$50,000 To Be Tabbed For County Library

The Moore County commissioners Thursday agreed to provide a total of $50,000 over the next two years to help build a new county library building—provided that the County Library Board can get supplementary federal aid. The promised allocations will bring the total county money labelled for the library to $63,000. The county has $13,000 left from previously allocated library funds. The motion on the county funds provides that $25,000 be encumbered in each of the next two county budgets for the library. The budgets affected would be for fiscal 1967-68, and 1968-69.

Speaker Tells Growing Value Of Libraries

Speaking at a meeting of the Friends of the Moore County Library, in the courthouse at Carthage on Friday night, James D. Blount, Jr., Rockingham attorney, stressed the ever-growing importance of public libraries in the space age.

The action came during a special meeting of the board of county commissioners in the courthouse at Carthage. The federal government will pay about 49 per cent of the total $96,000 the building will cost, but the funds won't be available after July 1 if the county's matching funds aren't assured, commissioners have been informed.

Fund Campaign Of Easter Seal Group To Start

Appeal letters containing Easter seals will be mailed Wednesday of next week throughout Moore County, opening the annual fund campaign of the Moore County Chapter of the North Carolina Society for Crippled Children and Adults ("Easter Seal Society").

Samuel C. Harrison of Southern Pines, president of the chapter and also county campaign chairman, said that there will be a meeting of county drive workers on Friday of next week at Camp Easter in the Pines, the State Society's summer camp for handicapped children and adults, near Southern Pines.

"Lily Day" sales of Easter lily bangles will take place in town business areas, here and elsewhere, on Saturdays, March 18 and 25, with volunteer workers receiving contributions.

Aided by the annual Easter Seal campaign are handicapped children and adults throughout the county who receive year-around clinic treatment, braces and other equipment when needed and other help. Camp Easter in the Pines, a state-wide Society project, also benefits from the sale.

Committees Named For Annual Race Meet On Saturday, April 15

Plans are shaping up rapidly for the top sports and social event of the Sandhills spring season—the Twentieth Annual Stoneybrook Race Meet here on Saturday, April 15, reports Donald D. Kennedy, chairman.

The Steeplechase program annually brings thousands of one-day visitors to this area, as well as others who come for longer stays with friends or in hotels or motels. Guests of honor, this year, will be members of the North Carolina Congressional delegation. So far, acceptances have been received from Congressmen James Gardner and Nick Galifianakis. Due to prior commitments, neither Senator Ervin nor Senator Jordan will be able to attend.

Mr. Kennedy, serving for the eighth year as chairman of the race meet, is assisted by other members of the executive committee, Henry C. Flory, Mrs. Audrey K. Kennedy, William H. Frantz, James W. Tufts, and Michael G. Walsh.

The entertainment committee includes Mrs. Audrey Kennedy, Mrs. William Frantz, Mrs. N. A. Amstutz, Mrs. John W. Burress, Mrs. Henry Flory, Mrs. William B. Gray, Mrs. Donald Kennedy, Mrs. John McGovern, Mrs. Thomas E. Morton, Mrs. John C. Ostrom, Mrs. R. C. Urquhart, Mrs. Edward T. Taws, Jr., Mrs. James W. Tufts and Mrs. Michael G. Walsh.

The committee on trophies for winners of the races is made up of Mrs. Donald Kennedy, Miss Carolyn S. Harris, and Miss Evelyn Stevenson. Thomas E. Morton, Mrs. (Continued on Page 6)

SEVEN-MILLION MARK—The Proctor-Silix Corp. plant at Southern Pines produced Tuesday morning the seven-millionth electric iron it has manufactured since it started operating in January 1963. All through the day employees were treated to refreshments. The company's Lifelong products were given as prizes. Finished irons are shown here ready for packing for customers. Left to right, Southern Pines plant manager Lee Knorr, production employee Mrs. Jewel Frye of Aberdeen and plant public relations director Richard Slack. Knorr said Tuesday the local plant's production was 1,445,000 irons in 1964, the first full year of its operation; 1,960,000 in 1965; and 2,370,000 in 1966. He said 1967 prospects "look great." Many sales are coming in for the company's Lifelong iron, which the local plant started producing Monday. (Pilot photo)

Public Invited To Hear Jenkins At YDC Meeting

The public is invited to attend a joint meeting of the Sandhills Young Democratic Club and the Adlai E. Stevenson YDC of Sandhills Community College, to be held at the college Thursday at 7:30 pm with Dr. Leo Jenkins, president of East Carolina College, as guest speaker.

A former major in the US Marine Corps, Dr. Jenkins is a graduate of Rutgers, Columbia and New York Universities, and has also attended Duke University and Harvard's Institute for College Presidents, held in 1964.

After serving as dean at ECC from 1947 to 1960, he became president of the state-supported institution at Greenville and is currently spearheading a campaign to raise it to university status—a controversial issue in the 1967 General Assembly.

He will be introduced by Brayom Anderson, faculty advisor of the college YDC and an East Carolina graduate.

Episcopal Men To Meet Sunday

Emmanuel Episcopal Church here will be host on Sunday, March 12, to the 33rd annual convention of the Laymen's Association of the Diocese of North Carolina.

Announcement of the one-day meeting came from Thomas M. Mullen of Charlotte, president of the diocesan organization.

The Rt. Rev. Thomas A. Fraser, D.D., Bishop of North Carolina, will open the convention at 11 am. Lt. Gen. A. D. Bruce, of Southern Pines, former commander of the 77th Division during World War II and former president of the University of Houston, will be the speaker after lunch.

CITIZENS ASKED CLEAN UP TOWN

Meeting this week, the recently reorganized Southern Pines Beautification Commission, set Wednesday of next week, March 15, as starting date for a town-wide clean-up drive.

The commission, of which Charles Scott is chairman, is asking local residents to clean up their yards, vacant lots and business property. Town forces will cooperate, it was stated.

The unpaid commission is appointed by the Town Council. The group was formerly called the Parks and Parkways Beautification Committee.

NEXT WEEK

Civil Defense Night Course Is Scheduled

Classes will start Monday at Sandhills Community College in a Civil Defense Adult Education course, "Education For Living In The Nuclear Age."

The course is being sponsored by the Southern Pines Junior Chamber of Commerce, Bill Winborne, Jaycee project chairman, said this week in making the announcement.

The classes will be held nightly, starting at 7 o'clock, through March 17. Each will run two and a half hours.

The course consists of basic civil defense programs. It is designed to give local citizens an understanding of the local, state and national actions being taken to protect people against nuclear attack or major natural disasters, Winborne said.

Among other things, the course will teach the individual and family actions that (Continued on Page 6)

Insurance To Be Discussed

The regular meeting of Barracks 1443 Veterans of World War I will be held Sunday, March 12, at 2:30 pm at the American Legion Hut, E. Maine Ave., Southern Pines.

There will be a discussion of the VVWV Group Permanent Life Insurance Plan now open for enrollment for all veterans and their wives under the age of 87. The special enrollment period expires April 15.

Post Commander F. M. Dwight points out that the plan provides the same benefits for women as it does for men—and at even lower rates than the men pay.

All WWI veterans, their wives and widows are invited and urged to attend. The commander said.

Work Seen Need For Passage Of School Program

State Sen. Voit Gilmore told school board members and school officials Thursday that Gov. Dan K. Moore would not fight against United Forces For Education proposals but indicated it would take hard work to get the UFE program adopted.

He spoke at one of the group sessions during the annual meeting of District 8, North Carolina School Boards Association, at East Southern Pines High School.

The session he led was on UFE programs and current school legislation.

Sen. Gilmore, of Southern Pines, said that the governor has made his case and that he is saying, in effect, that it is up to the legislative supporters of the various groups—like UFE and mental health proponents—to work out the details of how much money was to go where.

He said the governor, in effect, is telling the groups that it is up to them to find out where any extra money will come from.

Gilmore said the governor has made his case as far as the budget for 1967-69 is concerned and that Moore would not fight efforts to obtain increases for the school program beyond his recommendations.

Sen. Gilmore said, however, that "some backbones" in the legislature need to be (Continued on Pg. 6, Sec. 2)

Humane Group Asks County To Transfer Pound

The Humane Society of Moore County presented the Board of County Commissioners Monday with a proposal that the society take over operation of the county dog pound and receive part of the county's annual dog license fee collections.

The society's president, Raymond E. North of Pinehurst, presented petitions bearing 671 signatures of Moore County people supporting the proposal.

Commissioner W. Sidney Taylor of Aberdeen, presiding over the regular March board meeting at Carthage in the absence of Chairman John M. Currie of Carthage, said the board would consider the proposal carefully.

"You're already doing an excellent job," he told North, referring to the society's existing system of collecting strays, treating the injured and finding homes for rehabilitated animals.

The commissioners deferred action because the full board was not present. The pressure of business prevented Currie from attending. It was one of his rare absences from a special or a regular board meeting.

In any case, the board would have said neither "yes" nor "no" on the proposal itself at that session. James R. Vancamp of Carthage, counsel for the society, told the commissioners that the society wanted only a go-ahead from them to proceed with drawing up a proper contract between the society and the county for the board to study.

With that approval, Vancamp and County Attorney M. G. Boyette would draft the contract.

East Side PTA To Hear About Local College

Attention will be on Sandhills Community College at the March meeting of the East Southern Pines Parent-Teacher Association, in Weaver Auditorium, at 8 pm, Monday, March 13.

S. G. Chappell, registrar at the college, will be the speaker, discussing the various courses and advantages which the local college offers to students in this area.

Mrs. Robert Leland, PTA president, urged that parents of students in the 7th through 12th grades, particularly high school parents, attend the meeting so that they will learn what the college has to offer their children.

Mrs. Leland also noted that the PTA membership drive will be closed soon and asked that all parents turn in fees to make possible completion of PTA projects for the year. The fee is 50 cents per person. Payment may be made at the Monday meeting.

Solons Will Hear Sandhills Request For Liquor Vote

The Board of Moore County Commissioners Monday adopted a resolution expressing favor for a law which would permit local-option referenda on legalizing sales of liquor by the drink in Sandhills, McNeill and Mineral Springs townships.

Commissioner Robert Ewing of Southern Pines said the resolution, adopted by a 3-1 vote, was designed to strengthen the hand of the Sandhills delegation when it appears at next Tuesday's public hearing before the General Assembly's joint resolutions and grievances committee.

The area's representatives have been allotted time for stating their case requesting the local option referendum law.

'Inner Space' Problems Shown Commissioners

The Board of Moore County Commissioners on Monday adopted a resolution of intention to provide funds for construction of the new Moore County Library.

The action was taken at the board's regular meeting for March at Carthage, to satisfy a requirement to obtain federal assistance for local library construction.

The commissioners also agreed to have the necessary papers signed by a commission representative (Board Chairman John M. Currie, who was unable to attend the Monday session).

The move was made on the request of Sam H. Poole of Southern Pines, chairman of the Moore County Library Board.

The commissioners at a special meeting last Thursday adopted a motion to encumber $25,000 per year in the next two budgets—for 1967-68 and 1968-69—to help pay the approximately $125,000 it is expected to cost to build and equip the building and prepare the site.

Commissioner W. S. Taylor of Aberdeen pointed out that $13,000 additional county money was tabbed for the new library—the carryover from previous budget appropriations for library purposes.

In reply to his question, Poole said the total $63,000 took care of the county's share—and did a little better. He said the county's share was $61,710. He said addition of (Continued on Page 6)

LOCAL SCHOOLS 'Appreciation Day' Planned

An Appreciation Day recognizing the people who have made outstanding contributions to the Southern Pines schools in the long history of the town's independent system is being planned for the last week of the current academic year.

This was announced last Friday by City Schools Supt. Kirby Watson.

The date and other details are yet to be worked out, but the plans are to invite present and former city board of education members, principals and superintendents, among others.

Student activities also will be presented.

The program is being planned in connection with the official ending of the city school system as an independent administrative unit July 1. On that date, the merger of the Southern Pines and Pinehurst school administrative units with the county school system becomes effective.

Work Starting On New Golf Course At Foxfire Project Near Pinehurst

Clearing got under way this week for construction of the golf course at the new Foxfire Golf and Country Club near Pinehurst, and officers of the Foxfire Development Corp. said they hope the course will be ready for play by late fall.

Deeds to the 979-acre property, formerly known as Shamrock Farms, about five miles west of Pinehurst on the old Jackson Springs Road, were filed last Thursday at the office of the Moore County register of deeds.

James C. Harper, Chapel Hill attorney, who filed the deeds, said the Manor House on the property will be renovated to serve as temporary clubhouse and pro shop as part of Phase 1 of the new club and residential development.

Officers of the Foxfire Development Corp. arrived Tuesday to look over their holdings and witness the start of the golf course construction, to cover 400 acres.

They are Edward M. Kenney, golf coach at the University of North Carolina, president; Jack Vernon and Charles Magowan, vice-presidents, and Harper, secretary-treasurer. Vernon is a member of a Chapel Hill realty firm and Magowan, of Southampton, N. Y., is a senior student at the University. All are enthusiastic golfers.

3 From County Win Morehead Awards

Both of Moore County's Christ School in Arden, is a Morehead Award winner, from the private preparatory school division of the annual competition.

Ninety-nine awards were made this year, granted to students chosen after county, district and state-wide elimination interviews, on the basis of outstanding merit as reflected in academic ability, character and leadership. Financial need is not considered.

All three of the Moore County youths receiving awards are seniors at their respective schools and will enter the University in the fall.

THE NEW administration building of the Moore County school system, on US 15-501 three miles south of Carthage, brings together offices and departments which have been scattered in four separate locations in and around Carthage. Behind the building, glimpsed at right, is the school garage and maintenance shop, built several years ago with which it shares a large parking area and two driveways to the highway. A detailed description of the building and its facilities appeared in The Pilot two weeks ago and last week the county board of education was pictured during its first meeting in the new structure.
