Snead Wins Title

These are the last days of practice for the 360 qualifiers in the Fifth Annual PGA Club Pro Championship, which begins next week at the Pinehurst Country Club.

This is the tournament, with a purse of $100,000, that offers the best opportunity of the year for worthwhile competition for the golf professionals who make their living by performing the club duties so vital to the enjoyment of golf by the average member.

Sam Snead, the defending champion, will be on hand to resume a career-long love-affair with the courses of Pinehurst, especially the No. 2, which holds a top spot of favor with him.

Snead recently won the West Virginia Open for the 14th time and should be considered among

Hospital Expects Change

Application has been made by St. Joseph's hospital to the N.C. Medical Care Commission for a change in direction for the hospital, doubling its capacity for long-term care and halving that for general acute care.

Msgr. Charles W. O'Connor, administrator, told members of the Guild of St. Joseph of the Pines, meeting Tuesday at Providence House on the hospital grounds.

He said approval had been made, however, even though the sponsors admitted they were looking at other courses.

Schools Gain 58

The 20-day enrollment figure of the Moore County schools was 9,829-58 more than the comparable figure of 9,771 last year, and 415 more than on this year's first full day.

Enrollment of 9,297 on September 2 showed a drop of 242 from the previous year, but it was only temporary—once the Labor Day weekend was past, the kids came back to school in a rush.

The 20-day figure, taken at the end of September, includes 6,611 students in the elementary grades, 3,001 in high school grades and 217 in 11 kindergartens.

Actually, there were more kindergarten pupils last year, when all the kindergartens but one—the state demonstration Early Childhood Education

Best in Show at Library Awarded to Miss McIntosh

Miss Allie McIntosh of 202 East Illinois Avenue exhibited an oil, "Scene at Beaufort" to win "Best of Show" at the reception opening the Senior Citizens art show at the Southern Pines Library Gallery Sunday.

She received a Revere bowl as top prize from Gallery Director John Foster Faulk.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold G. Scott received a red ribbon and an award of merit for a settle or work bench, made by Mr. Scott and painted green and stenciled in gold by his wife, Dorothy. Also winning a second place was Miss Bea Stahlein for her enamel on copper showing a fern and butterfly.

Big Golf Doubleheader May Not Return to CCNC

The big golf doubleheader—the U.S. Professional Match Play Championship and the Liggett and Myers Open—may not return to the Sandhills next year.

No official decision has been made, however, even though the sponsors admitted they were looking at other courses.

Riley Says Specialists Needed by Social Service

Frank Riley of the State Federal and Personal office in Raleigh spoke to the Moore County Board of Social Services recently and recommended that Moore hire several additional workers.

He said it was "expedient" that Moore have at least one Eligibility Worker to do Medicaid and an Eligibility Worker to do Food Stamps and part-time Medicaid.

Benjamin Wicks, chairman of Aberdeen, presided at the meeting, which was also attended by Roy Swearingen of West End and William Fry of Vass. Mrs. Walter B. Cole is secretary to the Board.

According to minutes of the board, Miss Gloria Phillips who

Retail Sales Good Here, Sayre Says

Moore county's second death in a house fire in two days occurred Thursday morning when Eleanor M. Cole, 63, died in the blaze which gutted her frame home on Dowd Street.

A passing motorist, seeing the house was on fire, alerted the Carthage fire department at 7 a.m. The firemen were not aware anyone was in the house until they had extinguished the blaze, when they found the woman's charred body on the kitchen floor.

The next-door neighbor, Mrs. Sarah Hussey, told Coroner A.B. Parker she heard something go "boom" about 6 a.m., but was not alarmed by the sound and did not know about the fire until the firemen were on the scene.

Parker said the fire appeared

Board Hears Barron

Jack Barron, chairman of the town's new Recreation Advisory Council, told the town council Tuesday night that his group had held its second meeting the night before, elected officers and completed plans for its first community event—a musical program to be presented free to the public Wednesday, October 21, from 8 to 9:30 p.m. in the town park.

Barron said arrangements had been made, with the help of Don Boyette, town recreation director, for the appearance of country and western musicians, also the boys' and girls' choruses of the Southern Pines Middle school, which would perform both separately and together. In case of unfavorable weather, the event will be held in Weaver Auditorium.

Barron told the council, "We want the ideas of many people as

Sandhills Chamber Gets National Excellence Award

The Sandhills Area Chamber of Commerce has been awarded recognition for the excellence of its communications program by the American Chamber of Commerce Executives, the highest award given by this group.

The award is for "high standards of professionalism" and was given to all three of the Chamber's entries, the magazine SAND & PINES, the newsletter OUTLOOK, and the custom holiday folder just published this summer.

The American Chamber of Commerce Executives conducts a yearly evaluation program for all types of Chamber publications, seeking to recognize the most effective means of communication.

Entries were judged in five areas: clarity of content, readability, layout and eye appeal, quality of reproduction and effectiveness.

SAND & PINES has been

L-I-Look! It's a Llama! This South American llama is now a resident of Moore county, on the famous Eastwood farm that also has several Zebras. The llama is used in its native land as a beast of burden, and as a source of wool, meat, and milk. It is like a camel, but smaller and without humps. (Photo by Bryan Green.)

Jury Includes Vass Chief

A police chief has been drawn for jury duty for the special term of Moore superior court to be held at Carthage during the week starting October 30.

The name of James Roylan Grissom, police chief at Vass, appears on the list of jurors drawn for the "catch-up" term for criminal cases, which will immediately precede the regular term starting November 6. It is not anticipated, however, that he

Aberdeen Approves Survey

The Aberdeen Town Board Monday night approved an annexation and commercial area survey and agreed for the town and merchants to pay one-third of the cost and a grant from the federal government to cover the rest.

Mayor Jack Taylor read a letter from the State Department of Natural and Economic Resources, which said that a federal grant would pay two-thirds of the cost of the study.

The entire program will cost

Number From Moore Visit Awards Dinner Thursday

"The North Carolina Award is the highest award the State can give to one of its citizens," Secretary of Art, Culture and History Sam Ragan of Southern Pines told a crowd of some 600 persons at the annual awards dinner Friday night, at the Sir Walter Hotel in Raleigh.

Awards were presented to Sidney Alderman Blackmer in the Fine Arts; Edward E. David, Jr. in Science; John Ehle, for Literature; William Dallas

Herring in Public Education; and Harold Hotelling, Science.

The Awards were made by Governor Scott, who gave each recipient a round medallion of gold, designed by Sculptor Paul Manship, hung on a red, white and blue ribbon.

In his welcoming speech, Ragan told of the origin of the awards through the late Dr. Robert Lee Humber of Greenville, who persuaded the 1961

THE PILOT LIGHT

MEDPAC DEFINED—Dr. William F. Hollister has made the following statement to The Pilot:

"While I was vacationing in England, information appeared in the newspaper column 'The Pilot Light' in The Pilot of Southern Pines, suggesting that I am the largest single contributor to the Helms Fund. This is a complete misrepresentation of the facts. I have contributed nothing personally to the Helms Fund. The article goes on to state that another big contributor was listed as Medpac of Pinehurst. No such organization exists. The following statement clearly defines what Medpac is: 'Medpac is a voluntary North Carolina Education and Political Action Organization, the membership being made up of the doctors, their wives and families. It has the approval of the American Medical Association and the State Medical Association. Membership dues are $20.00 a year, half of which goes to Ampac, which is the American Medical Association Political Action Committee. The money is used for education purposes and candidate support on a non-partisan basis.

"The article also infers that Medpac is a self-designated political action committee. The true identity of Medpac has been clearly elucidated in the above statement. The article also infers
