

Ask Governor To Back Stringent Game Laws

Dr. William Hornaday, noted naturalist and chairman of the Permanent Wild Life Protection Fund, of New York, has written Governor McLean urging the passage of the bill at the present session of the General Assembly making large reductions in bag limits on all game in this State.

"In the sane conservation of the killable game," Dr. Hornaday stated in his letter, "your leadership is now urgently needed. The migratory and non-migratory game of our nation,—and of every State, without one single exception,—now is about to be smothered and blotted out by overwhelming grand armies of hunters, automobiles, machine guns, natural enemies and drainage industries. This you undoubtedly already know.

"The answer to this deadly situation is: (1) big reductions in bag limits and open seasons; (2) much more effective law enforcement; (3) more sanctuaries, and (4) systematic and widespread feeding of game."

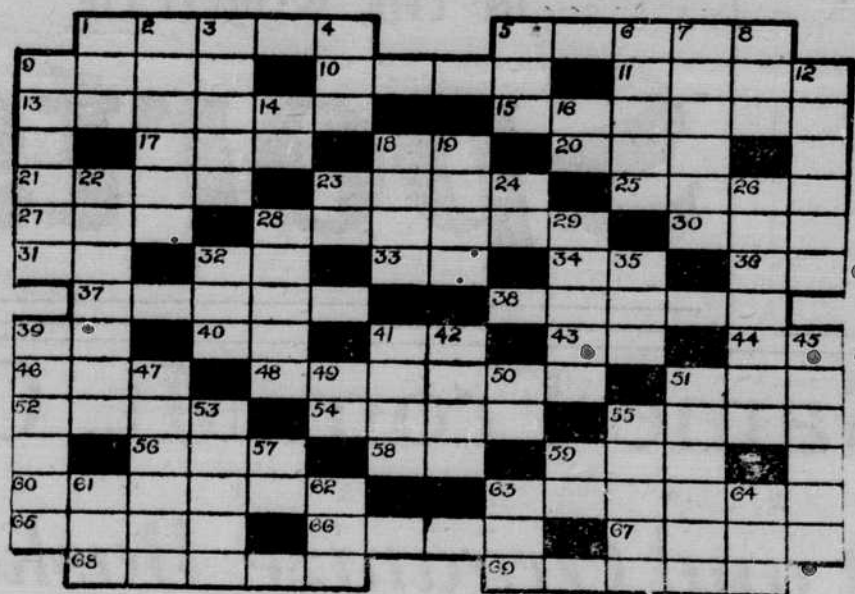

Prominent among the members of the Permanent Wild Life Protection Fund are George Eastman, Henry Ford, John D. Archbold, George F. Baker, and George D. Pratt. The organization was founded by Mrs. Russell Sage, Andrew Carnegie, and others.

The number of words found in old English literature does not exceed 30,000, while the new dictionaries today have listed more than 400,000, mostly of foreign origin. It is strange to note, however, that most authors use mainly English words. Shakespeare used 90 per cent and the English Bible contains 94 percent.
