Mr. J. E. Morgan, who has been quite sick with pneumonia, we are pleased to chronicle, is very much improved. He is now sitting up in his room, but is not allowed to go out doors yet by his physicians for fear of a relapse.

The almanac of the New York World for 1886 is one of the handiest and most complete publications of the kind we have seen. It is an evidence of the energy and enterprise that have brought the circulation of the paper from 16,000 in 1883 to 220,000 in 1886.

A marriage took place in Elevation recently under peculiar circumstances. The bridegroom, under direction of a Justice of the Peace, had to come to time and was united in marriage to the young lady whom he had wooed, won and promised to marry, though he felt disinclined so to do. The young lady did not propose to be trifled with, she made him stand by his pledge.

Go to Williamson & Blake for molasses.

Mr. J. C. Bingham is the authorized agent at this place for the Elkin Valley Woolen Mills, and we would suggest that all of our country friends who have wool to be carded or spun into yarn or woven into cloth to leave it with Mr. B. and have it sent to these mills and you will be surprised to know how cheap the work can be done.

Early Peas

I noticed in the Southern Cultivator last Spring an account of a very early cornfield pea. I sent and got one pint, for which I paid one dollar. I find it to be the earliest and best table pea I ever saw.

An Aroscious Murder

An aroscious murder was committed near Loudon, Tenn., on the 17th inst. Thos. S. Gray, a prominent farmer, returned at noon from a funeral, he found lying on the floor of her room his young wife, with her throat cut from ear to ear and her head filled with bullets. Her baby was sitting near, dabbling in a pool of its mother's blood. As soon as Mr. Gray recovered from the shock he gave the alarm and possession organized. It was soon discovered that John Gillespie, a negro, had committed the deed. About seven miles from Loudon he was overtaken by Gibson Gibbons. The negro did not obey the command to halt and Gibbons shot him through the back Gillespie was then conveyed to Saeewater, where he was jailed. At 11:30 p. m. a mob of 300 persons got possession of Gillespie. He made full confession of the crime and will surely hang.
