The Fourth Well Spent

The children and grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Y. E. Parker gathered at the old home and celebrated the Fourth with loving greetings and old times in their hearts.

We children felt like we had called back twenty years when we had played, worked and fished together. The grandchildren told Grandpa and Grandma that they loved to come to their house and play in the shade of the trees, and eat the plentiful fruit.

At noon we spread a most sumptuous dinner. It consisted of vegetables, chickens, sweets and fruits. Mr. Y. Z. Parker, being the youngest, was called on to ask the blessing which he did in a touching way, wishing for many more Fourths and for the old home not to be saddened.

In the evening we gathered in the shady grove and talked, and sung, while the younger ones played games, and went in bathing. The time to go home was at hand and we departed feeling that the day had been very short.

A Daughter, Bethany Narron.

WITH THE CHURCHES

Bakery Assured

A bakery, which has long been a need in Smithfield is now an assured fact. Mr. L. H. Hauss, of Richmond, Va., is here making the arrangements for opening up, which event will probably take place in ten days. One of the new stores recently completed by Ashley Smith will be the home of the bakery. It will be new, clean and sanitary in every sense of the word. Mr. Hauss says that he will bake every day and will be able to supply the public with bread, rolls, cake and pies. He will make a fourteen ounce loaf which will sell at ten cents.

In addition to the bakery Mr. Hauss will carry a good line of fancy groceries, which will be handled on the cash and carry plan.

Winners in Poster Contest

In the contest for the best posters calling attention to the value of milk William Lassiter receives first prize, and Leland Parrish, second. The posters were judged by Mr. Kimrey, of the Dairy Division of the State Department of Agriculture, who is here helping with "Milk Day" at the local drug stores.

The first prize is eight drink tickets, and the second four tickets, which are given by Hood Bros., Creech Drug Company and Byrd Drug Co.

County Agent of Craven Here

Mr. J. G. Lawton, County Farm Agent of Craven county and Mr. W. R. Pate, also of Craven, were in the city yesterday for a short time. Mr. Lawton has been working Co-operative Marketing in his county and said that up to June 30th, contracts to the amount of 3,000,000 pounds of tobacco and 2500 bales of cotton have been signed.
