MISHAP TERMED UNAVOIDABLE

Boy Injured Fatally In Traffic Accident

A three-year-old boy was injured fatally about 4:30 pm Saturday when he moved into the path of an auto on North Saylor Street near the West New Jersey Avenue intersection, Southern Pines police said.

The child, John Cameron Blue of 440 W. New Jersey

Ave., died in More Memorial Hospital about minutes after he was admitted. A doctor attributed his death to a skull fracture.

A Moore County coroner's jury decided Monday night in an inquest that the accident was unavoidable.

Larry Wilson Nysome, 24, of 1041 N. Leak testified at the coroner's inquest the child appeared suddenly in front of his auto as he was driving north on Saylor street between 20 and 25 feet per hour.

He said he immediately applied his brakes, stopped, and got out of the auto, then he saw the child under the car, he said, and asked one of the many people who were converging on the scene a telephone for an ambulance and the police.

Newsome said he had just driven over the crest of a low hill from a dip when he saw the top of the child's head before his car struck the boy.

Police Chief Earl Seawell testified he found skid marks of the car's tires 15 feet to the point where the child was struck and 10 feet beyond.

Chief Seawell said the child was six feet "into" the road when the accident occurred. The diagram the officer used at the inquest showed the boy was in the roadway six feet west of the sidewalk curb.

Newsome testified, "It happened so fast. Just all of a sudden I saw the child in front of me."

Aberdeen Man Killed In Crash Near Raeford

An Aberdeen taxi driver was injured fatally Sunday morning just west of Raeford when his cab and a private auto collided, State Highway Patrolman E. W. Coen reported.

The officer said the victim was Lacy Cleveland Patterson, 52, of Aberdeen.

He said the car, driven by Sherman Elgin Angus of Fort Bragg, crossed the center line of US 401 and struck Patterson's taxi head-on.

Eugene Reddick and James F. Murchison, both of Aberdeen, riding in Patterson's car, were treated at Cape Fear Hospital in Fayetteville for injuries suffered in the collision.

The officer said Angus and his passenger, John Flaws, both Fort Bragg soldiers, were treated at Womack Hospital at Fort Bragg.

Armed Forces Induction Set For Moore Men

Thirty young men from Moore County, some of them husbands, will be inducted October 27 at Raleigh, Mrs. Doris B. Davis, chairman of the county Selective Service Board, said last weekend.

She said 37 others will report October 27 for their armed forces physical examinations to determine fitness for active service. They will return home after being examined.

Mrs. Davis said the county board—Local Board No. 64—seeks oldest single men first in efforts to fill monthly quotas. Young married men are picked to fill quotas when the number of available eligible bachelors is insufficient, she said.

REGISTRATION CONTINUING

Registration for voting in the November 8 election will continue through Saturday, October 29, with registrars at polling places Saturdays at this week and next week.

Required to register, in order to vote, are new voters, persons moving into the state or county or persons not registered in the precinct where they now reside.

Southern Pines voters are cautioned that registration for a municipal election does not qualify for voting in a general election.

Local polling places are the fire station, municipal building and Jackson Motors in the Pinecane community just south of town.

PRESIDENT SEES BRIGHT FUTURE

Quality Mills Plant Dedicated

Approximately 100 people, including Moore County government and civic leaders, saw John Woltz of Mount Airy symbolically open the new Quality Mills plant near Carthage Saturday morning. Woltz, president of Quality Mills Co., ceremonially cut the red ribbon spanning the main entrance of the one-story building on US 15-501. The ceremony was held after he told the audience of men, women and children at the program dedicating the plant: "Quality Mills' future in Carthage is 'very bright.'"

The parent management was confident that a $1 million increase in the payroll in the Quality chain would come next year.

The company will need more than 1,000 more employees by 1970.

A new sewing plant is planned for 1968 and a new distribution center for next year. (The locations were not disclosed.)

More than 1,000 people are on the payrolls of the two plants in Mount Airy and the Carthage plant.

The company has grown 875 per cent in operations in the past 10 years and is operating 31.5 per cent ahead of the same period last year. The gains, he said, are in people and profits.

In relations with its employees, the management tries to apply the principle: treat them the way you would want to be treated. The application has been made to the pay schedule, vacation allowances and the profit-sharing program, which was established in 1953, Woltz said.

"We want to dedicate this plant today to this philosophy," he said in ending the dedication address just before he walked to the plant door to cut the ribbon.

Cooley Tours Moore County; Gardner Visit Slated Friday

Republican Jim Gardner of Rocky Mount returns to Moore County Friday in his campaign for the Fourth District seat in Congress.

A 6:30 pm public dinner rally at Aberdeen School cafeteria will round out his day. With key figures in his drive for Democrat Harold D. Cooley's seat, Gardner will attend a reception at 1:30 pm at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard M. Dorian on Maples Road, Southern Pines.

He also will be honor guest at a reception at 5:30 pm at L. C. Burwell's home in Pinehurst before going to the Aberdeen dinner.

The schedule was announced yesterday by David Drexel of Southern Pines, county Republican chairman.

Drexel reported that approximately 20 Moore County people rode a chartered bus last Saturday to the Nash County Day program for Gardner in Rocky Mount.

He said the bus, which was in a motorcade, also went through Cooley's home town, Nashville.

"We didn't see a single Cooley sticker in Nashville," Drexel said.

The Moore County people were among the more than 9,000 who the Gardner public relations office said attended the Nash County Day activities in Rocky Mount, including the chicken and pork barbecue supper.

Drexel said Gardner on October 31 will tour each of Moore County's precincts with the GOP candidates for county end the tour near Robbins at offices. The cavalcade will end the tour near Robbins at a supper, Ernest McKenzie, Republican chairman for Bensalem Precinct, is in charge of the arrangements for the dinner.

Neighborhood Youth Corps In Area Approved

The Sandhills Community Action Program, Inc. announces that the Neighborhood Youth Corps project has been approved. The program began Monday.

This project will entitle 100 persons between the ages of 16 and 21 from low-income families in Hoke, Lee, Montgomery and Moore Counties to work part time at the rate of $1.25 per hour. The enrollees will be working in public, non-profit agencies in the SCAP area.

Additionally, each enrollee will benefit by the work training that he or she will receive while enrolled in the NYC program.

Bob Kelly, Jr., SCAP Neighborhood Youth Corps director said, "The project represents a combined budget of $73,110 and a Federal share of $65,600. Eighty-three per cent of these funds will be salaries that will be paid to working NYC enrollees in the SCAP area."

The central administrative office of SCAP is in Carthage and interested persons can obtain further information there.

PACE QUICKENS

A little less than three weeks before Moore County voters go to the polls on November 8, the pace of politics is quickening.

Congressman Harold Cooley, campaigning to retain his Fourth District seat against the challenge of Republican Jim Gardner, had his big day in Moore last Thursday. Gardner's turn comes Friday of this week, complete with tour, supper and rally.

Drawing top interest in the county races is Republican Bob Ewing's challenge to Dr. Russell Tate, Democratic nominee for the McNeill Township county commissioner's post. Dr. Tate unseated incumbent Jim Pleasant in the primary.

Other county races pit Democratic incumbent Lynn Martin of Eagle Springs against the GOP's Floyd Cole of West End, for commissioner, while Coolidge Thompson of Pinebluff, Republican, is running against Rep. Clyde Auman of West End for the county's seat in the State House of Representatives.

New Sandhills YDC Organized; Officers Named

A long-standing factional dispute among Moore County's Young Democrats resulted in open action last Thursday night when 50 persons met at the municipal building here and organized the Sandhills Young Democratic Club.

A spokesman for the new club said most of the group had been members or former members of the Moore County YDC, an organization active in the county for some 30 years.

Membership in the new club was listed as 97 by Tuesday and a "newsletter" issued this week said it has been affiliated with the State YDC.

INSPECTION

Owners of cars with license tags ending in the figure '0' are reminded by the State Motor Vehicles Department that their cars must be safety-checked at an approved location before the end of October, or be held in violation of the inspection law.

U. S. Rep. Harold D. Cooley of Nashville took a day off from work last Thursday but spent it in a fast-paced tour of Moore County in efforts to keep his work for two more years.

The schedule took the Fourth District Democratic congressman and his party from a breakfast session at Home's at Aberdeen virtually full circle for handshaking and talks around the county to a night dinner meeting at the Holiday Inn at Southern Pines.

At a luncheon at the Carthage Hotel, he told approximately 100 county officials, office workers and other listeners that the pressures of his work in Washington didn't allow him to campaign 24 hours a day as his opponent (Republican James Gardner) was doing.

"What happens to Harold Cooley," Cooley said, "is not important. But," he said, "what happens to his position—as a veteran of 22 years with high seniority in Congress and as chairman of the House Agriculture Committee—is."

He said that if he goes, that goes too. He was referring to one result of electing his Republican opponent, who would be a freshman with no powers that go with seniority in the House.

Cooley also said a bill he introduced last January would provide to the underfed two-thirds of the world the technical knowledge and tools to help it feed itself. At the same time, he said it would provide American food for the hungry and maintain sound production practices at home.

Cooley in the house 22 years, said he never believed American farm production should be cut back when America's friends overseas were going hungry.

Of Viet Nam, Cooley said there was no way the US could retire with honor except by coming to an agreement and "we are trying to bring" the enemy to the conference table to end the war.

Cooley said that no nation will have faith in US power if the US withdraws from Viet Nam without a peace agreement.

At Southern Pines Friday night, Cooley said his opponent "has demonstrated his contempt for the opinions of the people of the Fourth District by refusing to clarify his position on the Viet Nam war."

Cooley quoted Gardner as saying Gardner had no intention of responding to Cooley's charges.

Monday, Cooley said he had said at that time that Gardner's criticism of American policy in Viet Nam was irresponsible.

Of Gardner's refusal to reply, Cooley asked his Thursday dinner audience: "Is that what the people deserve from a candidate for the United States Congress on a matter (Continued on Page 6)
