5,111 DIE WITHOUT MEDICAL CARE DESPITE 2,200 DOCTORS
RALEIGH, Jan. 8.—In spite of the presence in North Carolina of 2,200 practicing physicians, 5,111 persons—2,296 white and 2,815 Indians and negroes—died in this state in 1926 without the benefit of medical attention, figures made public today by the State Board of Health show.
The vital statistics bureau extracts the figures from the total of 34,608 deaths reported to the state department of health during the year.
Out of every hundred persons dying during 1926, according to the figures, 14.7 persons did not have medical attention. Of the 5,111 deaths without medical attention reported, 2,761 were negroes and 2,350 were white.
Forsyth county led the list of such deaths with 144, 53 of whom were white. Clay county with nine, and Transylvania, with 10, were the lowest. Forsyth has an unusually high percentage of negro population and it is among the negroes that the most deaths without medical attention occur, it was pointed out.
Figures for the largest counties in the state are: Halifax, 143—127 white; Mecklenburg, 85—25 white; Guilford, 65—36 white; Buncombe, 69—50 white; Chatham, 51—35 white; Pitt, 123—37 white; Franklin, 53—19 white; Orange, 37—19 white; Durham, 25—14 white; Lee, 12—4 ham, 34—11 white; Wayne, 97—31 white; Wayne, 97—31 white; Johnston, 86—45 white; Nash, 64—21 white; Harnett, 56—22 white.—Associated Press.
