RED BUCK TALKS POLITICS.

Says That Locke Craig and Congress-Man Morehead may be candidates for Governor in 1912.

In a recent letter from Washington to the Charlotte Observer, Mr. H. E. C. Bryant makes the following political observations:

"The west demands recognition from the Democrats. The people of that vast and glorious region went to defeat last year but their leader, Locke Craig, never sulked for a moment but went forth to battle for his party and made a brilliant campaign. The names of several well-known men, among them C. W. Tillett, of Charlotte, and R. A. Doughton, of Sparta, are mentioned in connection with this honor but as the days pass the selection of Craig without a contest becomes more certain, and unless there is a slip between the cup and the lip, and such things are always possible, the mountain orator will be honored.

"In the event that Craig and Morehead lead their respective parties the contest will be most interesting. Both candidates would have a large personal following which would become active early in the campaign. The Republicans believe that they are going to elect the next Governor of the State and name the man to succeed Senator Simmons. It is safe to predict at this stage of the game that Thomas Settle, of Asheville, will be the commander-in-chief of the radical forces which does not necessarily mean that Leaders Duncan and Adams will be down and out but that the Republicans will be, as they always are at the close of a contest with Democrats, united and fighting under one banner, even those who are now abusing the President for his appointment of Connor will be in line.

"Some interesting gossip to the effect that Governor Kitchin is no longer considered a candidate for the eastern senatorship has drifted this way. It is said that his brother, Claude, who stands alone for free lumber and free peanuts, and as Jeff Davis, of Arkansas says, free everything, will take his place in the contest against Senator Simmons. Some wise ones say that Judge Walter Clark, in response to a letter from some dear friend in Yancey, or elsewhere, is contemplating making the race. This is not common talk but here and there little intimations are leaking out.

"A real Richmond, Dr. George Mebane, of Spray, is reported to be a candidate to succeed Representative Morehead in the fifth. Dr. Mebane was a delegate to the Denver convention last year, representing his district. There is little doubt, I think from the information that I have, that he will be in the race for the nomination if not for the election.

"Down in the sixth congressional district, where Hannibal LaFayette Godwin reigns, there is talk of A. J. McKinnon, better known as Sandy Kinnon, of Maxton. If Robeson desired to send a Scotchman and will unite on a man it would take hard work to keep him from victory.

The Wage-Earner.

Here is a song to the salaried man. Who hustles each day of the year. His family lives on a most modest plan.

They've nothing expensive or dear. No Wall street affairs does he worry about.

He hasn't a million at stake. And he don't have to wonder how much he's out.

Or gloat over what he may make. The market on copper may rise or may fall.

He's not interested a bit; Conditions of cotton don't fret him a fit.

Each Saturday night he is given his pay, Enough and a little to save;

and he isn't alarmed lest a stock slump some day. Send him down to a suicide's grave

He don't lie awake through the long lonesome night, And figure on how to get rich;

He has no designs nor great projects in sight. That may land him at last in the ditch.

He peacefully sleeps, and when dawn greets his eyes He goes to his store or his shop,

Nor wonders if market quotations will rise. Nor worries because they may drop.

He lives for his wife and his little ones dear. He seeks not for honors nor fame;

In comfort they happily live through the year, And nobody questions their name.

The millionaire broker is worried with care, He frets through his life's little span;

But peace is the portion that falls as the share Of the satisfied salaried man.

—E. A. Brinninstool, in Los Angeles Express.

The June numbers of the Youth's Companion are typical. No issues could be picked out which would better exemplify the character of the contributors to the paper and that quality of variety which gives the Companion its hold on nearly three millions of readers of all ages.

The presidents of Harvard and of Princeton Universities, and Admiral Sigsbee of the United States Navy are prominent among the writers for these issues. There are the opening instalments of a serial story of the circus that will keep every young fellow in wrapt enjoyment; there are three stories of perilous adventure, besides one of F. W. Calkins' stirring Indian tales, and there are other stories by Grace Gallaher, C. A. Stephens and Henry Gardner Huntling—stories that have never been surpassed in their kind, even in The Youth's Companion.

Ammonia for Silverware.

To clean silverware, either solid or plated, use a weak solution of ammonia (twenty parts water to one of ammonia) and soap. Rub with a brush and rinse in alcohol. This is for bright or polished finish. For satin or frosted finish, use the weak solution of ammonia and baking soda. Wet the brush, rub on the soap, then dip brush into dry baking soda and scrub the article thoroughly. Repeat if necessary. Do not use soda on gray silver, it will make it all the same color.—National Magazine.

"I was speedily cured of stomach complaint by Mi-o-na. Anything I can say in favor of Mi-o-na is not too strong."—William Hess, Benton Harbor, Mich.
