

Golf Hall Of Fame Plan Made

BY JOHN DERR
In the spring of 1941, Grantland Rice, then dean of America's sportswriters, Fred Corcoran, PGA Tournament Manager, and several other golf writers stood under the big tree by the first tee at the Augusta National Golf Club and decided, once again, that it was time golf had its own Hall of Fame.

By mid-summer of 1974 their dream will become a reality with the grand opening of the World Golf Hall of Fame, overlooking the fourth green of the famed No. 2 course at Pinehurst Country Club, Pinehurst.

What Rice and Corcoran wanted to see, and what many golf writers, officials and fans before and since have dreamed of, is to become a reality, as learned to day through an announcement by William H. Maurer, president of the Diamondhead Corporation, owner of Pinehurst, Inc. Building plans for the World Golf Hall of Fame.

BY NICHOLAS CHALTAS
"The game called golf truly is old and honorable. The Scots were already addicted to it long before Columbus discovered America." So stated Don Collett, president of Pinehurst, Inc., and of the projected World Golf Hall of Fame, who was the luncheon guest speaker of the Southern Pines Rotary Club at the Holiday Inn.

Mr. Collett, obviously sympathetic toward and knowledgeable of the subject of golf, spoke with unrestrained enthusiasm about the new Hall of Fame which now is in the final planning stage and construction soon will begin in Pinehurst.

Briefly he described the location, the architectural design, possible funeral services were held yesterday (Tuesday) in St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Del Ray Beach, with private interment following.

Dr. William Chase Mudgett, distinguished physician who was instrumental in promoting and developing Moore Memorial Hospital, died at his home at 1109 Island Drive in Del Ray Beach, Florida Sunday following a long illness.

Funeral services were held yesterday (Tuesday) in St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Del Ray Beach, with private interment following.

Dr. Mudgett moved to Del Ray from Southern Pines on his retirement in 1946.

He was born at Hopkinton, N.H. He attended the New Hampton School for boys, the Tilton Conference Seminary, and Dartmouth College for two years, after which he transferred to the University of Maryland for his Doctor's Degree.

He served as an interne at Springfield, Mass. and then became a member of the staff. He next became special surgeon at Keith Emergency Hospital at Gloucester, Mass. and on January 1, 1908 came to Southern Pines, where he conducted a hospital of his own.

He became interested in organizing a larger hospital with better facilities and helped raise funds and enthusiasm for Moore Memorial Hospital. He became chief of staff but later returned to private practice.

Burglary Charges Are Made
Ralph "Pete" McCoy, 48, of Manly is being held in Moore County jail without bond, charged with the capital crime of first degree burglary.

Sheriff C.G. Wimberly said McCoy was apprehended Sunday night in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Styers at Manly, where officers arrived to find Styers holding him at gunpoint.

Syers, an employee of Aberdeen Bottling Co., said he and his wife were awakened sometime around midnight by sounds from their living-room, and that he took his gun and entered the living-room, where he found McCoy. He held the gun on the man while calling

United Fund Gets Boost From Quality Mills Staff
At the end of the second week of its campaign, the United Fund of Moore County has received contributions and pledges amounting to $16,649. The goal, for support of eleven agencies in the county, is $98,000.

Quality Mills of Carthage has already announced 100 percent participation by its some 225 employees, according to Bob Royster of Carolina Power & Light Co., chairman of the industrial division. Royster expects the bulk of the industries to report their contributions to him near the end of the month.

Of $11,630 received in the Fund office, most has come in

Vass Makes Preparation For Firemen's Jubilee
Plans and Preparations are well underway for the second annual Firemen's Jubilee to be held in Vass on Saturday, November 4.

The Volunteer Fire Department and the Ladies Auxiliary will again sponsor the all-day affair which was termed an "unqualified success" for the Vass Fire Department and the hundreds of people both young and old from over the county who turned out for the all-day affair last year.

The day's events will begin at 11:00 a.m. with a parade featuring the Miss Flame contestants on a float, followed by lunch at Vass-Lakeview Elementary School cafeteria.

3 Charged In Breakin At Pilot
Three 17-year-old boys are out on $1,000 bond after being charged by Southern Pines police with breaking, entering and attempted robbery of The Pilot Thursday night around 10:30.

Pilot employee Glenn M. Sides discovered on entering from the front of The Pilot a young man leaving the office of the Associate Editor. Sides followed him to the back, where two other boys were near the back door.

At knife point, Sides drove the three to the advertising office, which has only one door and no windows, while he called police. He said two of the boys were

Country and western, gospel music will be featured from 7:30 until midnight, and the crowning of Miss Flame will take place during the evening.

"It is hoped that all our citizens will mark this date and come out to join us for a full and enjoyable day and again lend their support to our loyal and hardworking, Volunteer Firemen," the Committee says.

Investors from Southern Pines, Fayetteville, and Raleigh have announced a land purchase of approximately $1 million in Southern Pines.

Sandhurst Development Company, Inc., was formed by the investment group to acquire the land, nearly 700 acres southeast of Southern Pines, fronting Bethesda Road and East Indiana Avenue Extension.

W. W. Crowell of Fayetteville, president of the corporation, reported that the property will be developed for residential homes over a 15 year period with at target date of February, 1973 for completion of the first section.

According to Crowell the corporation's board of directors will also serve as a management group because of their professional skills in real estate and development.

In addition to Crowell, members of the executive committee include: Tom McLean and Donald W. McCoy of Fayetteville; William H. Gentry of Southern Pines; and R.F. McCoy of Laurinburg.

Commissioners Get Tough On Ad Valorem Tax Pay

BY BRYAN GREEN
The Moore County Commissioners have adopted a "get tough" policy toward those taxpayers who have failed to pay their ad valorem taxes this year.

The commissioners, meeting in special session Thursday, instructed County Tax Collector Roy Wallace to work on collecting the names remaining on the insolvent list for collection using the two available means and report back to them in November.

The term "insolvent" indicates that no property is owned which can be sold for a tax lien, and the county can either attach property or garnish wages to obtain the due taxes.

The commissioners, led by Chairman Sid Taylor, instructed Wallace to use both methods to

For Helms

U.S. Senate candidate Jesse Helms today announced the formation of a Moore County "Citizens for Helms" committee. The group will be the official Helms organization in Moore County.

Melvin Pervis of Whispering Pines will serve as coordinator of the committee.

Those appointed to the committee were Chub Seawell and Herman H. Grimm of Carthage; Roland Johnson and James H. "Jimmy" Garner of Robbins; Mrs. Diane Caldwell of Whispering Pines; E.H. Mills and Mrs. Judith Hopkins of Pinebluff; Dr. Clarence Foster of Southern Pines; and Dr. William F. Hollister of Pinehurst.

In announcing the appointments, Helms said he was
