continued on Page 6)

Col. Coppedge Set Up Training For Medics With Green Berets

By BILL LINDAU

Lt. Col. Richard C. Coppedge of Southern Pines, who developed the medical organization of the Army's guerrilla-training Special Forces troops and the surgeons' section of the Special Warfare Center, is back in medical school for seven months.

Coppedge, 44-year-old chief surgeon at the John F. Kennedy Center for Special Warfare at Fort Bragg, went to Johns Hopkins University School of Medicine in Baltimore, Md., in early September to take a seven-month course in hygiene and health. The course will give him credit toward his doctoral degree in international health.

After finishing the present course, he probably will return to Southeast Asia to gather material for his doctoral thesis.

The doctor has been in Vietnam several times on medical survey missions among Special Forces teams of Green Berets, accompanying Maj. Gen. William Yarborough, then commander of the Special Warfare Center.

"The support of the population is essential to the guerrilla," the officer told this reporter before going to Baltimore.

"Through medicine we try to win the support of the population."

Coppedge, the son of a retired Presbyterian medical missionary, displayed a missionary's intensity and concern when he was talking about medical work in Vietnam.

Bid Opened For Construction Of Highfalls Bridge

The new bridge over Deep River on NC 22 at Highfalls was included in the bid-opening of the State Highway Commission at Raleigh last Wednesday, with Columbus Contractors of Whiteville the apparent low bidder at $214,208.50.

The bids will be reviewed by the Commission when it meets Friday of next week, and it is expected that contracts will be let at that time.

The new bridge will replace the old "high bridge" just south of the village of Highfalls, which, while not considered unsafe structurally, is deemed outmoded in the light of modern traffic demands on a main arterial highway. Residents of the Highfalls area have long complained of the bridge, and urged the building of a new one.

This was the only Moore County project on the bid list.

Piedmont Starts Extended Air Service Saturday

Piedmont Airlines resumes service Saturday at Southern Pines-Pinehurst-Aberdeen Airport for the new vacation season and is tacking a month onto its local schedule.

The service will run through next May because of increased convention business in the area. The Piedmont flights ran until April 27 at the airport this year.

Sandhills Music Association Lists 1966-67 Concerts

The Sandhills Music Association, opening its 18th annual season with a membership drive starting this week, announced its attractions of its 1966-67 series as follows:

October 27—The University of North Carolina Men's Glee Club. The 40 "Tar Heel Voices" from Chapel Hill, just back from a month's triumphant tour of Europe, will present a varied program in the opening concert.

November 15—Halina Siedzieniewska, young Polish pianist on her second American tour. She will present an all-Chopin program.

January 27—The National Opera Co. presents "Die Fledermaus," a favorite light opera with gay Viennese airs and romantic action.

March 7—North Carolina Little Symphony, returning for its traditional spring visit when it will give an afternoon concert for schoolchildren, an evening concert for adults.

Pinehurst Set For New Season

By GARRETT SUTHERLAND

Pinehurst teed off its 72nd winter golf season Thursday with the informal opening of the Carolina Hotel and the Pinehurst Country Club.

The Carolina, open now for group meetings, will open formally for the social season October 13.

Clifford F. Smith, former Carolina sales and convention manager, was named resident manager in June, when Gerald Hurley retired after 20 years as reservations manager. Smith will handle reservations and supervise all front of the house activities.

Mrs. Betty Lewis, for six years manager of Howard Johnson Motor Lodge and briefly associated with Traveler's Directory Service as public relations director in Winston-Salem, joins the Carolina staff as assistant manager. Her duties include supervision of food and beverage service at the Pinehurst Country Club, as well as guest entertainment at the hotel.

Kyle Fleming, formerly assistant manager at Pleasant Valley Country Club in Worcester, Mass., and a former

New Ideas Set Theme Of Area III Meeting

The curtain went up Monday night on the drama of organizing the Area III consolidated school as "one of the finest high schools in the nation," as visiting speakers foresaw it would be.

About 150 persons attended the meeting held in the Pinehurst school auditorium, with Southern Pines, Pinehurst, Aberdeen and West End school communities—the high schools of which will be merged in the new Area III school—all well represented.

Joe S. Lennox of Aberdeen, chairman of the Area III advisory council, presided over the meeting, at which a wide ranging citizen study of all aspects of the school's operation and curriculum was explained and initiated.

Mrs. E. Nolley Jackson of Southern Pines had accepted the chairmanship of the Citizens Council which will direct the study, with Billy McKenzie of West End and Pinehurst as vice-chairman and Mrs. Juanita Auman of Aberdeen as secretary, it was reported by S. Edison Powers, assistant superintendent of Moore County schools.

Everyone present was invited to fill out a card indicating his or her chief area of interest, and willingness to serve on a subcommittee. The studies will be used as aids in planning for the school, and will be published as a guide for other systems in consolidation situations, Powers said.

The three guest speakers, representing the Regional Curriculum Project which will work closely with the study, were Mrs. Mary Evans of Raleigh, State coordinator of Title V, ESEA, under which the Regional Curriculum Project was established, and who, before assuming her present post in July, was well known as North Carolina's only woman superintendent (of Dare County schools); Dr. Wayne Teague, of the education department of Auburn University, who has served as consultant for schools all over the country; and Dr. Foster Watkins, a member of the central staff of the Project at Atlanta, Ga.

Community Foundation Organized

The Southern Pines Foundation for religious, charitable, scientific and cultural purposes has been organized, N. L. Hodgkins, president of the Citizens Bank and Trust Co., announced yesterday.

He said it is patterned after more than 200 similar community foundations in the United States and will be qualified as tax-exempt under the Internal Revenue Code.

Trusts may be established where specified, being expended under the direction of a foundation committee.

The committee will be composed of seven members—two to be selected by the town council of Southern Pines, two by the Moore County board of commissioners and three by the Citizens Bank and Trust Co.

The trustees will elect the Foundation officers.

Hodgkins stated that he trust setting up the Foundation provided that other banks in Moore county may elect later to become trustees.

He cited the experience of Winston-Salem, where a similar foundation was established in 1919. This foundation now has assets of about $20,000,000 and has contributed much to the community since its establishment.

Gifts to the Foundation may be directed for the use of a (Continued on Page 6)

Proctor-Silex Workers Reject Union Again

Proctor-Silex Corp. Southern Pines plant employees voted 329 to 261 against collective bargaining representation by the International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers, AFL-CIO, Tuesday.

Nine votes were challenged for various reasons, but National Labor Relations Board representative John Connetton of Winston-Salem said probably no action would be taken because the number would not affect the outcome of the election.

A union spokesman indicated the union would file an objection, Connetton said. He said the union has until next Tuesday to file with the NLRB.

The election, called by the NLRB, was a rerun of an election held for the plant employees August 25, 1964. The vote then was 332 to 182 against union representation. But the NLRB last June set aside the results on findings of unfair labor practices before the election.

The company reported 599 of the 642 eligible employees voted yesterday.

Connetton supervised the election. The voting was observed by two representatives each for the company and union.

"Outward Bound" School Tough Adventure For Pinehurst Youth

By BILL LINDAU

In 28 vigorous exhausting days last summer, 17-year-old Boris deNisoff of Pinehurst grew heavier and stronger, and acquired a new view about his ability to surmount any sort of obstacle.

This came about during his session in the Outward Bound School 18 miles from Ely, Minn. The period ended September 8.

The Minnesota school is one of four in the United States designed to develop a young man's ability and resourcefulness to meet dangerous situations skillfully and confidently; and to secure other people caught in such emergencies.

Another U. S. Outward Bound School has been proposed for North Carolina's Linville Gorge, a piece of wild forested mountain laced with high cliffs and split by a plunging river of powerful rapids. It has been called by naturalists and National Park Service people the most rugged wilderness in Eastern America.

In an interview last weekend, Boris, a Pinehurst High School senior, said this of his experience:

"Last year I used to goof off when I had a theme to write. Now I go ahead and do it. When it looks rough I remember the times when I thought I couldn't make it (at Outward Bound School). But I did."

"Drown-proofing"

One of the times was when he was taking the drown-proofing session. This means 30 minutes spent floating in freezing water in the camp lake. An instructor stands by in a canoe as a lifeguard.

After a while, deNisoff said, he thought he couldn't take any more and would have to grab the instructor's paddle and pull himself aboard.

But then he decided he could, and he made it to the (Continued on pg. 3 Sec. 3)

Free Barbecued Chicken Supper Served To All

Moore County Democrats are preparing a welcome for hundreds — or hopefully, thousands—of their fellow Democrats from all counties of the Fourth District at a campaign rally and free supper Saturday at 6 pm at Aberdeen Lake.

The occasion will honor Congressmen Harold D. Cooley and Congressman Wilbur Mills of Arkansas, coming here on Cooley's behalf as keynote speakers.

This will be the first time in local recollection that chairmen of two of the most powerful congressional committees have been in Moore County at the same time, or appearing on the same program. Cooley heads the House Ways and Means committee, the two men being among the most influential in the House of Representatives.

With the Moore County hosts keeping fingers crossed against bad weather, 1,000 Moore County broilers will be barbecued, a half-broiler to a plate, with trimmings, to serve the expected influx. The broilers are being donated by Paul Morgan, a Greensboro poultry processor and Norman Purvis, Highfalls poultry grower. The Aberdeen precinct committee is in charge of food preparation.

The speaking program, from a lighted trailer platform, will start about 7 pm, or as soon as everyone is served. J. Elvin Jackson, chairman of the Moore Democratic executive committee, host organization, will preside. H. Clifton Blue of Aberdeen will present Rep. Cooley, who will speak briefly, then present Rep. Mills.

Local candidates who, like Cooley, are in campaign contests will be recognized and given the opportunity to make two-minute speeches if they desire.

The Carolina Country Boys, a lively combo of radio fame, will furnish music before and after the speeches.

At 5 pm preceding the supper, the Moore County committee will be host for a social hour at the Whispering Pines Restaurant, with the two Congressmen, along with chairmen and vice-chairmen of each county's executive committee, as honor guests.

Former Governor Fritz Hollings of South Carolina was originally billed as rally speaker, but found he could not spare the time from his own hot campaign for the U. S. Senate. Through Cooley's good offices, Mills became a headline pinch-hitter.

Responses received by Chairman Jackson to invitations sent to other counties indicate that each county in the "Fighting Fourth" will have a delegation present, and some chartered busloads may arrive.

Nearly all precinct committees in Moore have jobs to do in connection with the event, supplementing the executive committee.

SCHOOL CLOSINGS

While the East Southern Pines schools will be closed Tuesday while teachers and principals attend the district NCEA meeting (see story elsewhere in this issue), the West Southern Pines schools will be closed for a day later in the fall, because of a similar meeting for their teachers, date to be announced later, said Supt. J. W. Jenkins.
