

Salesman Heard Of Bloodmobile And Sought Out SCC To Give

One of the volunteers for the Bloodmobile's visit March 23 at Sandhills Community College passed on a really encouraging story about one of the 100 plus donors—it was a very good day for collections.

The volunteer noticed that the 100th donor was a young man with a Raleigh address listed on his card. She asked him if he commuted to the College.

The donor, who lives in Cary, said "no," he was a salesman who found it difficult to give blood at his home because he was usually on the road when the Bloodmobile visited.

Last Monday, he said, he was riding along with his radio going and heard that the Bloodmobile was to be that day at Sandhills.

He took the trouble first, to find the college, and second, to locate the Bloodmobile on the campus.

Someone passed on to us a story from a recent National Enquirer about the "Hush-Hush Romance" between Loretta Swit of "MASH" enjoying a Mexican "honeymoon paradise with a dashing hotel executive—who's about 10 years her junior."

The new man in her life, according to the Enquirer, is Vincent Carrozza, 31, described as "a suave six-footer with short blond hair."

There's a picture accompanying the story, describing him as "a wealthy young hotel executive." Vince Carrozza, we were reminded, was assistant to former Pinehurst Hotel and Country Club general manager Al Stratta in 1976 and for a few months after Stratta's resignation, served as acting manager. He is actually five feet, six inches tall, we were also told.

Allegedly (we want to be very careful not to risk a lawsuit, at second hand, like the Enquirer), the two met when Loretta was taking a vacation in Acapulco where Carrozza is general manager of the Acapulco Princess Hotel.

The actress, of course, declined comment about her romance to the Enquirer's reporter but admitted they had dined together. Naturally, a hotel employe snitched on the couple, saying he had seen them holding hands affectionately and kissing.

Angel Revisited
Two photos on this page show one of the first "wild animals" acquired by the North Carolina Zoo—a wolf named Angel.

Angel was born in a zoo in the McKenzie River Valley in the Northwest Territory of Canada. She was one of the pups chosen as "pick of the litter," and sent to Miami, Fla., to a young man who sold these registered animals as pets.

In 1974, at the age of two, Angel was bought from the dealer by my son, Boris, who took her home to Boca Raton, where she occupied a pen when she wasn't accompanying her master on long walks.

In September of that year, Boris brought Angel, by plane to North Carolina, tethered her in our backyard, and took her for walks in the woods bordering the No. 2 golf course, to the great astonishment of those golfers who glimpsed that silvery pelt and those long, dangerous-looking green eyes.

Before returning to Florida, Boris sold Angel to Dr. Clement R. Monroe, one of the founders and a charter director of the NC Zoo, which was then only in the beginning stages of development. So Angel became one of the first inhabitants of the facility.

Two weeks ago, on the "family membership" I sent him for his birthday, Boris and his family visited the Zoo at Purgatory Mountain, and became perturbed about her present lifestyle.

He wrote: "We saw Angel. I can't believe it. The last time I was up there (four years ago), she and the black were stuck in two concrete runs. Well, now they are in one. She's not even part of the regular zoo now."

"All the animals in her section can be seen free if there is bad weather and people don't want to walk around 'Africa.' The place is huge and she and that black have been stuck in that concrete run for six or seven years, pacing back and forth...The only reason I let the place have her is because she was supposed to have plenty of room. She's on birth control because there's no space for pups."

It is our understanding that National Headquarters of the Humane Society of the US has been informed about this particular case, so we hope it will be possible for Angel and her black friend to get out into the air and sunshine once again.

Not Football
In last week's column it was stated that Pat Stratton's father, Col. Donald Herring, was a football coach. This was in error.

Col. Herring graduated from Princeton College, Oxford, England, and lived for years at Princeton, N.J. He was a top rugby player and wrestler but not a football coach. He served in World Wars I and II, and played golf at Pinehurst 60 years ago. He had a house in Southern Pines and in Princeton, N.J.

"Cattistock," the Stratton residence, was located on the old Capital Highway between ANGEL AND FRIENDS — One of the first animals acquired at the North Carolina Zoo at Asheboro was Angel, shown as a young animal with her owner, Boris de Nissoff in September, 1974. Now a mature animal, she was photographed two weeks ago by Boris in the concrete runway she inhabits with the male black.

Hotel To Host Antiques Show On Apr. 16-18

The Pinehurst Hotel, built in 1900 and currently celebrating 80 years of service, will host an Antiques Show during the Easter weekend, April 16-18.

Many of the top dealers from the southeast and midwest U.S. will exhibit their antiques in the Cardinal Ballroom of the Pinehurst Hotel.

"We are extremely pleased with the high quality of the merchandise to be exhibited at this show," said Pinehurst Hotel and Country Club General Manager Marcus A. Fields. "The wide variety of items available will be interesting to both the avid collector as well as the individual who only has a limited knowledge of antiques. Of course the setting in our historic hotel makes the show complete."

Exhibits will include fine furniture, oriental rugs, art glass, china, cut glass, porcelain, silver, jewelry, dolls, clocks and watches, American art pottery, primitives, restored old tools, and fine books. Hours for the show are as follows: Thursday, April 16, 6-10 p.m.; Friday, April 17, 1-10 p.m.; Saturday, April 18, 1-10 p.m.

Gets Award

Education Specialist Charles E. Swaringen, Jr., of Elizabeth City, has received an "Outstanding" performance rating and a $750 Special Achievement Award for his work at the Aviation Technical Training Center.

Swaringen gives professional and technical guidance to the staff, implements Instructional Systems Development procedures, supervises the planning and development of new curricula and reviews existing ones, conducts instructor training courses, and develops and maintains staffing standards and requirements.

Captain George E. Kriemeyer, Commanding Officer, stated, "Your professional knowledge has been instrumental in making broad and far-reaching changes to training procedures and methods at the Aviation Technical Training Center. These changes will enable ATTC to graduate better trained and motivated individuals to maintain and operate aircraft and systems throughout the Coast Guard."

Charles is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C.E. Swaringen, longtime residents of Pinehurst, where he was born and attended grade and high school. He is married and the father of two sons, both in college, two married daughters, and one granddaughter.

Silver Foils

The traditional Red and White Team Matches were played by Silver Foils Club members on Pinehurst's course no. 3, March 24.

Sixty-eight players were divided into 32 parts for the match play event won by the White team with 115 points over the Reds who scored 89 points.

The team winners receive red and white geraniums. Following play, contestants got together for a party in the Silver Foils room at the Pinehurst Country Club.

Recreation Board Agrees To Extension Of Terms

The board of directors of the Community Recreation Association held its combined annual-meeting last Thursday in Pinehurst.

On the agenda were the financial report, proposed changes in the constitution and by-laws, election of officers and Association business.

Treasurer Diana Belvin said it was difficult to provide an accurate financial report because of the evolving working relationship with the new Village Council. With this in mind, it was agreed that directors' terms would be extended for one year, in order to help maintain a sense of continuity. The problems surround the treasurer's inability to obtain information pertinent to Association's expenditures from the Village.

Directors present at the meeting were Doris Andrews, Bob Alley, Ben Pate, Wade Garner, Diana Belvin and Bob Rufa. Absent was Bob Viall, who has requested that a replacement be found for him. The following officers were asked to extend their terms: Doris Andrews, Chairman; Wade Garner, Vice-Chairman; and Diana Belvin, Treasurer. All agreed. New member Bob Rufa, who was named to replace Tara Dowd, was asked to serve as Secretary.

Among items discussed was the need to fill the position of Summer Recreation Director. Applications for this position will be taken April 15, and anyone interested should drop a note to the Association at Box 505, Pinehurst, or contact one of the Directors.

The Association said it also wishes to remind the community that the Recreation Field in Pinehurst is available for use by individuals and organizations on a rental basis. Those interested can obtain rates and rules governing use by contacting the board.

Finally, it was restated at the meeting that the policy of the Recreation Association is to keep the main Recreation Field open to the general public on Sundays and not have its use monopolized by organized activities such as team practices or games between standing teams. Therefore, this coming Sunday, April 5 has been designated as an official open play day for members of the community. All individuals and families interested in supporting their Recreation Association were urged to come to the Rec Field and play. There will be no organized events, and the field may be used for any legitimate, spontaneous recreational activity. Volunteers are also invited to help clean up the field at this time.

The next Board of Directors meeting will be held Wednesday,

Exchange Hours

Saturday hours at the Sandhills Women's Exchange will be extended to 3 p.m. beginning April 4 and continuing through May 9. They normally close at noon Saturdays.

The last of the season meetings and tea for Exchange members and guests will be on April 15 at the Country Club of North Carolina.

DEED RESTRICTIONS

The courts permit property owners to put in deeds reasonable restrictions on the use of the real estate being transferred. If you are on the verge of purchasing property, it is a good idea to first be satisfied that the deed restrictions or conditions that go with the property will not prevent you from using it as you have planned.

You might find that they prevent you from attaching a television antenna to your roof, or that you can not plant a tree or paint your house without the permission of an architectural committee. There are many items that may appear in the deed restrictions that can be very beneficial to you in that they may help to maintain the value of the property, then again, you may not like some of the conditions or restrictions—if there are any. From the point of view of the buyer, if there are any deed restrictions, they should be spelled out. If you can live with them, fine. If not, there is always a chance they can be negotiated out of the deed.
