WASH. WINS SERIES

KENLY SCHOOL TO OPEN WEDNESDAY

Opening Was Delayed In Order To Have Full Attendance Later

MEMBERS OF FACULTY

Kenly, Oct. 8.—The Kenly High School will open on Wednesday, Oct. 15 at nine o'clock. All parents are urged to have their children enter on the first day. The county Board of Education delayed the opening, hoping that all patrons would find it possible to spare their children from work on the farm by this time. All children should have equal chances in school; but when a boy or girl is delayed three weeks or a month, it is evident that he or she is at a great disadvantage.

Parents want the best for their boys and girls, and they are urged to secure this for them by co-operating with the school authorities in having a good attendance. It is their purpose to serve you to the best of their ability; but it is needless to say that they are handicapped when pupils are late in entering or attend irregularly.

When'er a circus comes to town,
Now isn't it a fac'
That every youngster'd like to ride
Upon the camel's back?
This funny clumsy fellow has
Two humps quite plainly seen,
It's fun to climb upon him
And just straddle in between.

YOUTH CHALLENGED AGE AND WON

Stanley "Buck" Harris, 28-year-old manager of the Washington Senators, pitted his baseball skill against a worthy veteran in John H. McGraw, greatest baseball manager in the history of our national game, and won.

Tar Heel Boy Won Two of Senators Four Games

Washington, Oct. 9.—Tom Zachary owns Washington tonight—at least that part of Washington which is of the baseball world, and civic pride in the achievements of its ball team makes all Washington baseball rooters.

It was a day of doldrum in the beginning of the game, and until the fifth inning with New York in the lead, but Oh! papa, when the two runs for Washington flashed out in that inning, joy stirred all Washington, who heard of it to great shouts of glee.

And Zachary, North Carolina Southpaw, kept the Giants guessing and held them to the one run of the first inning. Well the sky was the limit in the praise for him. He had saved the day. He had tied the games of the world series. It meant there was another day, and another chance for the Washington team to gather to itself the world championship.

Zachary had won high place before the victory his good left arm gave the Nationals this afternoon. Sunday's game to his credit, today's game is added, making him victor in two of the three games Washington has won in the world series. North

BASEBALL LOSES ANOTHER LEADER

Jake Daubert, Veteran Captain of Cincinnati, Dies From Operation.

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 9.—Jake Daubert, captain of the Cincinnati Reds, died early today at the Good Samaritan hospital.

Death came to the veteran ball player after a valiant fight against complications which set in following an operation last Thursday for the removal of his appendicitis. Blood transfusion was resorted to yesterday in an effort to prolong his life, but the illness had so absorbed his vitality, that it was of no avail.

Jacob Ellsworth Daubert was born April 17, 1835, in the mining town of Shamokin, Pa. He was married and the father of two children.

Carolinians in Washington are happy tonight over the winning of the town team, and joyful that it is a North Carolinian who turned the trick.

"Great is Zachary, of North Carolina," is the word that goes along the line as the baseball fans give praise where praise is due. If Washington wins the world series, it will be on the brow of Zachary that the laurel wreath befalls. All Washington acclaims him by reason of the great work he has done.

McNeely's Double in 12th Decides It SCORE IS 4 TO 3

In the seventh and decisive contest for the baseball supremacy of the world, the Washington Senators won over John McGraw's hard hitting Giants. The game was close from start to finish and it took three extra innings to break the tie. The final score was 4 to 3 with Washington at the long end. Walter Johnson, Washington pitcher, having lost two previous games in the series, showed great form today, pitching air tight ball with men on bases. It had been thought that the two defeats of Walter's would break down Washington's morale and the team would crumble before the setday hammering of an unkempt fate.

But as we suggested before, the wildcat knows only the jungle law of struggling on with claw and fang until one or both parties are cut to ribbons.

Harris, the youthful manager of the Senators, he drawing first blood with a home run in the fourth and getting four hits out of six trips to the bat.
