All the ways of New York city are magnificent. Her net debt is more than $91,000,000, and her government costs her $40,000,000 a year.

The question, explains the Washington Star, is not whether the United States shall permit or refuse to permit the Panama Canal to be dug, but whether the work of completing the canal shall be attempted by France as a Government instead of by Frenchmen as individuals.

F. C. Wines, in a recent number of the International Record of Charities and Correction, says that in 1850 the ratio of prisoners to population was 250 to the million. Ten years afterward it was 607, a decade later, 852, and eight years ago 1169 to the million.

The convicts in the State prisons and prison reformatories of this country amount to nearly 100,000, and involve an annual cost of about $15,000,000, which, according to the New York Independent, is only a small part of the actual loss to the people as the consequence of crime caused mostly by strong drink.

Says the New York Graphic: "The fact that Congressman Moffatt, of Pennsylvania, is confined in a private asylum, the result of overwork and excitement incident to the recent campaign, has called attention to the fact that over a half dozen Congressmen who were defeated for either re-nomination or reelection have so far this session not appeared in the House. In several instances they are reported as suffering from melancholia, incident to their defeat."

Within late years the demand for hemp has increased enormously, owing, states the Times Democrat, to its use by farmers for binding grain by machine. Some idea of the increased use of hemp twine for this purpose may be found when it is shown that the total amount of hemp manufactured into binding twines in 1889 was only 100 tons, while in 1888 the consumption was 42,000 tons. What is known as the "Rope Trust" have advanced the price since last August of Manila and Sisal hemp from four to five cents a pound.

In the Servian Constitutional Convention there are 108 peasants, who appear in the dress of country people, most of them wearing sandals on their feet, and all of them, without exception, having a long knife either dangling at their side or stuck in the girdle. The wearing of this weapon is the historic distinction of a freeman in Servia, and the fashion is followed by some 160 other Deputies belonging to the class of merchants and artisans. This "Great Skuptschina," as it is called, is to revise the Servian Constitution.

The annual report of the tomato pack of the United States and Canada, as compiled by the American Grocer, indicates a second year of over-production. In 1888, in spite of cold, a backward season, heavy periods of rainfall in some States and long drouths in others, and early killing frosts in October, there was put up the unusually large pack of 8,319,437 cases of two dozen cans each, or a total of 79,668,488 cans, coating at points of production $6,000,000, and reaching consumers at a total expense of $8,000,000. This is against 2,817,048 cases in 1887. The canning industry has grown rapidly in the Western and Southern States, largely reducing the demand upon Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York for such goods. In a few years each section of the country bids fair to supply its wants from home canneries. The leading points of production are Maryland and Virginia, credited with 1,118,793 cases; New Jersey, 789,868; Delaware, 287,080; New York, 197,482; Western States, 708,599; Eastern States, 48,360; Canada, 73,990.

From the following statistics it will be seen that there is plenty of room on the earth for all the people who inhabit it, and that there is no fear of our planet becoming overpopulated at present. The entire population of the world (now estimated at 1,400,000,000) could stand on the space occupied by New York, Brooklyn and Jersey City. The State of New York would in this way accommodate 500 times the present population of the world. The entire population of the world, placed side by side, and allowing two feet to each person, would encircle the earth twenty times. The States of Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont, taken together, are as large as England. Any one of the States of Georgia, Illinois, Iowa and North Carolina is as large as England. Kansas is as large as England and Scotland together. Ireland is about the size of Maine. France is more than twice as large as England, Wales and Scotland together. Texas is thirty-five times as large as Massachusetts, or as large as Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Ohio and Indiana combined. The entire population of the United States could be provided for in the State of Texas, allowing each man, woman and child four acres of land. The entire population of the world could be provided for in the United States, allowing each person one and a half acres.

Prince Bismarck's attack of neuralgia is complicated with rheumatism, St. Vitus's dance, and insomnia. He continues to work against the advice of his physician. His visits to the Chancellerie are marked by frequent outbursts of passion and other evidences of extreme irritability. The Turks as Soldiers. Mr. Villiers, the English war correspondent, acents the battle from afar off now. He is convinced that sooner or later Britain will have to submit the question of the Russian advance on Constantinople to the arbitration of the sword. Like many Englishmen he is doubtful, very doubtful, of the result. Mr. Villiers regrets that England did not clutch Turkey when she had the chance to do so, not because of the added wealth that the Turkish possessions would give to Britain, but because the word "Empire" in the Turkish soldier's mind, and his appreciation of these qualities, agrees with every war correspondent who has seen the Turks in battle. The First Napoleon said of the British army: "Give me these men with French officers, and I shall conquer the world." The Turkish soldier, Villiers says: "Give me this fighting material, under British officers, and the advantage to us would be tremendous." But the Turkish soldier is not wholly dependent upon his officers. He has seen them, said Villiers, "when their leaders were shot down, continue to press forward with irresistible fury. Not so with the Russian soldier, when his officer is disabled; he stands still, and at a loss. The church is dominant in both armies. The Russian fights for his God and his church, and the Turk fights for his God and his church. And this is one of the greatest difficulties that Britain, with its volunteer army, would have to meet in a conflict with Russia and its impressed army, though dragged to unwilling service, the Russian soldiers, by conviction and training, are steeped in a superstition that makes them regardless of death."

Jefferson Davis on Race Riots. In a personal letter to Park Commissioner Root, of Atlanta, Mr. Jefferson Davis writes concerning the race riots in Mississippi: "The tendency to change seems to grow upon the negroes with the indulgence of their right to leave at will. The accounts of riots in this State have been greatly exaggerated. Though it may seem singular, it is true that race conflicts generally occur where the negroes are few compared to the whites and the personal association much closer than on the plantations. On our island we have five hundred or six hundred blacks and say ten or a dozen whites. There has never been a disturbance among them. We for several years had a negro magistrate. He has now gone away, but before his departure a well behaved, sober young man defeated the negro in the last election contest, which at least shows that the negroes to a large extent are willing to trust a white man."

The Anarchist's "Dynamite Guide." A peculiar book called the "Dynamite Guide" has recently been published in England and has attained wide circulation. As its name would indicate, this cheerful little work is designed to aid the anarchists in the propagation of their gospel by means of dynamite, etc. Among the explosives to be used are "Fenian fire," which is reported excellent for throwing among policemen or cavalry; "Irradiate fire," suffocating bombshells; "explosive cigarettes," "sudden-grenades," and various other compounds, the preparation of which with dynamite, nitro-benzene and similar combustible materials is lucidly described. With this terrible information are intermingled instructions in street fighting and general revolutionary tactics. —San Francisco Chronicle.

Another negro who stands charged with the brutal murder of Mrs. Candace Earp, in Robeson county, has been caught. S E Park took his man to Lumberton. He got news before he arrived there that a mob was waiting at the town of Roland to take the negroes and lynch them. This made it necessary to take them by another route. He got them safely lodged in the county jail, but so great is the indignation against them that they may yet be lynched.

In the Legislature the joint committee on the railway commission reported a bill to create a commission. There was a meeting of the leading railway officials at Raleigh with the Legislative committee. Among the railway men present were Sol Haas, T M R Talcott and A B Andrews, of the Richmond and Danville system; H H Waters, of the Coast Line system; and John C Winder, of the Seaboard system. It was agreed by the railway officials that the provision in the bill that the commission should make all rates was harsh and improper. It was also contended that the minimum penalty for a violation of the rules of the commission, which was the thousand dollars, was excessive. In the bill as reported, the minimum penalty is made one hundred dollars. Another change made in the bill as finally presented is that the right to elect members of the commission shall always rest in the Legislature. More interest is felt in this measure than any before the Legislature.

The news reached Chattanooga that the Queen & Crescent system has purchased the Anniston and Cincinnati railroad, which connects Anniston and Atalla, Alabama. The road is thirty-five miles in length. An accommodation train between Chattanooga and Anniston is to be put on the road in a few days. The new purchase will give the Queen & Crescent system one of the most important feeders in the south, as the road runs through a rich mineral soil.

A shocking accident occurred the Croesoting Brick works of Guild, White & Gillespie, at Chattanooga, which resulted in the death of H T Falls, the superintendent, and his son, Jesse Falls, is dying. The plant had just been put into operation when the boiler containing many barrels of coal tar exploded, covering the elder Falls with tar which was ignited by the red hot bricks, and his flesh was soon burned until it was impossible to recognize the unfortunate man. Jesse Falls was also covered from head to foot with the boiling tar, and is dying from his injuries. William Parks and a man named Cowan were also badly burned. The boiler had a cast iron head, and the explosion is supposed to have been caused by the ignition of the gas which arose from the heated tar. The works are a total wreck. The unfortunate affair has cast a gloom over the entire city.

The suit of Mrs Mollie Owen against T G Ryman for false detention and breach of contract, is occupying the attention of the circuit court at Nashville. The public here are familiar with the plan Captain Ryman adopted for aiding in carrying the prohibition amendments. William Owen was shot and killed in a saloon in Nashville on the night before the day of the election. The next day Captain Ryman took Mrs Owen all over town in an open carriage, carrying a banner on which was an inscription calculated to aid the success of prohibition. Mrs Owen claims that Captain Ryman promised to pay over $1,500 for thus exposing herself, though a grief-stricken widow, to the gaze of the multitudinous, to influence against the amendment. Upon Captain Ryman refusing to pay this amount she brought suit.

The Texas Pony. The most inexperienced horseman will not have to think around the animal twice in order to take a Texas pony; that is, one which is full bred, with no admixture. He has fine deer-like legs, a very long body, with a pronounced roach just forward of the coupling, and possibly a "glass eye" and a pinto hide. Any old cowboy will point him out as the only creature suitable for his purposes. Hard to break, because he has an amount of latent devil in his disposition, he does not break his legs or fall over backward in the "pitching" process as does the "cayuse" of the Northwest. I think he is small and shriveled up like a Mexican because of his dry, hot habitat, over which he has to walk many miles to get his dinner. But, in compensation, he can cover leagues of his native plains, bearing a scorchingly disproportionate large man, with an ease that to him is as easy as a rider which is little short of miraculous. —Century.

The cotton returns of the department of agriculture at Washington, D. C., make the average close of the picking season six days later than last year on account of the later maturity of the crop and retarded rains. In many counties in the Southwest the crop has not yet been fully harvested. Careful consolidation of the returns makes the proportion marketed 84.3 per cent, the averages of States being as follows: Virginia 88, North Carolina 84, South Carolina 85, Georgia 87, Florida 87, Alabama 82, Mississippi 82, Louisiana 88, Texas 84, Arkansas 87, Tennessee 88.

The staple is shorter than last year, and there is more discolored and trashy fibre. The caterpillar and boll worm have been widely distributed, but the destruction by them have been greatly limited by insecticide.

Seed have been sold at 12 to 16 cents per bushel near lines of railroad, mostly by tenants, proprietors finding it more valuable for feeding and fertilizing purposes.

Grotesque Sacred Nuts. Japanese sacred nuts are the latest fad in the market, and are having a large sale as curiosities.

Their intrinsic value is small, but in former times the uneducated Japanese used to worship them. They are to be seen at most fashionable purveying stores that aim to keep up with the procession.

In shape they are exactly like a pair of mounted ox-horns. They are two inches from tip to tip and are black in color, looking not unlike a black butterfly. The taste is very similar to that of a Brazil nut. They retail at from ten to twenty-five cents apiece, according to size.

The remarkable quality about them is that they will keep sweet and palatable for twenty years from the time they are gathered. These nuts grow in the marshes of Japan.

WASHINGTON, D. C.

HOUSE AND SENATE.

On National Law-Makers Deliberate on Measures for the Public Good.

MONDAY—HOUSE.—The Small-Elliott contested election was regularly taken up in the House this morning, and its consideration consumed the greater part of the day. Pending further debate the matter went over.

SENATE.—Among the Senate bills reported from committees and placed on the Calendar was one appropriating $30,000 for the construction of iron bridge from Fort Monroe to Elizabeth City, Va., and one to provide for the better enforcement of the quarantine laws and regulations of the United States, and for the establishment of a national board of health.

WEDNESDAY.—The chamber of the House presented a lively scene this morning, although nothing of a sensational character was expected. The galleries were filled an hour before noon by a crowd of interested spectators who were eager to witness the ceremonies attending the counting of the electoral vote. Ladies were in a large majority and with their handsome costumes formed a pretty frame to the kaleidoscopic picture presented on the floor below. The corridors in the rear of the galleries were thronged with sightseers who were contented by rising on their tip-toes to catch a glimpse over the shoulders of less fortunate persons who had secured a foothold in the doorway. Many ladies were upon the floor pleading with members for passes to the already overflowing galleries.

After the Journal was read legislative proceedings were suspended, and the Senators, headed by their officers, filed into the chamber, bringing with them the returns of electoral colleges.

The presiding officer upon receiving the result said: "The state of the vote for President of the United States, as delivered to the Senate, is as follows: —

Benjamin Harrison, 233 votes, and Grover Cleveland, of the State of New York, has received 168 votes. The state of the vote for Vice-President of the United States, as delivered to the President of the Senate, is as follows: —

Whole number of electors appointed to vote for President of the United States is 401, of which a majority is 201. Levi P Morton, of the State of New York, has received 233 votes, and Allen G Thurman, of the State of Ohio, has received 168 votes.

The count of the electoral vote having been concluded and the result declared, the Senators retired to their own chamber.

The Senate held only a short executive session.

THURSDAY.—The House passed most of the day discussing a resolution giving instructions to the House conferees on the territorial bill.

The Senate to-day listened to a discussion of the Texas election outrages. After a brief secret session, the Senate adjourned.

FRIDAY.—In the House to day, Mr Mills, from the Committee on Ways and Means, reported back the Mills tariff bill, with Senate amendments, which was referred to the Committee of the Whole.

Mr Mills also reported a resolution questioning the constitutionality of the Senate substitute.

The Senate bill appropriating $250,000 to protest American interests in Panama was passed.

The Senate considered the Texas elections resolution and the resolutions on the death of Representative Robertson.

The Duty on Foreign Rice. The famous Patna rice case at New Orleans, which has been pending before Judge Billings, in the United States Circuit Court, for the recovery of the excess of duties collected on unclean Patna rice, has been decided against the plaintiffs in favor of the Government.

This is a reversal of the ruling of years ago on the importations of rough Bengal rice at other than the rate of duty imposed on cleaned, which it is now decided to be.

The imports of this style last year were over 100,000 bags, and it will thus be seen that the decision is of considerable importance in its relations to, and possibly influence on, the rice markets of the United States.

The Phosphate Rock Market. A peculiar state of affairs exists in the phosphate rock market by the more active of two elements being elevated at the expense of its rival product. Land rock is in good demand and commands high figures on account of comparatively light supplies caused by unfavorable weather and scarcity of labor, while river-rock is accumulating with no encouragement for an early outlet. This anomalous condition is worrying the trade in Charleston, and all the blame is attributed to the high freight rates demanded for export cargoes.

Is it right to license a man to sell that which will make a man drunk, and then punish the man for being drunk?
