Mrs. Atkins' Venetian China Is Given to Weymouth Auction

Mrs. Warner Atkins of McCaskill Road, Pinehurst, shows one of eight unusual table settings that she is donating to the Weymouth Antique Auction Committee for the sale to be held November 11 in the Southern Pines Armory.

The china is blue Venetian glassware, hand-decorated with gold and colors around the rims. Each setting consists of a dinner, salad and bread-butter plates and cup and saucer. The set was purchased in Vienna in 1925 by Mrs. Atkins' mother.

Lena Stewart, chairman of the Auction Committee, said Mrs.

Atkins is one of many who are interested in helping to finance the Friends of Weymouth activities that are directed toward increasing the cultural and other group activities at the former James and Katharine Boyd estate in Southern Pines. Contributions to the Auction Committee will help raise needed funds for financing the continuing activities of Weymouth Center. It should be noted that contributors may show the estimated value of their articles as a tax deductible contribution, but that is up to each individual.

The Committee has already acquired a number of articles—not all "antiques"—including handsome desks, art work, chairs and tables, and small artistic items such as Boehm birds, contributed by people in this and surrounding areas.

Those interested in contributing items may take their articles to Weymouth, entrance at North Ridge Street and Vermont Avenue, or may seek more information by calling Miss Stewart at 692-3191 or Miss Carol Stuart at 692-6261.

Leave Worries Home When On Vacation

Don't spend your vacation worrying about things back home.

A little advance planning can go a long way toward eliminating or at least reducing that worry, say specialists with the North Carolina Agricultural Extension Service.

Long before the vacation begins you can make plans to keep your home safe, they say. Burglars see piles of newspapers, mail and an overgrown lawn as a sure sign your house is empty. So, before you go, arrange to have your newspaper delivery stopped temporarily, your mail picked up by a neighbor and your lawn mowed regularly.

Leave a key with a neighbor so they can inspect your house regularly. Give them a list of places where they can reach you quickly.

If you will have bills or insurance premiums due while you're away make sure they're paid in advance.

Don't wait until the last minute to have your car tuned up. Be sure to have a spare tire and the proper jack and lug wrench along with a flashlight, flares, fire extinguisher and first aid kit in the car with you.

Hardened paint brushes can often be made as good as new by simmering them in boiling vinegar for a few minutes and then washing them in soapy water.

If room redecorating includes changing from wallpaper to paint, it is best to remove the paper first. Painting over wallpaper can loosen it and colors in some papers tend to bleed through.

Start the task by spreading drop cloths to protect carpeting, floors and furniture. Use a sturdy ladder or stepstool. Before attempting to remove the paper, it has to be scored. This is done by slitting the paper in a criss-cross pattern with a sharp knife.

There are three ways to then loosen wallpaper: 1) sponge soak with hot water; 2) sponge soak with a commercial wallpaper removing solution; 3) use a rented steamer. A steamer is particularly helpful if there is more than one layer of wallpaper to remove.

After paper is loosened it can be peeled off. Stubborn patches may have to be retreated. Then patch cracks, fill holes and sand the wall smooth. The final step before applying paint is to wash the wall with detergent or soap suds to remove any dirt and paste residue. Rinse and let dry thoroughly.

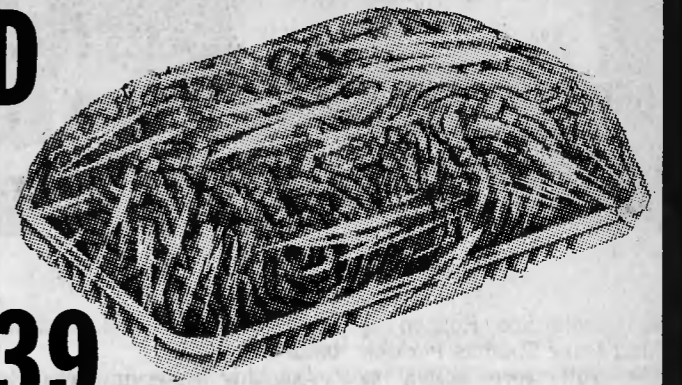

Worth the time and effort, these procedures will help insure a longer-lasting and more attractive paint job.
