The Best People

"Who are they? I should say they are those, and those only, who are themselves genuine and who are able to sense and to appreciate the quality of genuineness in people and in things. They are distinguished in the main by reason of a sense of values—through having achieved perspective. They do not judge people by appearances, nor merchandise by its price. They are the open-minded, broad-gauged, sane and simple folk whom adversity does not crush nor fortune make overproud. They are the elect of earth through the gift of discrimination, and with power of discrimination, they are able to select the best."

Of Interest to North Carolina.

North Carolina has more people engaged in manufacturing than any other Southern state.

High Point is second only to Grand Rapids as the greatest furniture market in America.

The last census shows that of the 1,889,318 persons in North Carolina 1,804,028 were born in the state.

North Carolina has $141,000,000 invested in manufacturing enterprises, against $68,000,000 five years ago. Then the value of products manufactured was $85,000,000 and to-day it is $142,500,000.

The industrial growth of North Carolina is shown by the growth in the number of charters granted in the state. In 1903 there were 21; in 1904 there were 540; in 1905 there were 603 and thus far this year 962.

In North Carolina only four tenths of one per cent. of the population are of foreign parentage, while in New York it is 50.3 per cent. and in North Dakota 67.3. North Carolina has the smallest percentage of foreigners of any state in the Union.

In 1900 there were 260,000 persons in the other Southern states that were born in North Carolina. Texas had 23,000, Georgia 32,000, Arkansas 20,000, South Carolina 29,000 and Virginia 53,000 native Tar Heels.

North Carolina leads all the Southern states in increase of capital invested and is second only to Virginia in the total amount, and that by only eight million dollars. While Virginia's increase was only fifty-five millions in five years, North Carolina's was seventy-three millions.

The census of 1900 showed three comparative tables of progress: Population, Manufactures and Agriculture. Only two states in all the Union bettered their relative positions in all three of these tables, Texas and North Carolina. Texas advanced three points and North Carolina seven points, thus the Tar Heel State led all the 44.—North Carolina Baptist.

Sinews of War Needed.

To the Editor: I was approached a few days ago by a good member of the Southern Cotton Association, who has paid his dues, with the question—why there was no more active campaign being made from the headquarters of the Southern Cotton Association than has been recently. My reply was that the best reason I knew was that the Association was without funds to prosecute the work.

It is strange that people would expect an organization of this kind, or any other kind to be in good working order if its membership, and those receiving the benefits from it, fail to give it at least sufficient financial support to pay the actual expenses of the organization; nevertheless, this seems to be true with a large portion of the membership, and those receiving the benefits of the Southern Cotton Association in North Carolina.

I can but believe that if the people of the State were to calmly consider the advantages and benefits that have been derived from the efforts put forth by this organization, and the possibilities that the continued education and agitation in this line have in store for North Carolina and the South, and realize the loss and disaster that might follow the abandonment of the organization, they would come to its financial rescue and put the organization on a good financial working basis.

There are people in the State who have contributed liberally of their means and energies to support this work, but there are others in large numbers, who have perhaps received great benefits from the Association that have not given it any assistance whatever. If the reader is one of that class, ask yourself the question—have you done your duty by this Southern organization. If you cannot get a satisfactory answer, confer with C. C. Moore, of Charlotte, or T. B. Parker, of Raleigh.

Yours very respectfully,
A. J. MCKINNON.

Servants.

Complaints about servants are universal. Ever since we have been reading the servant problem has been a source of jokes, in one mood, and homilies, in another, in the Northern papers. Within ten years conditions have become as acute in the South.

We have no "solution" to offer. The golden rule is the only solution we know of; and what's the use to offer that?

But we have a remark or two to submit. Since the complaints are universal, is it not possible that the fault may not be all on one side? If you employ six cooks and none of them please, is there not ground for self-examination? Our observation is that there are people who can get along well with servants whom others find it impossible to tolerate. There is an art of managing—and all good house-keepers should contrive to acquire it. The servant problem is largely the woman's problem; and the Southern woman ought to master it. We can make good servants, we should not expect to pick them up. Something is likely to be wrong with the house-keeper who is forever in trouble about servants.

Wages have risen. Colored men now receive enough money to keep their wives at home. That deprives us of the better class of servants; but it gives the negro a home, and home-life, which are the best possessions of civilization. Most of us will not be able to employ more than one servant under the higher wages. Many cannot afford one. It becomes us all, therefore, to learn to be independent. Work is the best thing in the world. Let us cease to abhor it. The love of ease is the mark of degeneracy. Accept the situation; do your work gladly. Do not complain of your lot.

The opportunity for the poor is great. If colored servants can command good wages, white servants can command better. House-keeping, nursing, sewing and cooking—each a great calling—offer open doors for poor girls in the South. Let them not be ashamed to enter them. They offer self-respect, independence and usefulness. Jesus Christ put the servant above the king—J. W. Bailey.
