Vote In Democratic Primary Today Light First Vote Cast

The vote in the Democratic County primary today was light, probably due to General Green who has invaded the cotton patches during the past rainy season, and the voters were perhaps more interested in their crops than candidates. It has been impossible to get complete returns from all of the seventeen townships and probably inaccuracies in the reports occur, but we are giving the best report possible as they come in.

CRAIG IS REPORTED

Legislature Dies On Eve of Primary

Rutherfordton, June 7 .- Former State Senator Solomon Gallert, 57, candidate for the Democratic nomination for representative, died suddenly yesterday on the eve of the State primary, while campaigning, on the road six miles from here. Physicians said he had over-exerted himself in efforts to get his automobile out of the mud in which it had become stalled.

Mr. Gallert had served many terms in the Legislature and was well-known throughout the State.

Smithfield Township Pulls Something New In The Way of Counting Votes

Smithfield township pulled off something entirely new in the primary here today, when E. S. Abell, Chairman of the Democrat ic Executive Committee, suggested the idea of having the women participate in the counting of the votes. It has been intimated that in previous elections there has been unfairness in the count, and Col. Abell's idea made an immediate hit.. Accordingly it was arranged that the following persons should have charge of counting the votes:

State box: N. L. Perkins, Mrs. George Ross Pou, T. H. Brooks and T. C. Young.

County Box. St. Julian L. Springs, Mrs. Lee E. Sanders, N. M. Lawrence and C. A. Creech.

Congressional Box: W. D. Avera, Mrs. J. A. Narron, H. P. Stevens and W. H. Lassiter.

Quite a number of ladies were present in the Court House during the count.

MAINTAIN STRENGTH WILL COME LATER

Dismally slow returns from Saturday's State-wide primary, the first quadriennial Democratic contest in which women participated as voters gave Angus Wilton McLean a two to one lead over Josiah W. Bailey for the gubernatorial nomination. Two hundred and eleven precincts out of 1,721, representing scattering returns from 35 counties, with only Cabarrus complete, show McLean, 16,878; and Bailey 8.121.

Indications at midnight approached indicated that the tabulation of complete figures would rival in difficulty, if not surpass the primary four years ago, when with Robert N. Page eliminated the anxious calculators sat down to a task of days to determine the lead between O. Max Gardner and Cameron Morrison who later ran off their battle in a second primary.

While there are no second primary complications involved in the governorship race, the task of counting returns, with many county contest adding to the problems, assure a long drawn out siege of mathematics.

Friends of Mr. Bailey contend that his strength will not appear until the rural precincts are brought to light and see nothing discouraging in the early trend toward McLean. Mr. McLean's friends, on the other hand see vindication of their claims that their candidate will sweep the state by a majority of around 50,-
